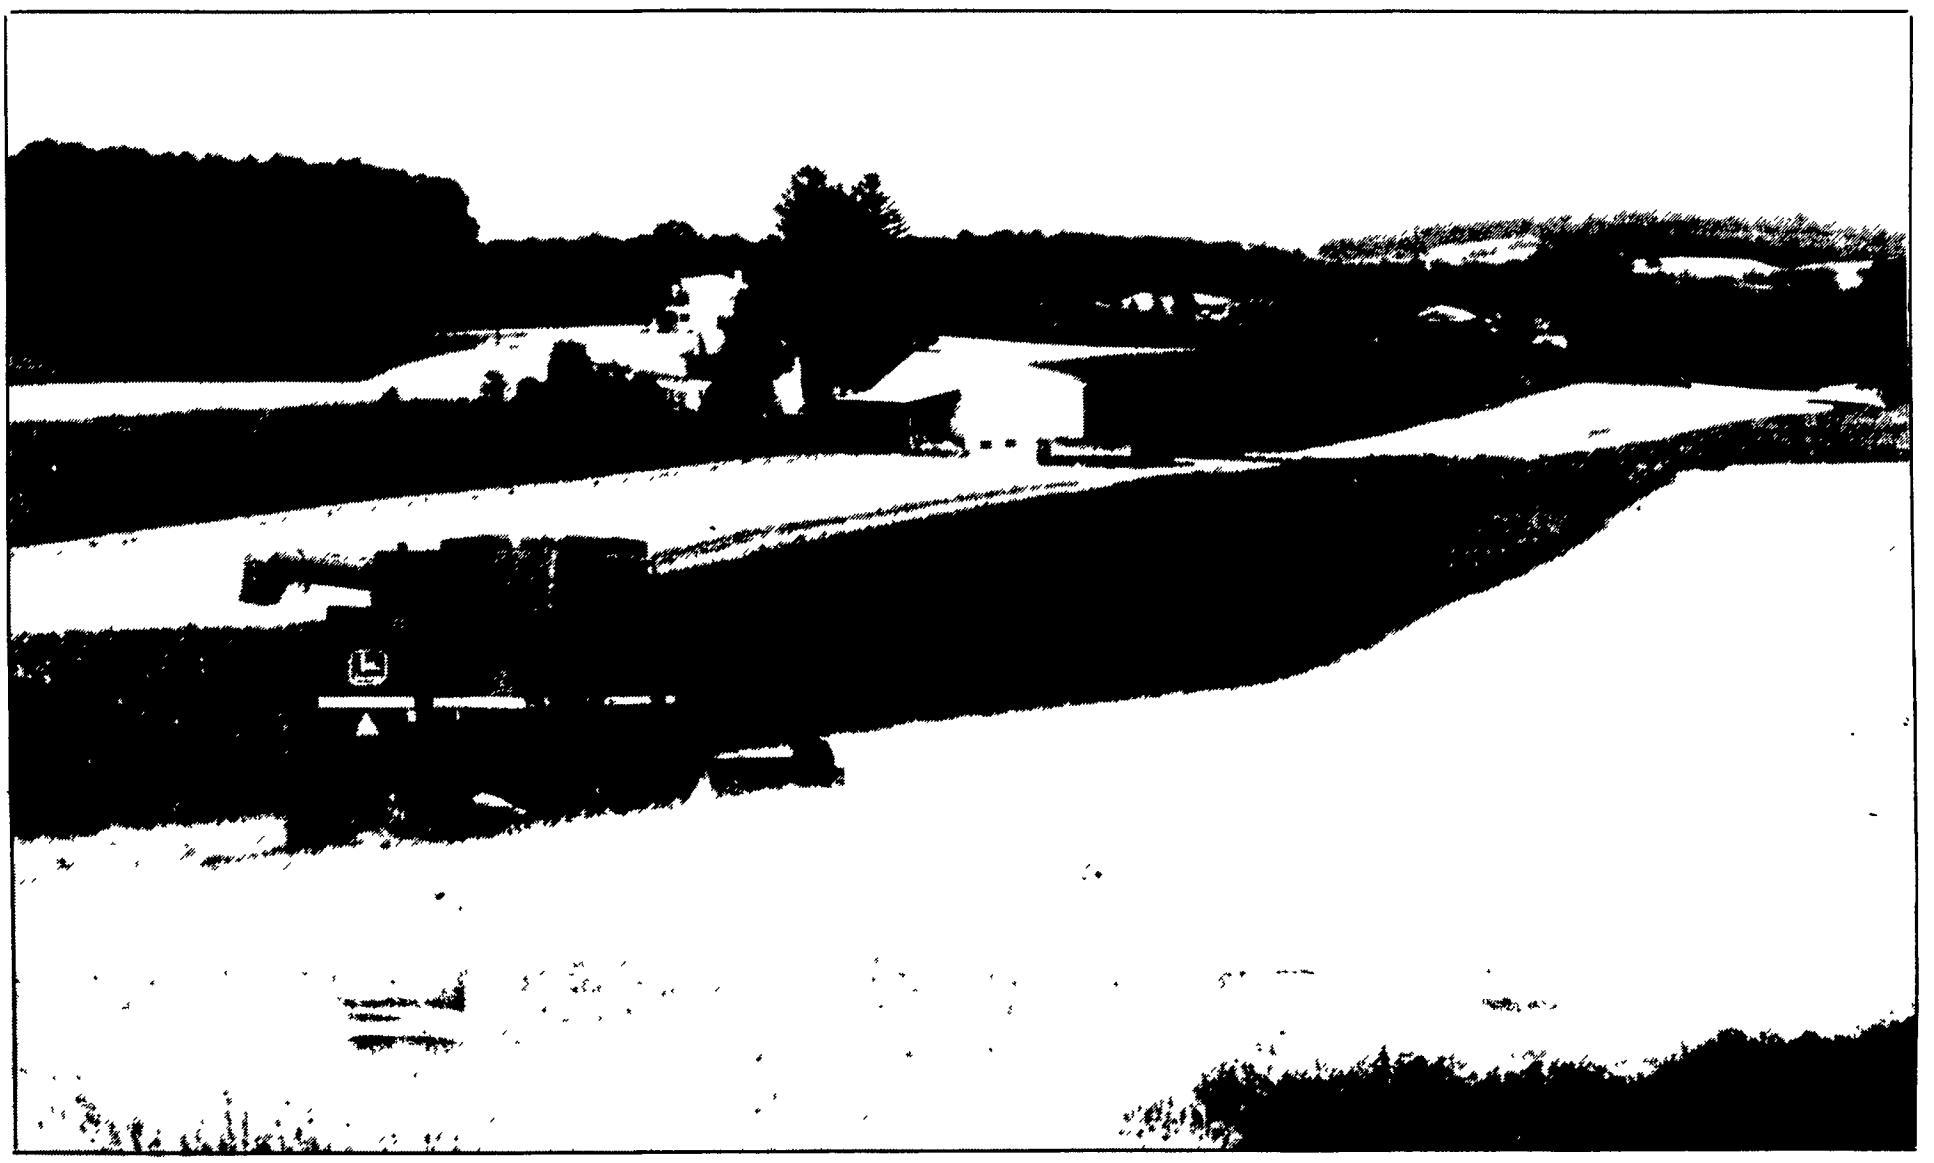
Lancaster Farming

Vol. 41 No. 36 | 60¢ Per Copy | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, July 13, 1996 | Four Sections | $27.50 Per Year



Weather in the region finally gave farmers a chance to do some serious harvesting. After fields and crops dried out from showers early in the week, combines and hay making equipment could be seen almost anywhere you looked. Combines in wheat began in earnest in Lancaster County late Wednesday afternoon. In Northampton County, one farmer reported on Thursday that grain moisture was quite varied from field to field and even in the same field where ridges and valleys were drying out at different times. In Berks and Lehigh counties, combining was well under way late Thursday afternoon.

According to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service, based on the acreage planted, the Keystone state's farmers will harvest 190,000 acres of winter wheat this year. That's up three percent from last year. The 75,000 acres of barley are already harvested, the same as last year.

Corn acreage to be harvested as grain is estimated at 1,050,000 acres, up seven percent. And soybean acreage for harvest is estimated at 285,000, down 10 percent from last year.

The harvesting scene above was captured along Rhoads Road looking east across the valley of corn and wheat strips between Krumnsville and Steins Corner in Berks County just south of the Lehigh County line. Photo by Everett Newswanger, managing editor.

State Budget Maintains Funding For Agriculture

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania General Assembly recently approved and the governor signed a $16.375 million 1996-97 budget for state government which included restoration of funds for the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine, and increases of $2 million each for Penn State University Extension and agricultural research.

State Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brosius, said he was "delighted" with the support for his department for market development and research, and also for the Penn State funding increase.

Others have also issued statements of satisfaction with the budget, as many continued an almost decade-long description of the state budget as "austere."

The overall budget was close to that which Gov. Tom Ridge proposed as of early June. That proposal, however, eliminated specific line item funding for University of Pennsylvania's New Bolton Animal Center and for its School of Veterinary Medicine.

In Gov. Tom Ridge's proposal, Penn State Extension was targeted to receive a slight increase in funding.

In response to the governor's proposal (which called for reductions in state spending generally except for the prison system which got all but $10 million of the prop-

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — "We've had decent rainfall here at the station. The corn crop looks better than it's looked in the six years that I've been here."

Dr. Bill Curran, Penn State weed specialist, was assessing some of the results of Roundup Ready narrow-row corn trials when he realized how good a year it has been for corn and weed growth.

Curran and other specialists spoke on Monday at the Penn State-sponsored annual weed field day at the Southeast Research and Extension Center. About 100 farmers and agri-industry representatives spent the day looking at corn and soybean herbicide trials conducted during the growing season at the center.

For Curran, the year has brought mixed blessings. While moisture and temperature has been more than adequate for plant growth, too much moisture has left little residuals to handle later weed flushes.

Overall, though, when visitors have come to the field day in the past (over the last six years there have been about three droughts in the region), "usually it's sort of a desert. But it looks pretty good this year," Curran said.

Penn State has been conducting several trials with Roundup Ready corn. The corn variety, which has a projected release date of some quantities in the 1997-1998 growing season, will allow a broad-based application of Roundup herbicide post-emergence. The trials are also looking at the use of Roundup on the corn in 15- inch versus 30-inch rows.

"One of the limitations with corn and post-emergence weed control has been the lack of residu-

Boyd Appointed To Preservation Board

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — On Tuesday, Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius appointed Darvin E. Boyd, Akron, to the state Agriculture Land Preservation Board.

Boyd, senior vice president and director of the agrifinance department for CoreStates Bank, fills the ag lender position on the board vacated by Bill Hughes, Berks County.

Boyd is the second Lancaster county resident to serve on the board, joining farmer Ken Rutt of Quarryville. Boyd was appointed to a four-year term.

Created in 1989, the board is responsible for the oversight of the state farmland protection program.

"Mr. Boyd's long record of service and leadership in the agricultural community, experience in state government, and demonstrated commitment to the preservation of our farmland will be valuable assets as he begins his service on the board," said Brosius, who chairs the board.

Boyd has served as president of the Lancaster Farmland Trust from 1992-1995, where he is now an honorary trustee. He received the Trust's distinguished service award in November 1995. He also served as treasurer of the Lancaster County Vote Yes To Save Farmland Committee.

Boyd has a master's degree in public administration from Penn State. He served on the board of the Farm and Home Foundation of Lancaster County. He is chairman of the Lancaster County Human Relations Commission.

NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER PARTS - PART I FEDERAL-STATE

Trucklot buying activity was light and unaggressive. Offerings were usually increasing in their availability and for the most part easily satisfied the current dealer interest. Demand for product through retail channels was just about nil. A good call was noted into fast foods and restaurants and for seasonal resort areas. The market tone was increasingly cautious and nervous in instances.

PRICES PAID PER POUND, ICE PACKED AND CO2 PACKED BROILER/FRYER PARTS, DELIVERED TO FIRST RECEIVERS IN POOL TRUCKLOT AND TRUCKLOT QUANTITIES.

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was light to fair at best. Seller offerings were closely cleared to fully adequate and were in the tighter position on the smaller sizes. Live supplies were moderate; weights were mixed in a full range, and were mostly desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were moderate to heavy. Less than truckiot asking prices were generally unchanged at 61 to 75 cents. Trade sentiment was mostly steady. In the parts complex, wings remained in best demand and supplies were clearing well. Breast items and particularly leg quarters were at least adequate for the generally light and unaggressive buying interest

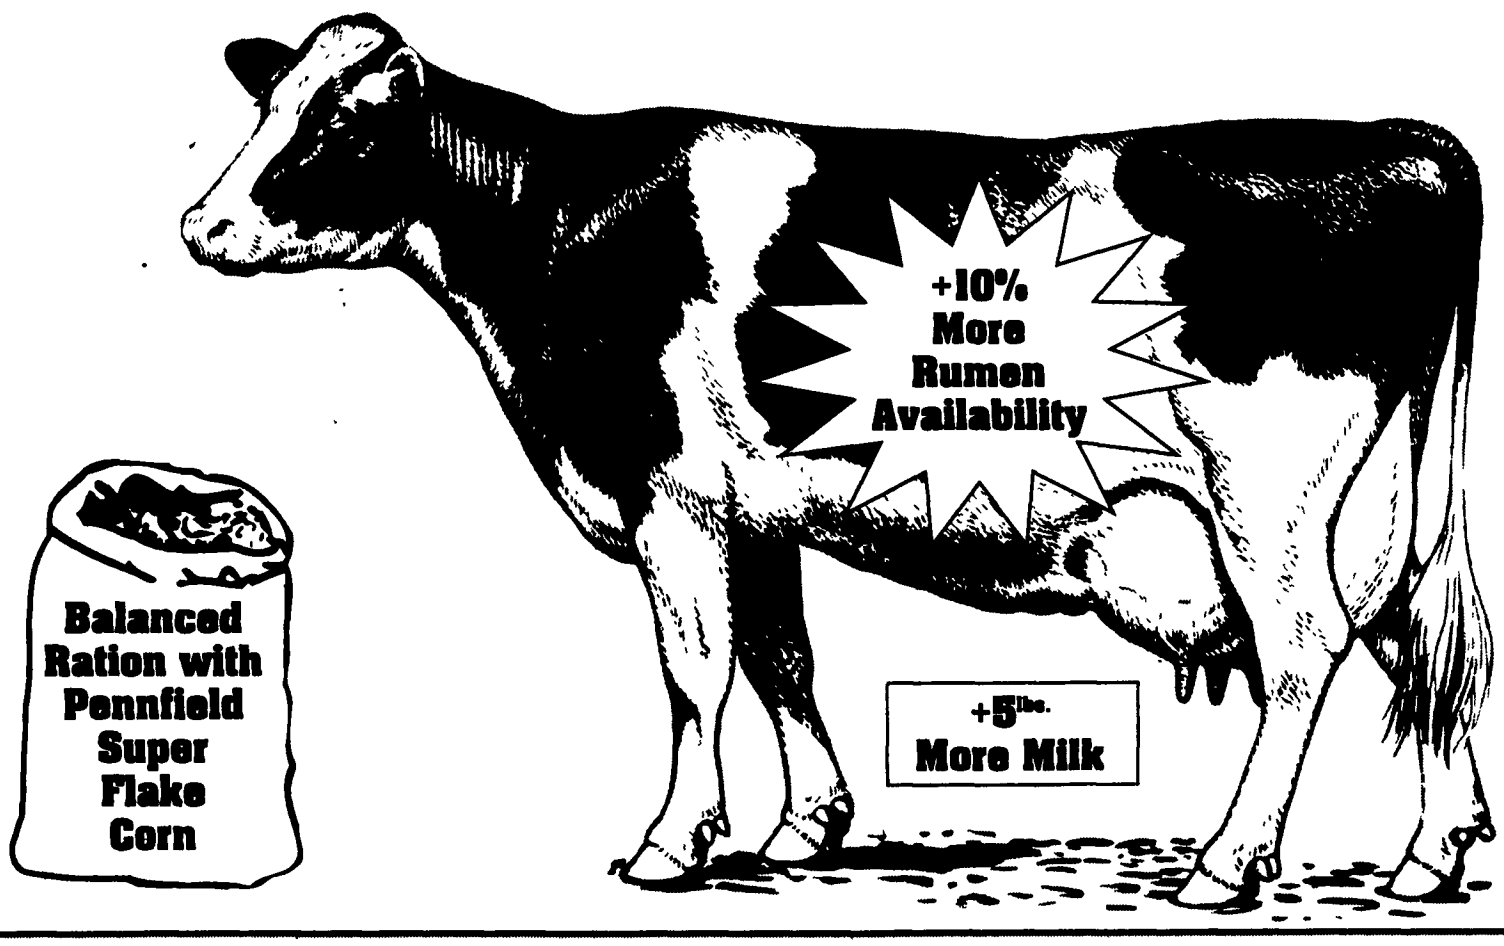
Pennfield's New Super Flaked Corn

THE PROCESS INVOLVES

1) Cleaning the corn
2) Soaking or steeping the corn for a prescribed period of time
3) Applying steam to the corn before rolling
4) The specially conditioned corn is then rolled between 2 large rollers
5) The wet flat rolled corn is then processed by a special unit that removes the moisture and dries the finished flake back down to normal corn moisture
6) The finished product resembles a bright yellow corn flake (makes you want to get a bowl full and add milk and sugar)

WHY IS SUPER FLAKED CORN BETTER?

Flat rolled steam flaking disrupts the cellular structure of the corn kernels (gelatinization) and increases sites for microbial attachments resulting in improved starch (carbohydrate) digestion in the rumen. In simple terms, the cow uses more of the nutrients because the rumen bugs can get to them and much less corn nutrient goes out in the manure.



EFFECTS OF CORN PROCESSING ON DAIRY COW PERFORMANCE

Research conducted by the University of Arizona on Western Processed Flat Rolled Steam Flaked Corn shows the kind of improvement you can expert. In the studies below, average milk production INCREASED ABOUT 5 LBS./COW/DAY, protein yield increased about .2 lbs./cow/day and % usually increased, fat yield increased about .1 lb./cow/day and % decreased

Item	Regular Steam Rolled	Flat Rolled Steam Flake
Milk, lbs/day	83.8	88.4
Protein, lbs/day	1.18	1.28
Protein, %	3.11	3.2

Protein, lbs/day	2.26	2.40
Protein, %	2.99	2.95
Fat, lb/day	2.32	2.40
Milk fat, %	3.06	2.96

Univ. of AZ, JDS 78 (Suppl. 1):210 1995

NOTE: Because of processing a flatter flake there is less weight per volume of feed. This means that less will fit on trucks and in bins. Volume will increase 5 to 15% depending on the inclusion level of corn. Keep this in mind when ordering feed. Also, grain scoops or volume based grain feeders need to be recalibrated for SUPER FLAKE containing feeds. Feed amounts required based on actual weights.

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE:

Prices were unchanged. The market tone was mostly steady. Demand for cartoned eggs was fair to good, best where featured, and loose egg movement was fair to very good, best into food service channels and resort areas. Supplies were adequate or available for all sizes except jumbos which were often tight. Breaking stock supplies were generally adequate under a steady trade sentiment. Light type hen offerings remained more than needed by slaughter plants.

USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Wheat bids were slightly higher as wet condtions return to forecasts in winter wheat areas. Corn bids were higher on good export demand and continued dry weather concerns. Soybean bids jumped sharply higher also on dry weather conditions in the Midwest and improved meal and oil demand. Wheat steady to 3 cents higher. Corn 2 to 15 cents higher. Sorghum 1 to 5 cents higher. Soybeans 13 to 18 cents higher. Wheat bids finished slightly higher, despite some profit taking on the board early today. Indications that Morocco and Sri Lanka may be in the market for wheat, offered support to bids. Wheat harvest is progressing and traders await the Crop Production report Friday, ex- pecting USDA to show a bumper spring wheat crop. Rain has returned to the forecasts for winter wheat areas, adding slight strength. Corn enjoyed very good export business overnight as South Korea and Taiwan purchased substantial amounts of corn. Soybean bids soared on higher bean and oil demand again today. The dry weather conditions in the Midwest continued to cause concern but cooler temperatures limited advances.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

NEW MOON, JULY 15.

ST. SWITHIN'S DAY

July 15 is St Swithin's Day, renowned for its weather lore despite a lack of scientific evidence to back up the predictions. St. Swithin was a ninth-century bishop of Winchester He appreciated God's wet weather and so he specified an outdoor burial for himself, rather than submit to being entombed within the church with his esteemed colleagues. His request was initially honored, but some years later, on July 15, an attempt was made to bring him back into the fold. Legend has it that a great tempest brought rains that lastest 40 days, and the transfer was put off

Let well enough alone.

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Hang clothes on a clothesline into the prevailing wind, so pant legs, sleeves, etc., will billow and smooth in the breeze.

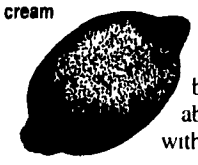
COMMON LIME PIE

1-1/2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
1 14-ounce can sweetened condensed milk
2/3 cup plain yogurt
1/2 cup fresh lime juice
2 teaspoons grated lime zest
1 graham cracker crust
lime slices for garnish

Meringue:
2/3 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
2 large egg whites
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract

Stir gelatin into cold water, heat gently until dissolved. Whisk gelatin with next 4 ingredients Chill 20 minutes, stirring occasionally until thickened. Fill pie crust and refrigerate Prepare the meringue Combine sugar and water; heat for 5 minutes to form a syrup Beat egg whites and cream of tartar to soft peaks stage, add hot syrup and vanilla and beat until stiff Spread cooled meringue over pie and brown under broiler for about 2 minutes. Garnish with lime slices



Makes 8 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

St. Swithin's day, if thou dost rain, for forty days it will remain. St. Swithin's day, if thou be fair, for forty days 'twill rain na mair.

Cows stretch their necks and horses stretch in their stables when rain is coming.

No tempest, good July, lest corn look ruely.

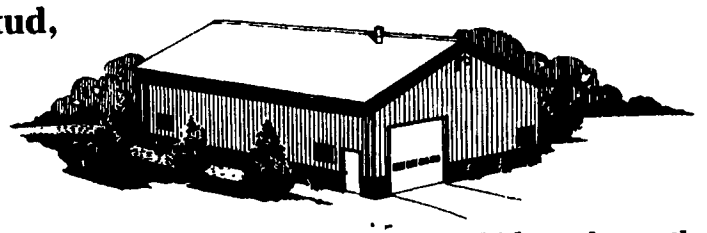
The Building you want. The Lease you need.

Whether your new farm or commercial building is of pole, timber column, stud, steel or block construction; choose Telmark lease financing.



Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider the features:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs may be as little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules match your cash flow. Payment options include monthly, quarterly, annually, as well as, skip or specially designed seasonal payments.

How do you start leasing a building from Telmark? Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost. And call your Telmark representative:

OPINION

Matthew, David, Heath And John, Congratulations

As reported last week, the Pennsylvania senior Holstein dairy bowl team won the national contest at the Holstein Association USA, Inc., convention in Fort Worth, Texas. The four-member team included Matthew and David Day, Heath Ocker, and John Creek.

We are always gratified when our youth excel. And this is quite a feat. In competition with the best from 20 other states, this team won handily, scoring by a fairly wide margin even in the finals over the team from Wisconsin.

You could say practice makes perfect. Last year at the national convention, hosted by the Pennsylvania Holstein Association in Pittsbourgh, this team came in second.

But the real story is maybe not the national honors as great as they are. Like any contest of knowledge and skill, years of hard work went into the win.

This team has been working together for six years. With this hard work came an education. Sometimes they learned to come in second. At such times they learned to depend on each other. They learned discipline and self control. They gave us the pleasure of watching as they grew from boys to men.

In addition, they learned a lot about the dairy industry that will be valuable in whatever job resumes they may offer in the future.

But to us, the greatest part of the story is their good attitude. When we did the interview last week, they first wanted to thank their coach Ann Day who happens to be Matthew and David's mother. And in a letter to supporters that all the members signed, they said that none of these awards would have been possible without all the wonderful support of friends in the dairy industry.

Matthew, David, Heath, and John, we give you our best wishes. And by the way, congratulations!

To Check Cows' Behavior

When a lot of cows lie down and chew their cuds soon after eating, they are telling you that a lot of things are right, according to Glenn Shirk, extension dairy agent.

They have a comfortable rest area that entices them to lie down. The result is they expend less energy and more nutrient-laden blood passes through the udder and milk production increases.

Their rumen is functioning well, which indicates that digestion and milk production are efficient. When a lot of cows stand up to chew their cud or stand partly in their stall, or lie in alleys or lie backwards in their stalls, they are telling you they would like to have a more comfortable place to rest.

It is a clue to you:

- To check bedding depth and softness of cow beds.
- To check the length and width of stalls.
- To check the amount of lunge room cows have for their heads when they get up.
- To check the positions of neck rails, cow trainers, tie rails, length of tie chains, curb heights, etc.

To Read Cows' Body Language

Cows cannot talk but they can communicate to us by various forms of body language.

Glenn Shirk, extension dairy agent, reminds us the better we are at reading their body language and responding to it, the more effective we will be as herd managers.

When we walk into a group of cows, do they walk up to you and can you walk amongst them without them getting excited or getting up from their stalls and scurrying to get away from you? If so, these cattle probably have received good care and treatment.

Cows like these are relaxed and generally produce better. Do cows get up easily without hesitation and discomfort? Can they easily get to and operate waterers without getting shocked? Do cows stand back and wait their time before eating and drinking?

If so, this may be happening for a number of reasons. They may be first calf heifers who are at the bottom of the peck order. It may be beneficial to manage them as a separate group even if they are receiving the same ration.

Other reasons include insufficient bunk space and watering areas or inadequate water flow. Learn to read cows' body language. Cater to them and they will reward you well.

To Know Reasons For Cow Behavior

Glenn Shirk, extension dairy agent, offers the following ideas based on your cows' behavior.

If cows are reluctant to walk to feeding and watering areas because of poor footing, it may be necessary to groove concrete alleys. Also remove small, sharp objects from their walkways.

Do cows consume more feed from one end of the bunk than another? If so, it may be beneficial to create another access lane to the bunk or to the other side of the bunk to reduce the distance cows have to walk. This also helps cows to feel less trapped in dead-end alleys.

Do cows congregate in favorite spots? If so, try to determine what it is that attracts them to these areas. Then try to duplicate those conditions in the areas you want the cows to use. It might mean providing better ventilation, more air circulation, more light in the feeding and rest areas, or moving the feeding and watering areas closer to the rest area.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "Like ripples from a single drop of water, a positive attitude spreads to everyone."

FARM FORUM

Editor,

For as long as most dairy farmers can remember, they have always heard, you can't raise milk prices because there is too much milk.

Yet, every time some farm organizations develop and promote milk supply-management programs, these same people cry out against the proposal, saying, you

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

DON'T FORGET TO REMEMBER
July 14, 1996

DON'T FORGET TO REMEMBER
July 14, 1996

Background Scripture:
Psalms 105
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 106:1-12

In Psalms 104, the Psalmist looked at the wonders of God's world and, when he contemplated all of these, he felt led to praise God.

The Psalmist in Psalms 105 also is led to praise God because of his contemplation. But his time, that to which he gives his deepest thoughts is not in nature, but in history.

In my life span I have witnessed the anxiety of the Great Depression, the struggle of World War II, the fearful fight against Communism, and now that Communism is no longer our great enemy, it would seem we have turned against ourselves. I've often thought about all those changes I've seen in my 66 years and wondered just how it was that a whole world moved from crisis to resolution, from another crisis and another resolution, and so forth.

The popular interpretation is that various individuals have been responsible for moving the rest of us from one struggle to another. Roosevelt, Churchill, Hitler, Truman, Stalin, Ghandi, Gorbachev and so many others. Certainly each of these people played key roles in the history of our times. But, behind these people and their movements, is there not something else that shapes our history?

A SINGLE THREAD

In Psalms 105 the Psalmist does a quick survey of the major outline of the history of Israel. From the time of the Patriarch Abraham, through the conquest of the Promised Land he looks for a single thread that connects all these varied events and people. In each of these acts of powerful people, the Psalmist sees the hand of God working in human history and moving both creatures and creation in the direction of his will. It is God who is in charge of history, not his children. So when he contemplates the history of his people, the Psalmist is moved to praise and thank the Lord for his mighty acts.

Actually, the Old Testament never devotes much space or time to ideas about God. What the Old Testament recounts in detail are the events in which God has been seen to be acting. God is revealed to the people of Israel, not in creeds or doctrines, but in his saving and redeeming acts. So the people of Israel were concerned, not so much with what God is as they were with what God does.

And the key to this perspective is remembering. The Psalmist remembers and he challenges the people to remember with him what God has done: "Remember the wonderful works that he has done, his miracles and the judgments he uttered. . ." (105:5). Furthermore they are to help others to remember: ". . .make known his deeds among the peoples! . . . tell of his wonderful works!"

LORD OF HISTORY

Isn't that what being a disciple of Jesus Christ is all about — being aware of what he has done for you and witnessing to it? Why do we not search the annals of history and our own lives to find that same single thread? God acting through the acts of his children, moving history — both personal and corporate — to that purpose he has ordained. People may bring on the crises but God moves us through them. He is the Lord of history. In a sense, history is His Story.

God also remembers: "He is mindful of his covenant forever, of the word that he commanded for a thousand generations" (v.8). And: "For he remembered his holy promise, and Abraham his servant" (v.42). So there is not only purpose in history, but also faithfulness. While they were still landless nomads in the desert, he made his promise to make them a great nation. It took a long time for that promise to be fulfilled, but it was the people not God, who delayed.

Someone has said that the Christian with an experience will always be closer to God than the one with a doctrine. What we all need to do is to contemplate our own experiences in order to find that same thin strand of Providence. Let us never forget to remember the mighty, saving acts of God.

IT ALSO CUTS MAN-HOURS.

When you're doing high-capacity haying, our Hesston 1160 Hydro Swing Mower Conditioner gets right down to business.

We built it with a center-pivot design that has all the benefits of a self-propelled without the extra expense. And it's made for consistent, even cutting.

Once you've entered your fields, the 1160's fully-engaged, 110 inch conditioner goes to work for fast drying and even, well-conditioned windrows. You can even adjust the forming shields to produce everything from a swath to Hesston's unique fluffy windrow. The 1160 tailors itself so you can harvest the highest quality hay and save time in the process.

See it at your AGCO Hesston dealer today. Ask about flexible financing through Agricredit Acceptance Company.

Foliar Fertilization Works!

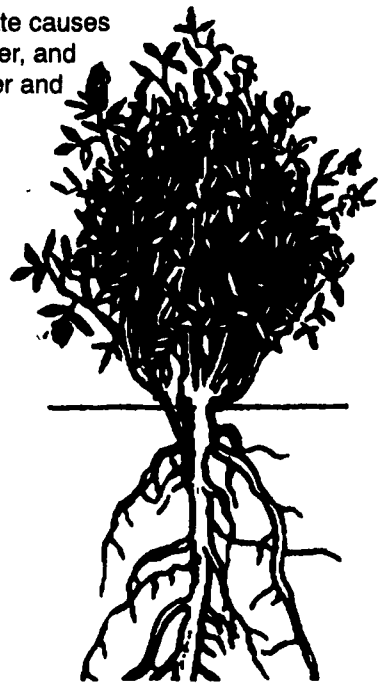
Give Your Plants the Spark They Need!

A foliar spray of Alpine liquid plant food concentrate causes a cycle of growth, which helps plants to grow larger, and mature earlier, but most important, provides bigger and better yields.
Here's how it works:

1st: [redacted]
Our plant food is applied later in the afternoon or evening when absorption is greatest.

2nd: [redacted]
The product is absorbed by all parts of the plant and begins moving through the system. As much as 95% of the fertilizer applied to the plant is absorbed, so there's optimum utilization.

3rd: [redacted]
Fertilizer moves throughout the plant, carrying nutrients up and out to the leaves and down to the roots.



4th: [redacted]
Nutrients reach to the most distant roots, helping to stimulate additional root growth. These new roots are able to uptake even more nutrients that are already present in the soil.

5th: [redacted]
The greatest concentration of fertilizer goes where it's needed most: to the young growing portions of the plant, such as new leaves and buds.

6th: [redacted]
(Labor Saving Tip)
Mix the plant foot with your insecticide or herbicide when spraying your alfalfa and soybeans.

Piper Is County Agent Emeritus

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — In recognition of his 40 years with Penn State Cooperative Extension (37 years in Adams County), the board of directors, Adams County Cooperative Extension Association, at their meeting on Tuesday, June 25, conferred upon retiring county agent, Thomas E. Piper, the honorary title of county agent emeritus.

During the meeting, the board viewed a video of the county commissioners teleconference with Penn State President Graham Spanier conducted by satellite at county extension offices on June 11. Adams County Comissioners Harry Stokes and Thomas Collins participated in this event.

Board members Fred Kammerer and Beverly Stanton explained the legislative process and discussed a news release reporting that the Pennsylvania House of Representatives had just passed their version of the state budget, including two lines for agricultural research and extension. They were optimistic that the senate would concur and support funding at the level originally requested by Penn State. The local board considers such approval necessary if the staff position vacated by Piper's retirement is to be filled in the near future.

In other action, the board accepted with regret the resignation of Treasurer Samuel Evans. Evans, an employee of Ag Commodities, Inc., Gettysburg, will relocate to Bedford County where he has accepted a position with Agway.

Pa. Moves To Stage III

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The State Pseudorabies Advisory Committee has received word from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture that Pennsylvania has reached Stage III in the eradication of pseudorabies. Pennsylvania has been participating in the state-federal-industry five-stage process to achieve pseudorabies-free status.

The achievement of state III status provides a vital step in the eradication effort. It also represents an important milestone in our progress for eradicating the disease. There are 41 quarantined herds remaining in Pennsylvania, a reduction of nearly 80 herds in the last four years. Federal veterinarians have worked closely with state personnel in coordinating cleanup efforst throughout the state. In addition, private practitioners have provided much needed support in blood testing and the development of herd cleanup plans.

Finally, swine producers have sacrificed significant time and financial resources in the process of eradicating the disease.

Stage III moves Pennsylvania from a containment/control program to one of mandatory cleanup. This does not imply herd depopulation, but does require that producers develop and make progress in their cleanup plans.

Although pseudorabies has been a problem primarily in southeastern Pennsylvania, reaching state III will have positive implications for pork producers throughout the state: 1) feeder pig movements to surrounding states are likely to be facilitated and 2) complete eradication is now within reach.

Swine producers must also realize that as the number of guarantined herds continues to decline, increased enforcement of biosecurity measures will be needed in regard to testing, sanitation of conveyances, and positive identification of feeder pigs moving interstate and intrastate.

Corn Borer Outbreak Begins

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The weather has not been kind to farmers this growing season.

While wet weather has produced favorable conditions for such wheat diseases as head scab, Septoria glume blotch and basal glume rot, the recent dry spell has increased the chances of a first brood corn borer outbreak, said Ohio State University entomologist Hal Willson.

For over a week, first brood corn borer larvae activity has been reported in northwestern and northeastern Ohio, Willson said.

Egg masses and early instar, or development, stages have already been detected in corn plots at the western branch of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center in Clark County and at the site of the Fayette County Southern Ohio Diagnostic Field Days.

"At the OSU Molly Caren Farm in Madison County, whorl feeding injury by early corn borer larvae is present on 100 percent of the stand in early planted corn fields," Willson said. "Given current weather conditions, first brood larvae survival may very likely become a problem in the state."

The European corn borer, which becomes a moth in the adult stages, goes through a first and second brood generation during its larval life cycle.

During the first brood stage, larvae feed on the foliage of early planted corn that is in the mid-to-late whorl stage by late June or early July. Second brood larvae feed on late planted corn.

Willson urges farmers to scout their corn fields now for corn borer activity and recommends the following procedures to assess the severity of corn borer activity:

1. Inspect 20 plants at five or more locations in a field to determine the percent of stand that is infested. Pull and inspect the whorls of at least two infested plants from each location to determine the average number of borers per plant.

2. Calculate the average number of borers per plant. Example: (60 percent stand infestation x 100) x (3 borers per infested plant) equals 180 borers per 100 plants, or an average of 1.8 borers per plant.

3. Assuming 5 percent yield loss per borer per plant and expected yield and market value, calculate potential yield and profit loss. Example: ((1.8 borers/plant) x (5 percent loss)) x ((120 bushel/acre x ($3/bushel)) equals (9 percent potential yield loss x $360 per acre) or $32.40 potential loss per acre.

4. Assuming a control of 80 percent from granule treatment or 50 percent from spray treatment (average efficacy levels commonly used in the Corn Belt), determine the preventable loss per acre. Example: $32.40 potential loss x 80 percent control using granules equals: $25.92 per acre preventable loss.

5. If the cost of a rescue treatment subtracted from the estimated preventable loss shows a positive benefit, then a rescue treatment should be used.

Willson said the severity of corn borer activity depends on the stage of larvae development, predator activity, and the amount of rain fields receive (rain reduces larval numbers).

The following are some postemergence insecticides effective in treating European corn borer: Ambush, Asana, Biobit, Diazinon, Dipel, Dyfonate, Furadan, Javelin, Lorsban, MVP Bioinsecticide, Penncap-M, Pounce and Warrior.

osed $100 million increase) and no tax increase, supporters of Penn State Extension and its agricultural research argued that the proportionally small funding increase would only partially stem the bleeding that has been draining people and research from the program.

The mission of the extension service is to provide residents of the commonwealth with research-based information in exchange for being a land-grant university. The purpose of extension is to help all residents benefit from the advantages of leading edge technology and research results.

Aside from providing the state with an economic advantage for more efficient production and to stimulate entrepreneurship, the information is available to all residents seeking to improve their quality of life.

In response to the proposed cuts to the University of Pennsylvania veterinary medicine school, a committee formed in support of reinstating funding.

The committee was organized out of the Chamber of Business and Industry, in Harrisburg, and chaired by Pennsylvania Farm Bureau President Guy Donaldson. During a special meeting, the position of the university was described by its dean, Dr. Alan Kelly, and others.

The school is the premier school in the nation and, according to the president of the American Veterinary Association, the best in the world.

It is also one of the highest tuition schools because it receives little state support in comparison to other state veterinary schools in the nation.

A version of the budget passed by the Senate had received more than 350 amendments when sent to the House of Representatives, requiring the use of a conference committee to resolve the matter.

A conference committee is an instrument used by the General Assembly to create a compromised bill acceptable to both legislative bodies.

The committee consists of members of both branches of the Legislature and represents both dominant political parties.

The result was the inclusion of more than 100 amendments from the House of Representatives, which restored funding for the vet school and an additional $400,000 for a toxicology laboratory, essential to the state's ability to protect its people and agricultural sector from diseases.

Especially with global marketing, and the opening up of domestic markets to foreign animal and plant products, the threat of the introduction of dangerous disease has become even more serious.

Combined with that is the fact that the boon of the past decade of residential development in previously lesser-populated agricultural and industrial areas (following the loss of much heavy industry) and the advent of high-density livestock agricultural practices has created a situation in which high densities of animals are in close proximity to high densities of humans.

Many diseases which threaten animal species also threaten humans, and vice versa.

The past example of avian influenza in Pennsylvania, the millions of dollars in damages, and the resultant practice of biosecurity (strict protection practices to prevent the introduction of disease) throughout the poultry industry, and more recent swine and cattle disease concerns, such as tuberculosis, have all served to convince public and private policymakers that creating a system of increased ability to detect and treat animal disease is a responsible and necessary act for government to support.

To that end, efforts have been ongoing to create a functioning tripartite Animal Diagnostic Commission that combines resources within the state Department of Agriculture, Penn State University and the University of Pennsylvania (as well as cooperative help from Cornell and the entire USDA and agricultural disease research and disease detection system) that can serve as a reasonable barrier in the defense against the devastation of widespread disease.

(As an aside, it was learned this week that Dr. Sherbyn Ostrich, of Robesonia, has been appointed interim executive director of the Pennsylvania Animal Health and Diagnostic Commission which oversees the tripartite system. The position has been vacant since the retirement of Dr. Cy Card DVM PhD., earlier this year. He is currently president of the American Veterinary Medical Association. A report on him and an update on the new state laboratory scheduled to be operational this fall is to be published next week in Lancaster Farming.)

The re-direction within state government under Gov. Ridge has appeared to be a campaign to actively support remaining state resources (such as tourism, recreation, agriculture and food products, and small business) in order to stimulate economic activity.

According to Agriculture Secretary Brosius, "I am delighted with Gov. Tom Ridge's support for the Department of Agriculture and for Pennsylvania farmers; especially for his increase in funds for market development and research within the department.

"We also appreciate the substantial increase in funds for ag research and extension at Penn State.

"We are especially appreciative of the support by members of the General Assembly and the members of the House and Senate Agriculture committees," he said. "I would like to recognize the leadership shown by Sen. Roger Madigan, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee; Sen. Noah Wenger, vice chairman ...; and Sen. Pat Stapleton, minority chair of the (ag committee).

"On the House side, we appreciate the leadership of Rep. John Barley, House majority whip; Rep. Ray Bunt, chairman of the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee; Rep. Joseph Pitts, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee; and Rep. Bill Lloyd, minority chairman of the House Ag Committee."

Brosius said the support of the governor and the General Assembly means that the state agriculture industry "should be able to increase opportunities for our products both domestically and internationally. And the strong support for agriculture research will help to keep our farmers and ag-businesses on the competitive cutting edge of technology."

According to Al Meyers, manager of government relations with the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, to prevent the recurring issue of questionable state funding for the state's only school of veterinary medicine, and to seek ways to make it more competitive with tuition, the PFB is calling upon the governor to create an independent committee that would review the status of the vet school and investigate alternative funding methods.

The goal would be to discover a funding tool that would provide adequate support for the school, other than continuing funding as it is done, since the school needs longer-term assurances of dependable support than what the political process can provide.

Select details of a budget comparison prepared by the Senate Appropriations Committee, which accurately reflects the state budget as approved, is included.

For those with more specific questions into the budget, and the budget process, contact a local state senator or representative. For those unfamiliar with their elected state legislators, the blue pages of a telephone book can provide telephone numbers.

The budget comparison consists of four columns of funding levels, reported in thousands of dollars (multiply all numbers by 1,000).

The first column reports what was allocated for the year ending June 30, 1996.

The second column reports the governor's requested level of funding.

The third column reports the final level of funding approved through the conference committee.

The fourth column reports the difference between what the governor requested and that to which the Legislature agreed. In this column, amounts enclosed in paranthe-ses indicates a decrease from the governor's recommendations.

WILL DISEASES PROLIFERATE?

We had an unusually wet June this year and this has the potential to cause more diseases to show up in your fields now and through harvest.

Although it is hot and dry as I write today, the presence of a greater amout of fungal spores has the potential to result in significant disaease outbreaks if the weather turns wet again.

While you can stretch the intervals between fungicide applications during hot, dry weather, be prepared to spray if the weather turns wet again.

Fruit

Apple rots can be expected to be more severe in Pennsylvania orchards this year because of the wet weather. Although fruit are infected in the immature green fruit stage, rots won't appear until the fruit are nearly ripe.

The only two fungicides we have to prevent fruit rots at this time of year are Captan or Ziram. Captan is a little more effective but Ziram does not have the extended re-entry restrictions that Captan has after application. When rains are frequent and heavy, care must be taken to maintain fungicide protection.

Brown rot was a problem for sweet cherry growers because of wet weather and fruit cracking. Indar has proven to be very effective in controlling brown rot under these severe conditions.

Indar has a 0 day preharvest interval. Indar is not labeled for prunes or plums. There is no label for Orbit on cherries. However, Orbit has performed very well in brown rot trials on other stone fruits.

Rovral and Ronilan are protectant fungicides which are also effective in controlling brown rot. Since they are protective materials they can be washed off by rain. The preharvest interval for Rovral was changed from 0 days to 7 days. Ronilan has a 14-day preharvest interval.

Sooty blotch and fly speck will also be a problem this year because of our early wet weather, and we should expect to see these diseases earlier than usual this season. Once you see these diseases, they can spread rapidly in the orchard, especially if the weather remains wet.

Topsin-M or Benlate are the most effective materials in controlling these diseases. Growers should apply one of these materials for sooty blotch and fly speck control along with Captan or Ziram for fruit rot control.

Vegetables

The following are some disease reminders from Dr. Alan MacNab. He notes that some vegetable diseases will begin to appear in July while others will get started in July, although symptoms may not appear until August. In addition to the following notes, controls are presented in the "Commercial Vegetable Production Guide." Identification information is available in the colored publication, "Identifying Vegetable Diseases," available from the Penn State Campus at University Park and from most extension offices.

Asparagus:

Rust: Apply fungicides to young plantings. During the years before harvest is started, and when fern growth becomes heavy relatively early, fungicides may be important, especially because of the dense growth.

Beans:

Mosaic viruses: Use resistance to BV-1. Provide good weed control; weeds are a source of bean viruses. Do not plant near clovers — they are a source of bean viruses. Do not make successive plantings in adjacent strips or fields; the few diseased plants that appear in early plantings act as an important virus source for later adjacent plantings.

White mold and gray mold: Apply protective fungicide sprays when warranted. Wet conditions immediately before and during bloom promote disease development.

A Section 18 label for Ronilan 50DF has been granted for Pennsylvania in 1996; this material will be beneficial when wet cool conditions promote Botrytis gray mold development. Growers who use this material must have in their posession a copy of the Section 18 conditions of this registration and must report use of this product.

Beans, limas:

Downy mildew: During wet weather, when conditions favor disease, use fungicides. See the Vegetable Guide for details.

Beets:

Leaf spots: Use fungicides where disease usually occurs.

ADC Is the Place To Be

Financial stability and the greatest return from the marketplace – the outstanding benefits that Jeff Moore refers to – are among the strengths of the premier dairy cooperative in the region.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative has a 78-year history of excellent service to its members. Financially strong, ADC guarantees a market for all member milk and excels in maximizing returns. ADC is a leader in providing equity payments, quality bonuses and over-order premiums to members.

Nearly 4,000 dairy farmers agree that "ADC is the Place to Be."

Cabbage:

Fusarium yellows: This disease is favored by hot weather. When possible, avoid susceptible varieties.

Clubroot: Where present, it is too late to apply controls for this year. Determine the source, if possible. Then plan rotation, pH adjustment, or Terraclor use for next season.

Downy mildew and leaf spots: These diseases become most important late in the season. Where anticipated and warranted, fungicides provide some control. For downy mildew, Ridomil/Bravo 81W (1.5 to 2 pounds/acre) can be applied at 14-day intervals until 7 days before harvest.

Carrots and celery:

Cucurbits:

Bacterial wilt: Where present, it may be too late to attain control this year. For disease-free plants, continue control of the cucumber beetles (bacteria carrier) as long as necessary.

Leaf spots, blights, and powdery mildew: Use regular fungicide sprays unless varieties are resistant to the diseases of concern. Leaf diseases are of major importance on muskmelons (cantaloupes) during late season.

Scab: For susceptible varieties, use fungicides when conditions are cool and wet. For cucumbers, use resistant varieties for next year.

Mosaic viruses: Use resistant varieties. When resistant varieties are not available, control perennial weeds, plant in large fields, and control aphids.

Fusarium wilt: It is too late to apply controls for this year. For future years, try rotation, resistance when available, and if necessary, soil fumigation.

Eggplant:

Verticillium wilt: Follow rotations that avoid susceptible crops for as many years as possible. Where present yearly, consider fumigation where crop value warrants the expense.

Onions:

Leaf spots: Apply fungicides on a regular schedule, especially for those planned for storage.

Pepper:

Mosaics and virus spots: It is too late to affect control for this year. For future years, use TMV resistance, plant in large fields, control aphid vectors, and eliminate perennial weeds near fields.

Bacterial Spot: Where present, determine source. Did it come on plants? If present, spray weekly with a tank mixture of basic copper plus maneb. Plan to rotate to fields not recently planted to tomatoes or peppers.

Pumpkin and squash:

Powdery mildew: Powdery mildew has been important in recent years. When powdery mildew is present, fungicides are suggested for summer squash and for winter squash and Halloween pumpkins.

Sweet corn:

Leaf spots and rust: Fungicides are effective for leaf spots but not for rust.

Maize Dwarf Mosaic (MDM): Aphid vector control may help in large fields. Where MDM is prersent, plan to try tolerant varieties in future years.

Tomatoes:

Bacterial speck and spot: If spots are a yearly problem, and symptoms appear on leaves, continue sprays with basic copper plus maneb/mancozeb. Next year, rotate to new fields, use pathogen-free seed, and spray seedlings regularly with streptomycin before transplanting.

Fruit rots and leaf spots: Follow a protective fungicide program. If early blight is bad, rotate and insure adequate fertility for next years crop. In most cases, fungicides should begin before symptoms appear. In addition to early blight, which occurs every year, late blight could be severe in 1996. Late blight can be an explosive disease; do not underestimate the potential significance of this disease.

Conference To Host Nearly 1,000

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Preliminary registrations figures show nearly 600 U.S. and international cattlemen and their families have preregistered for all events at the 12th World Hereford Conference August 15-17 in Ft. Collins, Colo. So far, 23 countries are represented at this major beef cattle event.

Hosted by the American Hereford Association in cooperation with the animal science staff at Colorado State University (CSU), the conference is titled "Setting the Pattern for International Hereford Beef." This theme will be emphasized by the leadoff presentation by CSU's Dr. Gary Smith, titled "International Preferences for Beef." A major conference highlight will be a display of Hereford cattle representing three distinctly different eras of the past 50 years.

Cattle producers who have not yet made reservations will have an opportunity to register on-site at the CSU Equine Center. Registration fee for the program only is $85. This fee includes full program on Aug. 16 and 17, plus lunch and a Certified Hereford Beef dinner on Aug. 16.

U.S. cattle producers planning to drive to the conference and register on site should be aware that hotels in the area are usually booked solid this time of year, so be sure plans are made well ahead.

For more World Hereford Conference information and a complete program, contact the American Hereford Association, P.O. Box 014059, Kansas City, MO 64101, (816) 842-3757.

Section 18 labels for Curzate M8, Acrobat MZ, and Tattoo C have been granted for Pennsylvania in 1996. These Section 18s were granted in response to the recent late blight threat. Growers who use these materials must have in their posession labels that outline conditions of the registrations and must retain records and report use information for these products.

Note

Late blight has been confirmed on potatoes in two western counties of Pennsylvania recently. Dr. MacNab has told me that under ideal conditions, late blight could show up in Lancaster County.

Be prepared to make fungicide applications if the weather turns wet again, particularly if your tomatoes are near potatoes.

Farmers Install Conservation Devices In Northumberland County

SUNBURY (Northumberland County) — A number of stream protection devices and practices have been installed on several Northumberland County farms this spring in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection and the Chesapeake Bay Program.

According to a news release this week from the Northumberland County Conservation District, stream bank fencing and stream crossings, and/or livestock stream access devices, have been installed on at least four farms.

The total cost for installing the fencing and crossings was paid for by DEP through the Chesapeake Bay Program. In return, the cooperating farmers have agreed to maintain and make necessary repairs for 10 years.

The farms involved this spring were the Meckley's farms in Jordan Township, the Michael Percoskie farm in Jackson Township, Leon Epler farms in Point Township, and the Irvin Reynolds farm in Delaware Township.

The reasons for installing stream bank fencing and protective devices for cattle crossings and access points are many.

For the livestock farmer, perhaps the biggest reason for installing such fencing and devices, beyond retention of valuable topsoil, is to better ensure clean drinking water for the animals.

Many cattle diseases are transmitted through contaminated waterways, and cattle damaged and manured streams are more frequently sources of disease than those streams with limited cattle access and healthy aquatic life.

A healthy stream can accept, in fact requires, a certain amount of nutrient input. Plants, beneficial bacteria and a host of other organisms — worms, insects, crustaceans and fishes — utilize those nutrients and serve to clean the water.

Cattle damaged streams frequently result in almost septic conditions with aquatic life reduced to algea, bacteria and analids and other simple life forms because habitat for the rest of the stream-cleaning aquatic life forms has been destroyed.

In many cases the stream bottoms have been smothered by silt. A healthy stream bottom should have lots of surface area, such as is created by rocks and silt free stones. The more surface area on the bottom and sides, the more beneficial life forms can inhabit the stream and utilize nutrients.

Most wastewater treatment systems are actually designed using models of natural cleaning systems in healthy aquatic systems.

If soil runoff covers up all the tiny cracks and crevices along the stream bottom, there is little room to harbor healthy stream life, and less ability to utilize nutrients.

In situations such as that, even moderate amounts of nutrients in a stream can be an overload and further destroy the habitat.

Stream bank fencing is a simple, cost-effective way for farmers to improve the water quality of the streams running through their farms, as well as ultimately improving the flows into the Susquehanna and the Chesapeake Bay.

The positive results of streambank fencing can usually been seen almost immediately, with better soil retention and reduced sedimentation.

It may take from two to five years of fencing and maintaining cattle crossings before the stream aquatic life can begin to establish itself toward noticeable health, depending on upstream conditions.

As a general rule of thumb, the better the upstream conditions, the faster the recovery downstream after installing protective devices such as fencing.

DEP stream bank fencing projects were completed under the planning and direction of Rebecca Takacs, a nutrient management specialist with the DEP Bureau of Land and Water Conservation.

Farmers who have streams running through their livestock pastures are eligible for the program.

Anyone insterested in the fencing and crossing program may call Takacs in Harrisburg at (717) 772-5648, or, those in Northumberland County can call the Northumberland County Conservation District at (717) 988-4224.

Dairy Cattle Judging School Provides Solid Base In Skills

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Turnout for the annual Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Association dairy cattle judging schools was strong this week and participants at both of the outdoor-class western and eastern schools enjoyed good weather.

There seemed to be a healthy turnout of people new to the school. Over the years, different families tend to appear and participate for several years as children, many times accompanied by parents, return for several consecutive years as they develop judging skills and try to gain greater insight or become reintroduced to the basics of judging.

For those with no intention of ever judging in a show ring, the school also offers skills key to cattle appreciation, breeding decisions, and showing.

The program is held in a structured, but informal atmosphere, to emphasize that it is entirely to be a learning experience, according to Kenneth Raney, director of member services for the Pennsylvania Holstein Association. The PHA organizes the events through the help of local county chapters that serve as host organizations.

Open to any youth — member and non-member of the Pa. Junior Holstein Association — the program is designed to encourage the enjoyment of cattle judging through better understanding of the animal, what is considered good, and development of personal taste.

According to Raney, "The act of judging is learning to speak in public and justify what you do."

He emphasized that the school was not a contest, that there were no such things as stupid questions, and he urged participation and a relaxed, but studious atmosphere.

At the eastern school on Wednesday, people from all over southern and central Pennsylvania, New York and Maryland attended.

The school met first at Manheim farm of Lowell Brubaker farm, and after reviewing the parts of a cow and the basics of judging, they went through three classes of animals — one of four heifer calves, two of 2-year-olds.

Lloyd Pease, of Susquehanna, served as teacher. Pease advised the participants that using official Purebred Dairy Cattle Association (PDCA) judging scoring cards is a good way to understand judging values and to mentally prepare for judging a class of animals.

Judging is done on female cattle only.

He emphasized that with judging cows, the PDCA card rates the udder for a total of 40 points out of 100. With most of the "weight" toward the apparant quality of the the udder, followed by high point values for legs and feet, Pease said that judging should concentrate on comparisons there.

Size, stature, overall balance and composition, as well as that intangible quality described as "dairyness" follow in order of judging importance.

Giving reasons for making the decisions is as important and while the very youngest school attendees don't have to give reasons, it is important for them to start thinking and expressing why they make decisions.

According to Raney, the exercises involved in learning how to judge can help youth develop into better, more responsible adults, if they develop decision-making skills and the ability to distinguish overall quality of an object (in this case cattle) through and along with an analysis of the parts.

Pease said that as far as for the heifer calf classes, "You sort of ignore the mammary system and put emphasis on appearance and frame."

He said that, right or wrong, given equal ratings of balance of frame, structure and apparant dairy character, that size of the calf for its age is also used more heavily with the younger stock.

The rear view of a cow is one of the more important viewing angles in judging quality. Esther Gieron leans over to whisper to daughter Sarah about what to look at in a cow.

Kenneth Raney, director of member service for the Pa. Holstein Association, holding the halter of this Holstein cow, and eastern junior judging school teacher Lloyd Pease, standing next to the animal, review the parts of a cow and the value of each in judging dairy cattle.

Todd Webb takes notes while judging a class of 2-year-olds, as others in the background also do. One of the goals of the judging school is to provide people, especially youth, with the opportunity to experience and gain confidence in public speaking and in publicly supporting expressed opinions.

One of the most important things a judge has to remember, according to Raney, is, "There is always something good to say about a cow. Always talk about the good things first, then talk about what you would like to see different."

The schools attract some of the same families each year. Pattie Hushon, of Delta, Pa., who has several boys who show Brown Swiss and Holstein, has been attending the schools with her sons and said they enjoy the schools.

Esther Gieron, of New Oxford, mother of Sarah Gieron, 9, and Joshua, 8, said that she has been to quite a few judging schools and she attended this week in Lancaster County because the children are in 4-H and have both Holstein and Brown Swiss project calves.

According to Esther, she attends because, "We did have dairy cows, and we like them and are interested in learning more."

In addition to the Brubaker farm, the group visited at the David Wenger family farm to judge classes of Holsteins, and then on Thursday judged Brown Swiss, Jerseys and Ayrshires at the Solanco Fairgrounds in Quarryville.

Each school offers at least 12 classes of animals to judge. Youth get the opportunity to judge cattle, learn about the cattle evaluation process and how to give reasons for the decisions. The school helps build knowledge and confidence, as well as establishing fellowship.

The overnight program runs from the first day until noon the next. The cost per student has been $25 for those staying overnight and includes the school cost, hotel room and an evening meal.

For those who can commute, the cost of the school and evening meal is $15. For overnighters or commuters, a second member of the same family who attends receives a $5 discount on the cost of the school.

The western school was held Monday and Tuesday at farms in Beaver and Lawrence counties, with teacher John Burket, of East Freedom. Host farms for the school were the Larry Giewitz family with Brown Swiss; Paul Lawrence family with Holsteins; Dennis Musser family with Guernseys; and the Ed Byers family with Jerseys.

MUN A Tool For Graziers

PHIL DURST
Penn State Extension
Dairy Agent
Montour County

DANVILLE (Montour Co.) — Complementing the diet of grazing cows with a grain supplement can be a problem.

First there is the problem of varying rates of forage growth through the grazing season and the effect, therefore, on the pasture dry matter intake of cows.

Next, graziers have to deal with changing forage quality by seasons, even if it is harvested at the same vegetative stage. And for producers who use alternative forages to extend the grazing season, these throw another wrench at trying to properly supplement what cows are eating at the salad bar.

It would sure be nice to have some help from the cows when it comes to determining how much grain is enough and what percent protein and energy it should have. Well, now they can help us through the Milk Urea Nitrogen (MUN) test.

I think that MUN is a tool that graziers can really benefit from throughout the grazing season. By monthly testing, the feed program can be evaluated and changed to reflect the changing forage quality and quantity.

In the Central Susquehanna Valley area, Penn State Cooperative Extension is working with six dairy producers who intensively graze their cows.

These farmers are having MUN tested monthly and examining the results to determine if changes should be made in the grain ration. To better correlate the results with the diet, the farmers are taking forage samples from the pastures for analysis several days prior to test date.

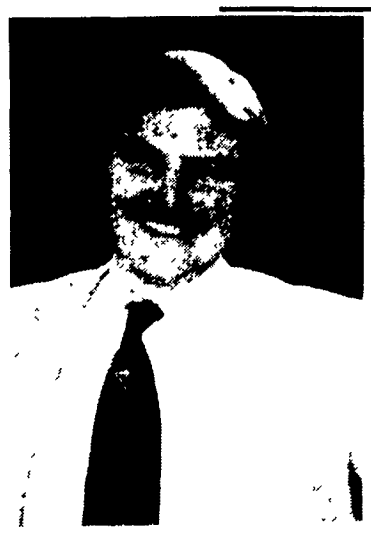
Forage analysis that have been received show that the mixed, mostly grass pastures are averaging more than 25 percent crude protein and .73 Mcal of energy per pound.

Straight grass pastures average just under 20 percent crude protein and .58 Mcal of energy.

The cows on these farms are getting high quality forage, especially when there is some legume mixed in these pastures.

The solubility of the protein fraction has varied from 38 to 69 percent. Therefore, it is not surprising that we have seen MUN values increase as cows were turned out to pasture. The high solubility of the protein means that more of it is available to be broken down in the rumen and the rumen microbes need to have nonstructural carbohydrates to use the forage protein.

We are looking at group averages for MUN by days in milk for the whole herd. By using whole herd values, we have more confidence in the results because group size is more likely to be above eight animals — a minimum for drawing conculsions from the results due to natural variation among individuals.



Phil Durst
Penn State Extension
Dairy Agent

The breakdown by "days-in-milk" provides a look at different critical periods of the lactation when the needs of the cows vary, even if the ration doesn't.

As we go through the season, farmers will be using MUN as one means to evaluate their rations and to make adjustments. In addition, the cooperating farmers are keeping a record of the average dairy milk tank weights (pounds per cow) so that they can use that information to find out quickly the results of ration changes on production.

Evaluation is a critical skill needed by every farm manager.

It is important to note that factors other than the ration can affect MUN during the grazing season, including inadequate water intake, and heat stress.

For those reasons, MUN will not stand alone as the only determining factor in adjusting the herd's ration, but taken with other information, farmers can use it to as a powerful tool to adjust the supplementation program.

Not knowing exactly how MUN will vary through the grazing season is one of the challenges facing dairy producers since this is the first grazing season that MUN testing has been available throughout Pennsylvania. However, these producers are willing to learn by experimentation and will, therefore, benefit the most.

Intensive grazing, while a low-input system, requires a high level of management to have the most success. That management needs to be based on information about the herd performance such as MUN. Therefore, even a low-input system needs high input of information.

If you have questions about interpreting MUN results, call your Cooperative Extension Agent. He or she will be glad to help you make use of information to manager better.

Dairy Seminars Offered At Empire Farm Days

SANDY CREEK, N.Y. — Dairy farmers across the Northeast have an opportunity to participate in the new dairy profit seminars Empire Farm Days on August 6, 7 and 8 in Seneca Falls, N.Y.

Now in their second year, the dairy profit seminars are produced by HFW Communications, publishers of Holstein World, The Western Dairyman and the Empire Farm Days Official Dairy Program.

Dairy profit seminars offer the latest management and profitability strategies from those who know the business. Dairy producers, employees and industry experts are to share information via individual presentations and in a roundtable format.

Those who attend can hear from milking parlor operators, calf raising and heifer growing specialists and nutrition experts. They can find out how to get the most from consultants and alternative approaches toward profitability.

Melanie Wickham, Empire Farm Days show manager said, "We are thrilled to offer the dairy profit seminars again this year. Governor Pataki joined us last year for one seminar capping off three days of well attended sessions. We look forward to even greater interest this year. HFW Communications has scheduled a superb line-up of speakers and topics. The seminars are located in the Dairy Center which is easily accessible in the middle of the showgrounds where numerous dairy related exhibitors are located."

Each day, the dairy profit seminars begin at 11 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Each session runs 45 minutes to an hour. At noon, complimentary lunch will be served to those attending the seminars. In addition, agricultural updates are to be given by newly appointed N.Y. Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets Dr. Donald Davidsen, and U.S. Rep. James T. Walsh (R-NY) who is to report news from Washington.

Empire Farm Days Dairy Profit Seminars

Tuesday, August 6, 1996

11 a.m. — Milking Parlor Efficiency — Hear from the "people in the pit," Ray Shutt, world record holder in milking speed from Offhaus Dairy, Batavia, N.Y., owner Willard DeGolyer, Table Rock Farms, Castile, N.Y. with Peggy Hooker is competing to beat Shutt's world title this July. And Paul Colgan, O'Hara Farms, Auburn, N.Y. is a respected and dedicated herdsman with milking parlor experience. Ask these individuals about their successes, experiences and knowledge gained from hands-on experience. Learn the secrets of smooth operating procedures for the ultimate in parlor productivity. Moderated by Dr. Dave Galton, Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y.

12 noon — NY Commissioner of Ag & Markets — Dr. Donald Davidsen.

12:30 p.m. — Heifer Raising/Body Condition Scoring — Dr. Dave McClary, Elanco DVM and Dr. Charlie Elrod, Cornell University address this often overlooked, yet crucial element to success in the dairy business ... attention to heifers. Learn how to body condition score live heifers on the spot, take hip height measurements and weights to monitor heifer growth from weaning to freshening.

Wednesday, August 7, 1996

11 a.m. — Dairy Profitability Roundtable featuring producers with various herd sizes and management styles. Included are to be Don and Joanne Hosking, Hobart, N.Y. with a 60-cow registered herd and who are marketing specialists; Larry Stinson, Adams, N.Y., who has recently expanded from 200 to 400 head with custom crop work; and Siemers Holsteins, Cleveland, Wis., recently growing herd from 350 to 1,000 head plus. Moderated by Dr. John Ferry, DVM, Adams, N.Y.

12:00 noon — U.S. Rep James T. Walsh, (R-NY), a central NY congressman with the latest from Washington.

12:30 p.m. — Rumen Management: Metabolic Disorders, MUN and Manure Evaluation by Dr. Mike Hutjens, Extension dairy specialist at the University of Illinois. The latest details in rumen health and nutrition will be revealed by Hutjens.

Thursday, August 8, 1996

11 a.m. — A team management approach by Bob and Karen Kimmel, Odyssey Farms, Copake Falls, N.Y. Meet the "team" that is vital to the success and profitability of this 1,100 head milking herd located 120 miles north of New York City. Learn how the Kimmels manage with their farm staff, consulting veterinarian and nutritionist. Moderated by Dr. Charlie Sniffen of Miner Institute, Chazy, N.Y.

12 noon — Dr. Sniffen on the bright future of dairying in the Northeast.

12:30 p.m. — Calf Raising by Sherry Siemers - Peterman of Siemers Holsteins, Cleveland, Wis. The Siemers family farm recently expanded from 350 milking cows to a new 1,000 head facility. With calf raising experience in both California and Wisconsin and currently raising calves in two new greenhouses, Siemers-Peterman can give firsthand information about the trials, tribulations and profits of raising healthy calves.

Crop Tips At Field Day

HOYTVILLE, Ohio — New techniques in field crop production will be on display July 30 in Hoytville as the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center and Ohio State University Extension host the 1996 Field Crops Day.

"Across the Midwest, there's a growing — a rapidly growing — interest in narrow row corn," said Paul Houdashelt, manager of the Hoytville branch of the OARDC and coordinator of the event. The field day will feature researchers and a grower who has been working with narrow-row corn.

Another session will focus on the use of bio-solids on farms, "a growing area for our clientele," Houdashelt said.

Other presentations will focus on optimal use of corn performance trials, herbicide-tolerant crops, using an oats cover crop, and more. The use of oats as a cover crop may be part of a proposed federally funded sediment reduction plan.

Field Crops Day will also include displays from OARDC, Ohio State's Agricultural Technical Institute, and OSU's College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences.

The event is free and open to the public. It will take place from 9 a.m. till noon on July 30, rain or shine.

"The only difference if it rains would be that the programs will be presented indoors instead of outdoors," said Houdashelt. "We just won't have a farm tour if it rains."

In addition, Field Crops Day is approved by the Ohio Department of Agriculture for CAA credits: .5 Soil Fertility, .5 Pest Management, and one Crop Production.

Lancaster Holstein Field Day Aug. 9

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster County Holstein Club has announced its plans for its annual field day, scheduled to be held August 9 at Six Corner Farm in Leola.

Six Corner Farm is owned by Mr. and Mrs. David Stoltzfoos and is located in Leola at 234 S. Groffdale Road.

The cost per adult is $5.50, if reservations are made by July 27. Reservations made after July 27 are $6.50 per adult.

Reservations and the costs are needed to account for a cold buffet lunch to be catered by County Delights. The cost for the meal for children younger than 12 years old is $2.50 each.

Reservation checks should be made payable to: Lancaster County Holstein Club, and should be mailed to Mike Eby, 1550 Millport Road, Lancaster, PA 17602.

On tap for the day of fellowship and family fun include cattle judging from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m., placing of classes from 11:45 a.m. to noon, followed by lunch and guest speaker William Nichol, executive director of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association.

Door and contest prizes will be made, and games and activities for children are planned. Also the Stoltzfooses have some exotic animals which should be of interest to children and adults.

Lawn chairs are recommended. For more information about the event, contact Eby at the address given, or call him at (717) 394-6558.

Producers Can Obtain Some Coverage

YORK (York Co.) — York County producers of various fruit and vegetable type crops can obtain some coverage on 1996 crops if they experience severe weather-related losses.

The Non-Insured Assistance Program covers all commercially produced crops used for food and fiber.

Crops eligible for coverage in this program must have at least a countywide loss of greater than 35 percent. Once this requirement is met, benefits are issued to producers whose individual losses exceed 50 percent.

For those losses exceeding 50 percent, payments are issued at 60 percent of an average price established for the crop.

York County producers who believe they have losses approaching the 50 percent loss level should contact the York FSA office immediately. An acreage report is required showing the crop location. In addition, information is obtained regarding how the crop was produced, status of conservation plans, payment eligibility, and actual production history. Crop appraisals are performed on crops that are not taken to harvest.

York County producers who wish more information should call the York County FSA Office at (717) 755-2801 Monday through Friday 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

Steuben County Pasture Walk July 25

JASPER, N.Y. — Cooperative extension services of Tioga County, Pennsylvania and Steuben County, N.Y. invite producers to attend a pasture walk on July 25 here at the farm of Bill Van Skiver.

Topics include fly control on pasture, feeding cattle on pasture, pasture quality changes through the season, and how to change feed programs accordingly. Other topics include extending the grazing season into the fall, other strategies and/or opportunities for making more money off the local pasture resource, and temporary fence. There will be door prizes.

The meeting will be held from 10 a.m. until noon. Directions to the farm: From Lawrenceville, Pa., take Rt. 15 north to Rt. 432 west to Rt. 417 west to Woodhull. On Rt. 417 west heading toward Jasper, the Old State Road is the first left after you leave or pass through Woodhull. Bill's farm is the third farm, barn on left, house on right heading west.

For more information, contact Craig Williams, Tioga County extension, (717) 724-9120 or Carl Albers, Steuben County, N.Y., extension, (607) 776-9631.

ARPAS Exam Aug. 8

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The American Registry of Professional Animal Scientists (ARPAS) exam is scheduled for Aug. 8 at 10 a.m. in Room 324 of the Ag. Science Industry Building on the Penn State campus.

The exam takes about 1 to 1½ hours and is available for the following species or areas of expertise: dairy, beef, swine, sheep and goats, horses, poultry, meat science, laboratory animal, and companion animal.

Please call Dr. Larry Muller, (814) 863-4205 or Lynda Debrasky, (814) 865-1362 by Monday, July 22 if you intend to take the exam and indicate the species area of interest.

An official registration application is also required. Please indicate if you need this application. Successful completion of the exam and registration application will certify the person as a Professional Animal Scientist (PAS).

Benefits of ARPAS membership include increased professional stature, enhanced image with clientele and the public, earlier career establishment of professional credibility, and greater status for legal, regulatory, and legislative processes.

For more information, call Larry Muller, (814) 863-4205 or Chip Dougherty, (412) 492-9804 or contact ARPAS, 1111 North Dunlap Ave., Savoy, IL 61874, (217) 356-3182.

must not control the production of milk, you must produce all the milk you possibly can so we can keep prices cheap to dairy farmers, which will allow certain processors to accelerate their profits (at the dairy farmers expense).

Milk supplies have been tightening up dramatically during the last three years, but now they have become exceedingly tight. All this means that over due increased prices to dairy farmers are finally on the way.

High feed prices, continued inclement weather across the U.S., the truth about hydrogenated oil, and the leveling off of cow numbers, coupled with a strong demand for all dairy products has created a real demand for raw milk. You see, when milk supplies are tight, then the people who are successful in manipulating lower prices for manufactured milk, "just can't dictate the prices."

All this means a Class I price in the N.Y.-N.J. market for July of $16.19. This is the highest Class I price since March of 1990, which was $16.49. August Class I price of $16.34 will still be far below the all time high of $17.48 in February 1990.

Blend prices paid to producers in Order #2 for June's milk could reach $14.45 cwt. The August blend price could possibly break the $15.00 mark. If there is no interference, then prices paid to dairy farmers this fall could approach the December 1989 record price of $15.47.

Don't Blow It

Between now and November there will be all kinds of encouragements thrown at dairy farmers in an effort to convince the dairymen to produce more milk. If they do it will happen to dairy farmers prices as it did in 1989-90. Please remember the December 1989 blend price of $15.47 fell to $11.23 in December of 1990 — a $4.23 per cwt drop.

It will be up to the dairy farmers not to allow this to happen again.

100 Turn Out For Weed Day

Good Growing Conditions Can Still Challenge Corn Trials

al controls that we have available," said Curran, associate professor of weed science at Penn State. "Also, the corn just doesn't close, the canopy doesn't close as quickly as beans, and so we've had some real challenges with total post control programs in corn."

As a result, using 15-inch rows has been a way of allowing corn to canopy faster and to look at the herbicide application results.

Primary weed problems with trials at the station include giant foxtail, lambsquarters, and giant velvetleaf. In the Roundup Ready trial looking at row size, corn was planted May 16 at 1.5 inch depth in 30-inch rows in a plot measuring 10 feet wide by 25 feet long.

"We were a little late this year in getting our corn in the ground because of the wet weather (in the spring)," said Curran.

"We had a post treatment that was put on the 13th of June and a later post treatment put on the 25th of June."

Curran was impressed with the application of Roundup twice on the narrow row corn.

While Roundup was effective on most weeds and effective against grasses, there was some difficulty in handling hedge bindweed. The bindweed was recovering from the application.

"This is a corn line that is in the early stages of development," he said. "We did see some tolerance problems, at least there was some separation. Some plants were outright killed with the Roundup, in application others looked fairly normal, so there's some segregation going on in this. For the most part I think the study looks pretty good."

A plus for the researchers has been the amount of rainfall to activate the soil-applied products, "so you can't use that as an excuse for why it didn't work," said Curran. "You have good, warm, humid growing conditions, where the weeds are all actively growing, not stressed out. So they tend to be a little easier to kill."

The only downside, according to the weed specialist, is the excessive rainfall in many areas in the southeastern portion of the state.

Because of the rainfall, "some of the herbicide pretreatments may have leached away or broken down, so you may have some flushes of weeds coming in mid-season. If we hadn't had all the rain, we might still have enough residual control to take care of it."

Also, with all the rain, vine weeds such as the burcucumber and troublesome soybean weeds such as Eastern Black Nightshade could cause concerns.

Also at the field day, Eastern Black Nightshade control in Roundup Ready soybeans was reviewed. Burcucumber control in soybeans was also reviewed, in addition to herbicide controls in reduced-tillage soybeans.

New this year, near the main barn, is the unveiling of the "weed graveyard," a demonstration plot of 50 different weed species, showing their common with their scientific names on stakes. They included the common giant foxtail (Setaria faberi) and common lambsquarter (Chenopodium album) as well as not-so-common weeds for the area, including mugwort (Artemisia vulgaris) and mile-a-minute (polygonum perfoliastum). All were inspected by visitors to the field day.

More than 100 farmers and agri-industry representatives turned out for the Penn State-Landisville Research Center field day on Monday.

Dr. Bill Curran, Penn State associate professor of weed science, looks over narrow row (15-inch row) Roundup Ready corn at the field day.

Pa. Holstein Championship Shows Set

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Holstein Association has announced its championship show schedule.

While one deadline has passed, those willing to pay a late entry fee could still be eligible to compete.

Competing in these shows and placing well provides exhibitors with points toward All-American status consideration for their show animals.

Those intending to compete in the final state champion show during the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show, Sept. 24, at the state Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg, should first compete in one of the regional championship shows.

For more information, call the Pa. Holstein Association at (814) 234-0346.

Northwest Show

The first show on the schedule is the Northwest Pennsylvania Championship show, set to be held 10 a.m. July 26 at the Warren County Fairgrounds, in Pittsfield, with Wayne Sliker, of Ohio, to be the judge.

The deadline for entry registration is past. Late entry fee is $10. Contact show chairman Steve Vanco at (814) 489-7921. Send late entries to: Dean Johnson, 149 Frantz Road, Warren, PA 16365.

Southwest Show

The Southwest Championship Show is set to be held 9:30 a.m. July 27 at the Fayette County Fairgrounds, in Uniontown. Steve Wood is to be judge for the show.

The deadline for entry is July 15. Entry fee is $6; late fee $10.

Entries should be sent to Rick Allen, RD1 Box 191-B, Smock, PA 16480. The show chairman is also Rick Allen. His telephone number is (412) 677-2589.

Show check-in deadline is July 26

Northern Tier

The Northern Tier Championship Show is set to be held 10 a.m. August 1 at the Wyoming County Fairgrouds, in Meshoppen. Richard Keene, from New York, is to be the judge of the show.

Deadline for entry is July 20. Entry fee is $6 by deadline; $10 thereafter.

Show check-in deadline is 4 p.m., July 31.

Northeast Show

The Northeast Championship Show is set to be held 9:30 a.m., August 20, at the Troy Fairgrounds in Troy. The judge of the show is to be Donald Cook.

Entry deadline is August 12, with an entry fee of $6; late entry $10.

Entries should be sent to show chairman George Page Jr., (717) 294-2984, at RD1 Box 81, Columbia Cross Roads, PA 16914.

Animals have to be checked-in by 6 p.m., August 19.

Southeast Show

The Southeast Championship Shows is set to start at 10 a.m., August 24, at the Schuylkill County Fairgounds, located near Pine Grove, with the judge yet to be announced.

The entry deadline is August 8, and the entry fee is $8. Late entry is $15, and there is also a $10 entry fee for substitution animals.

Duane Stoltzfus is chairman of the show and entries should be sent to him at RD1, Box 67, Morgantown, PA 19543. His telephone number is (610) 286-5060.

Show check-in deadline is August 23.

South-Central Show

The South-Central Championship Show is to start 9:30 a.m., August 10, at the Shippensburg Fairgrounds in Shippensburg, with Robert Morrell to be judge.

Entry fee is $10. The entry deadline is July 27. Entries should be sent to show chairman David Hill, 1020 Baltimore Road, Shippensburg, PA 17257; tel. (717) 532-2206.

Check-in deadline is 4 p.m., August 9.

Central Show

The Central Pennsylvania Championship Show is set to start 4 p.m. for heifers, 7 p.m. for 2-year-olds, at the Huntingdon Fairgrounds in Huntingdon, on August 17. Judge for the show is to be Ronald Heffner.

Entry deadline is August 5, and the entry fee is $5; $10 for late entries. Entries should be sent to show chairman John Foster Jr., at RD 1 Box 110, Petersburg, PA 16669; tel. (814) 667-3567.

Cutting Edge Technology At Summer Tour

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — About 150 Ciba and FMC customers attended the annual New Holland Summer Tour and picnic on Thursday morning here at the Paul Kurtz farm.

The "cutting edge" in precision farming technology was present when busloads toured several research sites, including satellite positioning technology, new chemistries for weed and insect control in corn and soybeans, and the advantages of growing narrow row corn.

At the global positioning system (GPS) demonstration provided by Mike Machek, director of GVM, Inc. in Midlothian, Va., those who registered for the tour saw how the GPS technology can make herbicide and nitrogen applications specific down to increments of 10 square feet. Farm fields can be "mapped" using satellite positioning, soil and harvest data, and in turn allows a producer to treat a field with pesticides and herbicides in precise increments.

Other demonstrations included using FMC's Authority, a broad-spectrum, broadleaf herbicide; the use of Broadstrike on soybeans; applications of Bicep, Broadstrike, and Exceed on corn; the use of Furadan 4F postemergence on corn borer; and some of the advantages of and challenges using narrow row corn.

Those who provided information for producers included Steve Fisher, FMC sales representative; Tara Soper, Ciba Plant Protection sales representative; Matt Mahoney, technical service representative, FMC; John Foresman, district sales manager, FMC; Bob West, sales representative for FMC; and Greg Roth, associate professor from Penn State, on narrow row corn.

After the tour, a free lunch was served.

At the Paul Kurtz farm in New Holland, the Ciba and FMC tour included the use of Broadstrike on soybeans.

About 150 Ciba and FMC customers attended the annual New Holland Summer Tour and picnic on Thursday morning here at the Paul Kurtz farm. Wearing the straw hat, Matt Mahoney, technical service representative for FMC, spoke about the broad-spectrum herbicide Authority, with John Foresman, district sales manager, FMC.

Muck It Up At Vegetable Field Day

CELERYVILLE, Ohio — Attendees to the 1996 Muck Crops Field Day will celebrate the 100th anniversary of crop production in Celeryville and learn about new research on vegetables.

"Basically, we're here to show farmers and other interested folk the research we're doing on salad vegetables," said Bill Evans, manager of the Celeryville branch of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center and coordinator of the event.

The July 25 field day will focus on research on lettuce, onions, radishes, celery, carrots, and other leafy green vegetables. Presentations will address variety evaluations, cultural studies, and weeds, disease, nemetode and insect control.

"For instance, Rich Hassell, a research scientist in the Department of Horticulture and Crop Science, is doing some work on transplant quality and transplant size," Evans said. "That's one of the cultural trials."

Ohio produces more than $100 million of fresh vegetables each year. It ranks second on processing tomatoes, with California holding top honors.

"Certainly vegetable growers are the main beneficiaries, but since we all pay the taxes that fund the station, anyone who wants to know a little bit about how their money is being spent could certainly benefit by coming here," said Evans.

"Even gadeners might pick up some useful information, although the event is targeted towards commercial growers."

Visitors to the field day can learn more about varieties that grow best in the north-central Ohio muck, integrated pest management and total crop management.

"They'll be able to meet with researchers and other growers,"

SHOW YOUR APPRECIATION

A true measure of your worth includes all the benefits others have gained from your success. — Cullen Hightower

What is the most enjoyable part of a junior livestock show?

As a parent, spectator, breeder, or exhibitor, several things may come to mind, and could be different for each category of participant.

I have not had the pleasure, yet, of participating in a junior show as a parent or breeder, but I have had the good fortune of participating as an exhibitor, spectator, and judge.

As a judge of junior livestock shows, some of the most memorable experiences I have enjoyed during the last 11 years include naming the grand and reserve champion animals at various shows, judging fitting and showmanship classes, and working with young people to help them learn why they or their animal finished at a certain place in the class or show.

Obviously, the look on a youngster's face after having been named the exhibitor of the grand champion steer of the show is a priceless commodity.

Similar to this would be the expression of a youngster who has done all of the fitting of her market lamb and wins the fitting and showmanship class.

Having served as a judge of junior livestock shows, one of the most enjoyable parts of a show is not necessarily during the show, but at its conclusion.

When a 9-year-old youngster comes up to me after the show, extends his right hand, looks me in the eye, and says with the utmost sincerity, "Thank you for judging our show . . . I learned something new and I hope to do a better job next year." This is one of the truly notable rewards for a junior livestock show judge.

Most of us thank friends and family for gifts we receive when we celebrate a birthday, graduation, or anniversary. We write thank you notes upon receipt of a scholarship, grant, gift, or other monetary or tangible item. The art of writing a note of thanks is customary and is practiced widely in the United States; but how often do we thank someone for a donation of time and effort?

As the summer and fall show season gets into full swing during the next few weeks, we need to be mindful to thank everyone who helped to make junior livestock projects and programs a series of successful educational events.

Numerous people donate money in support of ribbons, plaques, and trophies.

Other people contribute gifts and supplies to be used as awards. Still, others contribute support by freely giving of their time and effort to ensure the success of a junior livestock show. Show management and fair officials, ringmen, class and show sponsors, extension agents, vo-ag instructors, judges, auctioneers, buyers, 4-H club leaders, brothers, sisters, grandparents, aunts and uncles, and especially parents deserve a special thanks.

Most of us remember to thank the judge, show sponsors, ribbon and trophy donors, and most of all the buyers of our project animals; but we may tend to overlook some other important people who helped us with our projects.

Did you thank show management and fair officials for providing the resources necessary to conduct the fair?

Did you thank extension agents, vo-ag instructors, and 4-H club leaders for helping to check-in and weigh animals, making the classes and show order, compiling a sales list, making arrangements for "buy-back programs," and "scholarship funds"?

Did you thank your brother or sister for feeding the pigs when you spent three days at summer camp?

Did you thank your parents for taking you to the feeder animal sale, 4-H meetings, the feed mill, and to the fairgrounds for the show?

I am certain I have omitted in this list someone who deserves to be thanked.

Make a list of everyone who helped you in any way throughout the course of the project, and be sure to thank them. Thank them in person with a friendly handshake, or thank them by writing a short note to tell them how you feel.

They will appreciate your thoughtfulness. You'll feel good about yourself knowing that you did the right thing, and others will be more willing to help you in the future. Show your appreciation!

Have I thanked you recently for reading this column?

Dear readers of "It's Showtime":

I appreciate the time you have taken to read the articles I have written for this column, and I extend to you a gracious, heartfelt "thank you" for sharing with interested persons these ideas and those of others in order to enhance the quality of junior livestock programs in Pennsylvania. I hope we can continue to work together toward mutually acceptable and defined goals in junior livestock programs, such that a greater number of youth can reap the many benefits of these programs. Thank you for your continued cooperation and support.

Md. Holstein Picnic Set

NEW WINDSOR, Md. — The Maryland Holstein Association will be holding its annual picnic on Saturday, August 10, at 11 a.m.

Windsor Manor Farm, New Windsor, Md., home of the association's state president Jason Myers and family, will be the hosts this year.

There will be a catered lunch (no charge), a calf drawing for all Maryland youth under 21, a judging contest, volleyball, and other games.

Goat Field Day July 20

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — A goat field day is scheduled for Saturday, July 20, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the home of Jacob Fisher, 993 Holly Tree Road, Manheim.

The public is invited to attend. The field day is an opportunity for people to gain a basic knowledge of goats and goat care and to enjoy the fellowship of other people who share similar interests.

Speakers will be Nevin Gish on nutrition and the ruminant, Deb Fisher on Angora goats and spinning, Dr. Joy Goode on herd health, Glen Shirk on poisonous plants, and Jacob Fisher on hoof trimming and basic care. There will also be time for questions and answers.

People are invited to bring samples of hay and weeds for discussion, snacks, and recipes of goat foods to share with other people plus lawn chairs.

Beef Jackpot Show Picks Fuls Steer

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — The steer of Heather Fuls, 15, Karns City, was in top form at the Somerset County Beef Jackpot Show July 7. The grand champion was named supreme champion as well by judge Joe Boddicker, Waterford, Va.

The heifer of Kevin Campbell, Sycamore, was the heifer grand champion.

It was sweet victory for Fuls, who watched her steer, after the third show this year, bring home the fancy trophies for the first time.

Her sister, Megan, 10, on the other hand, has had consistent success with her steer which Boddicker slipped into the reserve grand champion slot. The animal has taken the reserve grand champion title in two previous shows.

The daughters of Kevin and Karen Fuls, the girls are enrolled in the Moniteau school district with their brother, Justin, who's 13, while their dad manages the Rolling Ridge Farms.

Luke Svonavec, 14, Rockwood, was named the Somerset County exhibitor champion. Erin Livengood, 15, Boswell, was the county exhibitor reserve champion.

Boddicker said that, comparatively speaking, the quality he saw in the 75 steers and 13 heifers was on a par with that of the much larger shows.

Heather Fuls, 15, holds the grand champion steer which was also named the supreme champion animal at the Somerset County Beef Jackpot Show.

Megan Fuls, 10, had the reserve grand champion steer at the Somerset County Beef Jackpot Show on July 7.

"They are truly exceptional head of cattle for the size of the show," he said. "I have truly been impressed by the quality.

"The kids have been great. Some of the cattle were acting up, but the kids have hung in there. It's a real tribute to your dedication," he said.

BioHio 96 To Feature Ultrasound Demonstrations

WOOSTER, Ohio — From the doctor's office to the barnyard, ultrasounds are becoming ultra-cool and even ultra-accessible.

This high-tech equipment will be on display July 19-21 at BioHio 96. Researchers with Ohio State University's Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center will demonstrate how ultrasound is used to view a fetus in the womb — a cow fetus, that is.

"We'll have a live cow there and have live demonstrations two or three times a day," said Kenny Brock, associate professor in the Food Animal Health Research Program.

"You'll be able to see the heartbeat, that it's alive, and we should be able to show what the sex of the fetus is by ultrasound," he said.

Brock hopes the demonstration will show people how modern medical technology is also being used in agricultural research.

"It would be nice for them to have an appreciation for how we use advanced technology to study cattle and reproduction," he said. Most people are fascinated by ultrasounds, Brock said. "Just being able to see the heartbeat, plus being able to tell the sex of the fetus and see what's going on inside the cow will be interesting."

In addition to the live ultrasound demonstrations, a video will show the uterus, ovaries and the different structures located on the ovaries.

"We'll also have a video showing the fetus at the different stages of gestation, like 50 days (old) and so on," Brock said. The ultrasound will be done on a cow that is approximately two months into gestation.

"You've got a fetus that's probably only 2 inches long, and you can see what it's like inside the cow," Brock said. "It's just like a miniature cow."

The ultrasound exhibit is more than just a way to draw people into BioHio 96; Brock will also be showing how the Food Animal Health Research Program uses ultrasound in its research to improve livestock health.

"It's a more specialized use than a medical practitioner would use," Brock said. "Hopefully, we'll use this exhibit to lead into what we do, which is look at the reproductive aspects of BVD virus infections. That's where we use ultrasound."

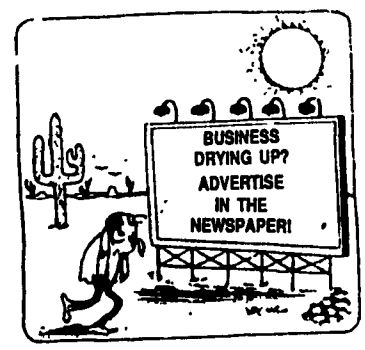
BVD, or bovine viral diarrhea virus, is a virus that affects the fetus in early stages of gestation.

"As far as reproductive pathogens go, it's pretty severe," Brock said. "It causes abortions and also affects the fetus directly."

BioHio 96 is an open house on the adjacent campuses of OARDC and the Ohio State University Agricultural Technical Institute in Wooster.

The event is being sponsored by Ohio State's College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences to show how agriculture touches all Ohioans. Co-sponsors are the components of the college: OARDC, Ohio State University ATI, Ohio State University Extension and teaching.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., July 19-20, and noon to 6 p.m., July 21. Admission and parking are free.



Getting rid of those annoying hang-ups in your operation is easier than ever.

The new SURGE® One Touch™ makes stanchion milking as easy as this. A lightweight, gun-grip design integrates the milk line and pulsation connections into one simple process. Yet it's built incredibly tough to handle the real world demands of the dairy barn.

Most importantly, One Touch brings high-tech automation to stanchion operators with two optional management modules.

The TIMEKEEPER™ II module signals you when the cow finishes milking and displays how long she took to milk...promoting fast, consistent milking that leads to better udder health.

The Milk Yield Module measures individual cow production and milking time, allowing instant analysis of each cow's performance.

By putting today's production information at your fingertips, the SURGE One Touch lets you capture your cow's performance in the palm of your hand.

LVNB Customers Flock To Beef Roast

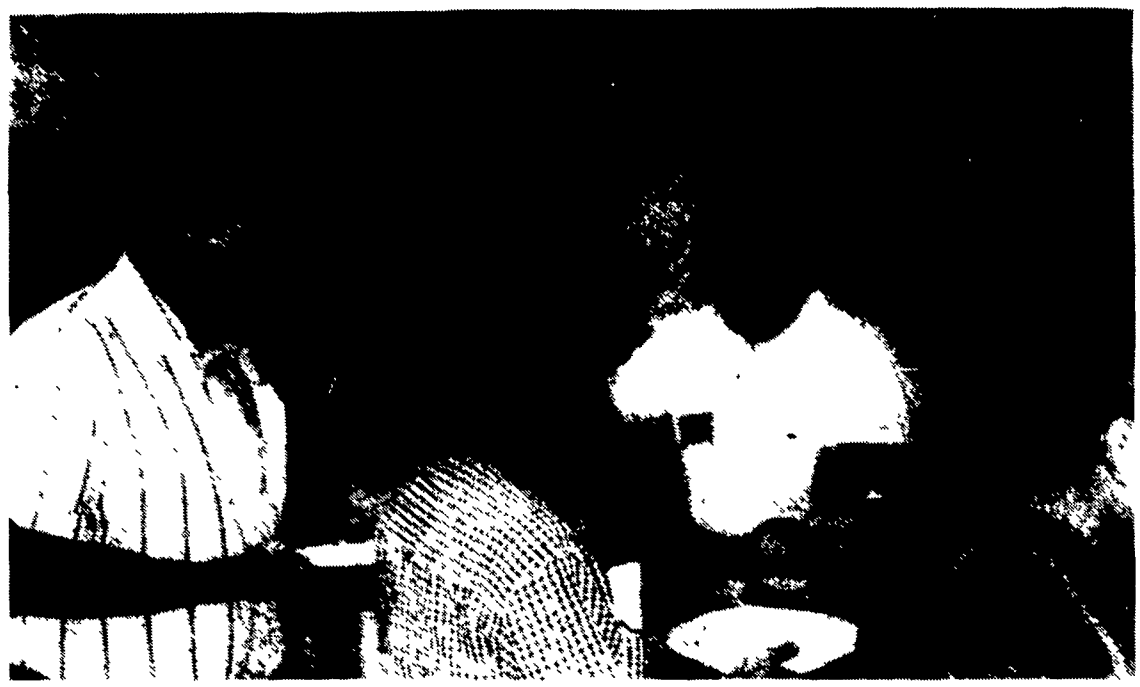
ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — More than 410 customers of Lebanon Valley National Bank (LVNB) chowed down on roast beef, corn on the cob, and macaroni salad at the bank's annual E-town Beef Roast on Wednesday.

The customer appreciation day came on the heels of an announcement by LVNB that the night before, approval was granted by Derry Township to build an LVNB branch office on Cocoa Avenue in Hershey, according to Albert B. Murry, president and CEO of LVNB, at the beef roast.

Murry indicated that construction should begin on the branch office in about three weeks and the office should be completed in November this year, with a grand opening probably in December. The cost of the branch, said Murry, is $650,000. That would be the 20th branch office of the bank.

Murry also said that approval was granted by West Hempfield Township to build another branch office in Silver Spring, a joint building with Turkey Hill Markets, and perhaps be open by the end of the year.

Another beef roast for LVNB customers is scheduled in August at Woodcrest Acres near Ephrata. Exact dates, as of presstime, were not announced.



More than 410 customers of Lebanon Valley National Bank (LVNB) chowed down on roast beef, corn on the cob, and macaroni salad at the bank's annual E-town Beef Roast on Wednesday. International Red Cow Conference Set MADISON, Wis. — Producers interested in capitalizing on red cow genetics are invited to attend a special conference, Sept. 28 to Oct. 2, 1997, in Madison, Wisconsin.

This will be the first time the conference is being held in the United States. Held every fourth year, the conference will include a day at World Dairy Expo.

Conference activities include six tours to Red & White, Ayrshire and Milking Shorthorn dairy farms, seminars on equipment, pasture management, nutrition, U.S. genetics and a World Dairy Symposium on Red Cattle, taking place at World Dairy Expo.

An optional pre-conference tour is also offered. The tour will take place Sept. 22 - 28 in Washington, D.C., Pennsylvania, New York, and Michigan. Pre-conference participants will tour 16 Ayrshire, Milking Shorthorn and Red & White farms, including the largest Red & White farm in the United States. A city tour of Washington, D.C. and a visit to Niagara Falls are included.

The International Red Cow Conference is being coordinated by the Red & White Dairy Cattle Association in cooperation with the Ayrshire Breeders Association, American Milking Shorthorn Society and U.S. Livestock Genetics Export, Inc.

Early bird registration is due Jan. 15, 1997 and regular registration is due Feb. 15, 1997.

MILK HELP YOURSELF

Assistance Offered To Farmers Preparing for Assessment Appeal

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — A database developed by Carol LaGore of Keystone Farm Credit offers comparative sale analysis of farm properties that may assist farmers in determining if they have grounds to appeal property taxes effective January 1, 1997.

According to the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce, if a comparative sales analysis indicates that your property has grounds upon which to appeal, then this database is capable of providing you with documentation that will be helpful in the appeal process.

One of the most effective methods for establishing the value of an individual's property is through comparable sales, which can be obtained through an appraisal or through the database offered by Keystone Farm Credit.

The Keystone Farm Credit database is a well-documented program administered by a certified staff and is comprised of 131 private and public sales from Lancaster County. It is continuously updated to provide current and accurate information and is utilized by the Farm Service Agency because of its policy of incorporating only sales within the last two years.

This database was created to service Keystone loan officers and appraisers contains a range of typical market values of farms based on five zones in Lancaster County. The values are broken down into land, building, type of soil, and other variables.

This comparative analysis database contains nonresidential comparative sales for every county in Keystone's service area except for Delaware and Philadelphia counties. Due to the high volume of sales and to insure accuracy of this database, Keystone's two branches in Lancaster County are monitored bi-annually.

The reassessment appeal will take place in the Reassessment Department of the Lancaster County Courthouse and will consist of a 10-minute session. During this time the property owner will be able to present evidence to one member of the assessment board that indicates that the reassessment of their property is inaccurate. Information that a property owner may want to consider bringing to their appeal includes anything that the property owner considers as evidence of the value of the property. As LaGore suggested, one must be prepared with documentation to most effectively present their case at the appeal.

The Keystone Farm Credit database provides information that is available to farmers for a small fee and will be a great resource for those preparing for an appeal. The database offers a method to determine if an appeal is feasible and a method by which to adequately prepare for the appeal process.

If you are interested in seeking the services of Keystone Farm Credit to aid you in preparation for an appeal, you may contact your local branch at Quarryville (786-7007) or Lancaster (291-1858).

To develop comparative sales analysis with Keystone, the property owner must be prepared with information that indicates the location of the property, basic building sizes, and assessed values. The services of the Keystone Farm Credit are available to any owner of nonresidential property and anyone choosing to utilize the services offered by Keystone Farm Credit should expect to pay a nominal fee.

LaGore also offered a word of caution: "The comparative analysis database may confirm or question the assessed value of a property." The best thing to do is to be prepared.

Sugar, Vegetables On Tap For Tours

FREMONT, Ohio — What could be better than a complimentary meal, a relaxing wagon tour, and lots of useful information on how to improve your livelihood?

That's exactly what sugar beet and vegetable growers will get when they attend two tours August 7 in Fremont at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center's Vegetable Crops Branch.

From processing tomatoes to pumpkins and potatoes, the latest research results will be on display at the Vegetable Crops Field Day from 3 p.m.-6 p.m. Both OARDC and Ohio State University Extension scientists will be on hand to answer questions about growing vegetable crops.

The program will include information on processing tomatoes, cultivar trials, pumpkins and potatoes. In addition, visitors can rest their feet by taking wagon tours of the various research plots.

OARDC Director Tom Payne will give opening remarks. Admission is free and open to the public.

The Sugar Beet Twilight tour will last from 5:30 p.m.-7:30 p.m., immediately following the Vegetable Crops Field Day.

"The purpose is twofold," said Ken Scaife, manager of the Fremont farm. "One is to ... bring the sugar beet growers together for a meeting to look at some of the research projects we have going on here. And secondly, to stimulate greater interest in sugar beef production here in the northwest Ohio and the southeast Michigan growing region.

"The reason that we're running the two concurrently is so that any interested vegetable growers that will be coming to the 3 p.m. tour will have the opportunity to hear some of the opening comments by the Great Lakes Sugar Co.," said Scaife.

"Perhaps they can recruit some growers that used to grow for them or get some new ones."

In between the two events will be a complimentary meal sponsored by Great Lakes Sugar Co., George F. Ackerman Co., and Rohm & Haas Co. with refreshments provided by Grower Service Corp.

"We'll be looking at some sugar beet research that is being conducted," said Scaife. "Those are topics in weed management, cultivar evaluation, and stand establishment. These are all areas of research that are being conducted kind of in a coopertive effort among us here at the Vegetable Crops Branch, the Great Lakes Sugar Co. and their Growers Association."

The sugar event is sponsored by OARDC and Ohio State University Extension in cooperation with Great Lakes Sugar Company; Fremont, Findlay and Blissfield Sugar Beet Growers Association; and Sandusky Soil and Water Conservation District. For more information, call Scaife at (419) 332-5142. Commercial and education displays are welcome.

LCI Urges Glickman

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. — Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman has received a letter from LCI Chairman of the Board Dr. Dreyfus Froe II urging him to fill the position of animal and plant health inspection service administrator with someone who is experienced with animal health issues.

"We want to urge that the administrator's office be filled with a competent animal health professional experienced in and committed to the prevention, control and eradication of livestock diseases. Our membership feels that this is especially important in the current situation of rapidly changing national and international commerce and livestock disease situations," wrote Froe in his letter.

In July, Dr. Lonnie J. King will step down as head of APHIS and begin a new position as dean of Michigan State University's College of Veterinary Medicine. King has served as administrator or acting administrator for APHIS since 1992.

Turkey Producer Builds Manure Storage Facility

SUNBURY (Northumberland Co.) — George J. Phillips of Northumberland County Conservation District has announced that a turkey manure storage facility has been constructed with the aid of the Chesapeake Bay Financial Assistance Program on the Kenneth Newman farm in Jordan Township, Northumberland County.

The storage structure will allow Newman to control manure generated from his turkey operation and prevent the pollution of roof and surface water runoff which could enter the local drainageway and eventually the Chesapeake Bay.

The structure was designed to enable Newman to clean out the manure in the fall and hold it until spring. Since the manure is to be safely stored until spring, the farmer can apply it to his cropland just before planting his crops, allowing more of the manure plant nutrients to be available for crop use, especially the nitrogen.

The manure storage facility will also help Mr. Newman improve the health and growth of the turkey flock during the winter months. By cleaning out in the fall and putting in fresh litter, less ammonia gas will be produced by the manure during the winter, providing a healthier environment for the turkey flock.

The Chesapeake Bay Financial Assistance Program provides cost share assistance for the installation of Best Management Practices (BMP's) to correct existing manure pollution and nutrient management problems. George Phillips, Chesapeake Bay technician for the Northumberland County Conservation District said, "The goals of the Chesapeake Bay Program are to reduce nutrient pollution and soil erosion from agriculture operations by cost sharing the installation of BMP's to control these problems."

The Northumberland County Conservation District is presently accepting requests for Chesapeake Bay Program financial assistance.

Farmers interested in the Chesapeake Bay Program may sign-up at the Northumberland County Conservation District Office.

Anyone who would like more information on the Chesapeake Bay financinal and technical assistance programs, may call the Northumberland County Conservation District at (717) 988-4224 or stop by the office, southeast of Sunbury, just off Rt. 890 on Plum Creek road.

Pa. Grange Urges Northeast Dairy Compact

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Now that the latest rounds of public hearings are over, the Pennsylvania State Grange urges United States Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman to approve the provisions of the North East Dairy Compact.

In a letter to Glickman, Gordon Hiller, president of the Pennsylvania State Grange, on behalf of the 30,000 Pa. Grange members, asked Glickman to enact the measure since it was passed by Congress as part of the 1995 Farm Bill.

"The compact reflects New England's collective desire to maintain its dairy farm heritage," Hiller wrote. ". . . Above all, it (the compact) represents cooperative state action at its very best."

Hiller said the compact enjoys the active support of the region's farmers, consumers, processors and all six of the New England governors.

"The broad-based support for the compact is indicative of its successful balancing between dairy farmers and dairy consumer markets," Hiller said. "Moreover, since four of the six states consume more milk than they produce, the consent of the states that are not consumers will be essential if the interstate commission is to set a farm price for milk above the federally-ordered level."

Hiller said the Grange, which supports the principles of the compact, believes it will be beneficial to producers while not adversely affecting the national dairy industry.

"The compact allows farmers who are outside the New England region, but who sell milk within the area to benefit from it," Hiller said. "It includes protection to ensure that the region does not increase milk production, and it includes a provision to sunset the compact after three years if it proves to be unsuccessful."

Hiller said the compact is a step toward providing Pennsylvania dairy farmers a price that will return them the average cost of production plus a reasonable profit.

Hiller said although the compact was included as part of the Farm Bill, Congress stipulated that it was contingent upon Glickman's approval before being implemented.

The Pennsylvania State Grange is a rural, agricultural and community service dedicated to improving the lives of rural Pennsylvanians. As a grass-roots organization, the Grange passes policy at its annual convention and works to implement that policy in local, state and federal government. For more information on the Grange, call 1-800-552-3865.

Ohio Dairy Specialist Says Feed Corn For Milk, Money

WOOSTER, Ohio — Dairy farmers should continue to feed corn despite high grain prices, said Tom Noyes, dairy specialist at the Wayne County office of Ohio State University Extension.

"The increase in milk prices has overcome the grain increases," Noyes said. "For a dairy farmer, income over feed costs are better today than they were last year."

Research conducted in New Zealand, Pennsylvania and Ohio shows that feeding corn increases milk production, especially in cows capable of high output. An increase of 1 to 3 pounds of milk for each pound of grain fed is normal, Noyes said.

Current milk prices are around $15 per 100 pounds, about $1.30 higher than last year and forecasted to rise further. Corn at $5 per bushel mixed with soybean meal will cost 10 to 11 cents per pound. But if that pound of grain causes a 1- to 3-pound milk increase worth 15 to 45 cents, it's cost effective to feed grain, Noyes said.

Forage from a management intensive grazing system supplemented with grain is efficient and productive feed. But high-protein pasture by itself does not provide enough energy to sustain high milk production, Noyes said. In fact, high levels of protein in a cow's stomach will degrade into excess ammonia. The energy it takes to remove extra ammonia may decrease milk output by 6 or 7 pounds per day if grain is not also fed.

"You have to get grain into a cow to fully use all the protein it's getting from grass," Noyes said.

A cow that does not get enough energy and is losing weight will not reproduce well. The reproduction system will virtually shut down in a cow that is losing weight, Noyes said.

"If you are a seasonal dairy and depend on getting cows bred on time, you had better think again about cutting out grain," he said.

Dairy farmers should monitor their cows' milk production and body condition to determine the amount of grain to feed, Noyes said. Grain costs can be lowered by reducing levels fed to cows nearing the end of lactation and dry cows in good condition. But producers shouldn't stop feeding grain entirely.

"A short-term savings in cutting out grain may cause long-term expenses if a cow's health, reproductive efficiency, body condition and milk production are not optimized," Noyes said.

Melissa Morrow Is Outstanding Guernsey Youth

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

MOUNTVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — The 1996 outstanding Guernsey youth, Melissa Morrow, daughter of John and Karen Morrow, of Tyrone, is working this summer as a college intern at the Mountville, Lancaster County, plant of New Holland-North America.

Talking with a telephone headset to equipment dealers from her desk, she has a computer terminal that helps her track down parts or whole pieces of New Holland brand tractors, implements and other equipment and prepare the orders.

Her job is part of the agricultural machine manufacturer's distribution system.

While the company is global, in her job at Mountville Morrow focuses on a distribution area that ranges from Michigan to Maryland and up to Maine.

The internship is a challenge she relishes, she said, because she and the other college interns are given real responsibility.

"They were nice enough to give us a lot of responsibility, not just filing, or cleaning up something that only gets done once a year. I'm actually doing something they hire someone to do on a full-time basis," Melissa said.

She said that talking with dealers and a few direct customers keeps her working days filled.

"I love talking to dealers on the phone and I really like working with them," she said. "It makes my days go fast."

She said she enjoys working with people, and she said she considers that having an agricultural background really helps understand customer/dealer needs for equipment and parts.

"I know what it means to have wet weather for two weeks and then have the opportunity to get the crop in," she said. "When it's time to get it done, it's time. You can't wait three to four weeks for a part for a combine. I understand that, and I think that helps in dealing with dealers and farmers."

In addition to telephone-, computer- and people-handling skills, she is also getting training on the latest equipment New Holland offers, such as its Genesis tractor.

"I learned to drive tractor at home, but I didn't do it often," she said. "I drove the latest model here. It's fun!"

In fact, she has been learning more about equipment and tractors and is to soon learn to drive a combine.

Those who visit this year's Penn State Ag Progess Days event at the College of Agricultural Sciences Rock Spring research station, August 13-15, can get a chance to see Melissa tout her knowledge.

As one of her last scheduled duties as a summer intern for New Holland, she is to represent the company and provide information on tractors and equipment at a demonstration area. Something she said she is looking forward to doing.

But in the meantime, she helps customers get the products they want and resides in company-arranged living quarters near work, where she has been able to live and meet with other interns.

Her intern roommate is from Ohio State University, she said, and while there are many of interns from Penn State University, there is one from Kansas and some from Nebraska.

Recently named the American Guernsey Association's outstanding Guernsey youth, Melissa Morrow sits at her desk with telephone headphones and computer terminal, ready to get orders ready for dealers.

She said she calls her parents, somewhat frequently, and has discussions with her father about the farm, the cows, which bulls she wants her 20 registered Guernseys to be mated to, how everything is going, and different plans.

She also catches up on news of her siblings: brother Matthew, 15, who is helping at the farm full time this summer; sister Kristi, 18, in Sweden on a student exchange; Mary 13; and Douglas, 9, who helps with feeding calves and is just starting showing in 4-H.

Melissa grew up on her parents' 380-acre dairy farm. Her father gave her a calf, "Olive," when she was 7 years old. Most of her stock has come from her father. She said she bought her first Guernsey two years ago from an Iowa farm.

Her parents have a 72-tie-stall barn and milk the cows there, keeping the animals inside when needed, mostly during the winter, but usually turning them out to graze.

She said her father has been practicing grazing for years, more intensively every year, Melissa said.

About half the main farm is devoted to permanent pasture, with her father having set up a series of permanent and semi-permanent fences the more intensive his grazing management has become.

"We always grazed a lot, but in past five to six years we have adopted intensive techniques," she said.

She said that the Guernsey breed does well on a pasture system. In fact, she doesn't hide her enthusaism for the breed as outstanding for using in an intensive grazing system.

While growing up and living at home, she had weekend chores and week-day evening milkings to do, along with feeding calves and putting up hay.

She also was keeping track of registrations for the herd, which she continues to do with her own cattle, and, up until this year, she was responsible for getting the show string together.

"Since college, if I'm home I help when needed," she said.

She was never heavily involved in showing, according to her. Though from the ages of 9 through 18, she showed every year in 4-H at the county, district and state level.

Closer to home, she showed at the Martinsburg Fair grand champion Guernsey in 1986 and 1987, adding that, "Since (then), I haven't done that well."

She has been doing her own Guernsey breeding program for several years. The highest classification she received on one of her bred and owned cows was 87-points, though she was scheduled to have the string classified this week, after press deadline.

Breeding an Excellent is, of course, a goal.

While she was busy with some chores on the farm growing up, she said her parents allowed her to pursue extra-curricular activities.

In high school, she lettered three years in three sports — basketball, track and cross-country.

In school she took an agriculture class for two years, but it wasn't the regular vocational agriculture curriculum offered to students on a non-academic track.

Instead, her high school offered an academic agriculture class that she said met twice-per-week and concentrated on career overviews, preparation and class work.

She also was a member of student council through her four years of high school and in 1992, served on the state student council board of directors for a year.

She became involved with the Pennsyvlania Guernsey Breeders Association the first year she went to the state 4-H show. She said her father, who has been involved with the Pa. GBA, wanted her to go to a meeting of the Pa. Jr. Guernsey Breeders Association, but she was shy and didn't want to go.

So he told her she wouldn't have to go, if only she would meet Patty McMurray, an adult supervisor.

Melissa said that it is difficult to say, "no," to McMurray.

Not only did Melissa end up attending the junior member's association meeting, but she signed up for and made its dairy bowl team. As a team, they won three national competitions at Guernsey conventions.

Now she helps with the dairy bowl competition by writing questions for competitions.

She also became involved with the Jr. GBA executive board, though now, at 21, she is too old to participate, she can serve as an adult assistant.

The recent winner of the American Guernsey Association's national outstanding youth contest, last year she was the Pennsylvania Guernsey queen and also served as the AGA's national Guernsey princess.

In that national promotion role, she said she traveled to several different places around the country on behalf of the breed organization.

She traveled to three national dairy shows as national princess — to Madison, Wisconsin, for the World Dairy Expo (Oct. 2-6, this year); to Louisville, Kentucky; and to the national Eastern Guernsey show held in Harrisburg as part of the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show (Sept. 24-26 this year).

Through that experience, she said she was given the opportunity to meet Guernsey breeders from throughout the United States.

Melissa Morrow stands on the cab steps of the latest big tractor from New Holland North America — it's Genesis line. She has trained on it while working for the company as a summer college intern.

"I worked at a booth at Madison, where the general public comes for information on the dairy industry," she said, "that was fun."

As princess, she said she also worked at a lot of Guernsey sales running sale slips, she made a few appearances in her tiara and sash at local shows, and was in her hometown Martinsburg Parade.

Another highlight of her tenure as Guernsey royalty was when state Agriculture Secretary Charles Brosius was sworn into office by state Gov. Tom Ridge in the lobby of the state Department of Agriculture in Harrisburg. She was there as part of the dairy promotion effort and was introduced to both as the national Guernsey princess and state Guernsey queen.

"I got to meet Secretary Brosius and Governor Ridge, which was very exciting for me," she said, "because one of my aspirations had been to possibly work in government relations working in agriculture, and I'd like to be the secretary of agriculture someday."

While she is somewhat knowledgeable about what kind of effort, dedication, and track record of personal and commercial success is necessary to be considered for a leadership post in the political arena, she said she hasn't gotten involved in politics, per se, at this point in her life.

However, she did work with state government, sort of.

In January, she worked with the state Department of Agriculture press office during the Farm Show, helping the staff with getting facts and results to churn out the press releases that usually are created about each major Farm Show event and contest.

She said she was proud to have written a news release about the annual Pennsylvania Dairyman's Association banquet — even if the event was cancelled because of the Blizzard of 96 and virtually no one saw the release.

"I'm hoping that I can (help with the press office) again at the 1997 Farm Show," she said.

Over the years, she said she learned that getting involved is the best way to be involved; not only as a way to find a route to a financially secure future, but to help shape one's own future and the outlook for others as well.

At college, she is a member of the National Agri-Marketing Association (NAMA), the Agricultural Student Council, is currently president of Sigma Alpha agricultural sorority, currently cheesebox chairperson with the Penn State Dairy Science Club, and is a member of the Penn State dairy judging team, where she is now helps team dairy judging and works as a teacher's assistant for judging. She also belongs to the Sinking Valley Presbyterian Church at home.

In 4-H she was president of her club for two years and also served as its vice president and treasurer.

This past year she also served as chairperson of the Penn State Dairy Science Club committee to create the first-ever All-Breeds annual convention.

She has attended dairy judging schools, and in 1991 went to Madison on the 4-H dairy judging team. Her team was first in the state that year during the Pa. All-American Dairy Show.

As is the case with the majority of college students, she started her studies at Penn State intending to pursue agribusiness studies, but then switched to dairy and animal science, mostly because of the people she knew enrolled in that program that she had met through 4-H or through attending the Governor's School.

After almost two years studying dairy science, she decided she was more interested and adept at agricultural business, and it was actually through her membership with NAMA and a contest that she participated in, that she decided that her best talents and most interest lies in the challanges of marketing.

She said her degree is to be in agricultural business management, but she is hoping to gain an honors degree in marketing through the university's scholars program.

In order to do that, this year she is writing a theses in marketing and taking additional marketing courses. While most bachelor degrees require about 120 credits, she expects to finish with about 150.

Her work with a NAMA marketing project contest convinced her that marketing is where she would like a career.

"Nutrition and chemistry are not my strong points," she said.

But she said she is keeping on with studies of genetics, dairy judging and animal science.

"I always knew I wanted to work with the public and people, but I didn't know it was through marketing until this year," she said.

Her NAMA project was to market Guernsey Gold milk. (In fact, she is a member of the AGA Golden Guernsey Milk Marketing Committee.)

"It consumed my life, but I enjoyed it," she said, "partly because of Guernseys, and partly because of marketing itself."

Currently vice president of the Penn State NAMA chapter, her marketing team traveled to San Diego in April to compete. The came within the top 10, though she wasn't certain exactly where, since finishes below fourth place weren't honored.

With that project, she and the rest of the team had to develop a marketing plan and make presentations. They had to figure out projected profits, advertising strategies, retail outlets, the customer base, and measurements of success.

"I knew I was more a business person than a science person," after that experience, she said.

She said winning the title of AGA's outstanding Guernsey youth was a special honor, however.

"It meant a lot. It came from people who I have a lot of respect for and an organization I really care for."

She said the Pa.GBA and the AGA validate the breed because through cooperation of all interested breeders, they can combine resources and prove bulls, keep track of production and people, register animals accurately, and provide a meeting place for people and resources.

It also provides a strong foundation for youth and it gives members something to lean on, she said.

In fact, she said her hope is that all breed organizations come together in a spirit of cooperation for the benefit of all.

"Just because there are different (cattle breed) associations doesn't mean the associations should work together," she said.

"Together we can work to keep the dairy industry strong.

"I think I'd really like to see the breed organizations pull together with the promotion and marketing organizations to promote milk and to educate the public, before we get any negative publicity.

"I think sometimes the dairy industry is slow to react. All the time we should be presenting answers, not just defending ourselves, but to be pro-active."

For those who would like to become involved in a similar manner to what Melissa has done, such as becoming a promotional princess, she said that the first thing she would recommend is, "To have a passion for what you are doing. You really need to believe in what you're doing. And as long as they want to, everyone could and should try."

Melissa said she has had some great mentors in life.

"There have been a couple of people in my life who have influenced me," she said.

"One is my father," she said pausing a little, her eyes misting slightly, "and my mother. I'd like to be as good a mother someday.

"And there's one woman whom I admire very much. Bernetta Gable. She herself runs her farm and I always thought she was great and she really has great cows and she's a wonderful person.

Tanya Thoman Reigns In York County

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

DALLASTOWN (York Co.) — Three years as a dairy maid may have given the new York County Dairy Princess a solid background in her milk promotion responsibilities.

"It's the job of the dairy maids to assist the princess in promoting the dairy industry. I helped at parades, shows, some school and store promotions," explains Tanya Thoman, York County's 1996-97 Dairy Princess. "That helped to prepare me for what I have to do and to feel more comfortable talking with people."

Tanya was crowned at the York County Dairy Princess pageant, held June 15 at the York Galleria Mall. The 16-year-old princess is the daughter of Gary and Gail Thoman, Dallastown R3, and a junior student at Dallastown Area High School.

She promptly jumped into her princess activities, with several appearances the first week of her reign, including library and preschool visits. At the recent York County extension's "Down On The Farm" agriculture camp, Tanya talked with the non-farm campers about the dairy industry and helped them make batches of pudding.

There are already several official events scheduled into her busy summer, including the mid-July state Dairy Princess Training Seminar at Lycoming College and the York 4-H Dairy Roundup and Holstein Show. In celebration of July National Ice Cream Month, Tanya will also help with the annual Ice Cream On The Courthouse Steps event at the York County Courthouse on July 25.

The oldests of the Thoman's four children, Tanya is well-versed in the dairy industry, having grown up on the family's 55-head Gar-Will registered Holstein operation. She has two younger brothers, Craig, 14, and Chad,

Tanya Thoman Reigns

8, and sister Amber is 2. Tanya's farm responsibilities include helping with the evening milking, tending the baby calves and occasionally lending a hand with harvest on busy haymaking days.

A nine-year 4-H and Junior Holstein member, the new princess owns about 20 head of project cattle and exhibits at local and district shows. One disappointment for Tanya is that she has been unable to get one of her favorite heifers safe in calf this year and will have to leave her out of the season's showstring ...

Tanya is president of both the Southcentral Dairy and the Loganville Community 4-H clubs and recently participated in the 4-H State Capitol Days at Harrisburg. She is a veteran seamstress and very successful competitor in the 4-H Fashion Revue events.

"I thought it would be a cool thing to learn to sew when I started in 4-H," she relates of her initial decision to take up sewing projects. "I like the feeling of wearing something I've made. A lot of people are amazed when they found out that you've made your own outfit."

"I like doing it, but I do get frustrated sometimes on the patience part," she admits with a grin. And, like most 4-H seamstresses, ripping out and re-sewing is not one of Tanya's favorite parts of the fashion projects.

However, ripping frustrations are forgotten when, as Tanya has experienced, the judges select a 4-H garment worthy of moving on to regional, and then state, fashion revue competition. Last year, the more than 30 hours of sewing she put into a full-lined wool suit and matching blouse paid off with a trip to 4-H State Days.

Her project this year is a bright-red, three-piece ensemble of top, pants and skirt. She expects the outfit to be especially useful for some of those upcoming dairy princess activities.

Tanya enjoys music and singing, is a member of the Dallastown High School's concert choir and has participated in some of the school's musical productions. She works on the yearbook staff and is on the Honor Roll. As needed, the new princess also works part-time for the Brown's Orchard Retail Market at Loganville, helping to dip and serve ice cream.

"I definitely plan on going to college," Tanya says of her future educational plans. She may focus on the dairy and animal science field and hopes to pursue a career within the dairy industry, possibly in the promotion arena.

"I think we should use our skits throughout the year and promotional events," says Tanya of the original skit presentations dairy princesses are required to prepare for state competition. Tanya's skit, used as her pageant presentation, is a puppet show, which she plans to share with audiences whenever appropriate during her year-long reign.

"I'm proud of where I live and what I do as a member of a dairy farm family. As a dairy princess, maybe I can give back something to dairying," she hopes, adding, "My heart is really in it."

York County Dairy Princess Tanya Thoman can be contracted for promotional appearances through her mother and booking coordinator, Gail Thoman, at R3, Box 400, Dallastown, PA 17313, or by calling (717) 428-1832.

York Selects Royal Court

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — Four young women have been selected to serve as the York County dairy industry's "royal court" and assist Dairy Princess Tanya Thoman with milk promotion activites.

Named dairy maids are Heather Crowl, Sara Jo Greek, and Jessica Pomraning. Suzann Pomraning is the Dairy Miss.

Heather Crowl, 14, is the daughter of Joyce and Ellis Crowl, Airville. She is a freshman student at Red Lion Area High School. A member of the Milk-N-Money 4-H Club and the York County Dairy Judging Team, Heather owns 13 head of dairy animals, five of them Holsteins, four Brown Swiss and four Milking Shorthorns.

Sara Jo Greek, 14, is the daughter of Mary and David Greek, Delta, and a freshman at Red Lion Area High School. She is a cheerleader, pianist for her church, and involved in drama club. As a member of the Milk N-Money 4-H Club, Sara owns ' ree animals and enjoys helping with the work on her uncle's dairy farm.

Jessica Pomraning, 14, is the daughter of Teresa and Myron Pomraning, Delta. A sophomore at Red Lion Area High School, Jessica is involved in the school's band front and musicals and enjoys playing piano. The family, which includes three younger sisters of Jessica, milks a 60-head mixed herd.

Youngest of the Pomraning daughters is Suzann, 9, York County's newest Dairy Miss. Suzann is a member of the Milk-N-Money 4-H Club and owns two head of cattle. She also enjoys playing the piano.

Mushrooming Ideas

Fresh mushrooms are a cook's best friend. Wherever that special touch is missing—if you need just a little something to dress things up or to add an extra dimension of flavor—your answer is mushrooms.

Mushrooms, with their intriguing range of tastes and textures, have a nautral affinity with all kinds of foods. Available year-round, their uses, raw and cooked, are endless and they're at home in every cruisine.

When buying mushrooms, look for smooth, firm caps. Some peat moss on surface is acceptable. Fresh mushrooms with closed veils (undersided attached) give a delicate flavor. Open veils offer a somewhat richer taste.

Refrigerate mushrooms immediately after purchasing and use as soon as possible. Store in paper bag to reduce moisture buildup.

Remove any clinging particles with a damp cloth. Rinse quickly and pat dry. Never soak. Trim stems only if they are dry.

Mushrooms are low in calories (only 20 for five medium-size white mushrooms), fat free, cholesterol free, and sodium free. They are high in riboflavin and a good source of niacin, panthothenate, and copper.

For more information about mushrooms and recipes, write to the Mushroom Council, 2200-B Douglas Blvd. Suite 220, Roseville, CA 95661.

TWO CHEESE AND MUSHROOM PIZZA

1 package Italina bread shell (like Boboli)
8 ounces fresh white mushrooms, sliced (about 2½ cups, divided)
1 cup shredded fontina or mozzarella cheese
½ cup thinly sliced green bell pepper
¼ cup drained and chopped oil-packed sundried tomatoes
¼ cup thinly sliced sweet onion
½ cup grated parmesan or asiago cheese

Preheat oven to 450 degrees. On a 12-inch pizza pan, place bread shell. Arrange half of the mushrooms in a single layer; sprinkle with fontina. Top with green pepper, tomatoes, onion, and remaining mushrooms. Sprinkle with parmesan. Bake until hot and cheese is melted, about 10 minutes. 4 portions.

ITALIAN SKILLET MUSHROOM AND CHICKEN STEW

1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 pound boned and skinned chicken breasts
1 pound fresh white mushrooms, quartered
1 cup coarsely chopped onion
1 cup diced celery
1 teaspoon minced garlic
2 cans Italian stewed tomatoes
½ teaspoon salt
8 ounces fresh green beans, trimmed and halved

In a large nonstick skillet, heat oil until hot. Add chicken; cook until brown, 3 to 4 minutes a side; remove from skillet. To skillet add mushrooms, onion, celery and garlic; cook, stirring frequently, until tender, 6 to 8 minutes. Add tomatoes, salt and chicken; top with greens. Cover and simmer until chicken is cooked through, 5 to 6 minutes longer. Serve over hot cooked rice, if desired. 4 portions.

STUFFED MUSHROOMS PARMIGIANA

12 large fresh mushrooms
2 tablespoons butter
1 medium onion, finely chopped
½ cup pepperoni, diced
¼ cup finely chopped grated pepper
1 small clove garlic, minced
½ cup finely crushed rich round crackers
3 tablespoons grated parmesan cheese
1 tablespoon snipped parsley
½ teaspoon seasoned salt
¼ teaspoon dried oregano
Dash pepper
⅓ cup chicken broth

Wash the mushrooms. Remove stems; finely chop stems and reserve. Drain caps on paper toweling. Melt butter in skillet; add onion, pepperoni, green pepper, garlic, and chopped mushroom stems. Cook until vegetables are tender but not brown. Add cracker crumbs, cheese, parsley, seasoned salt, oregano, and pepper; mix well. Stir in chicken broth. Spoon stuffing into mushroom cpas, rounding tops. Place caps in shallow baking pan with about ¼ -inch water covering bottom of pan. Bake, uncovered, in 325 degree oven about 25 minutes or until heated through. Makes 12 stuffed mushrooms.

STUFFED MUSHROOMS

20 large fresh mushrooms, stems removed and set aside
Butter
1 pound Italian sausage, hot preferred
6-ounces hickory smoked cheese spread

Heat oven to 300 degrees. On a baking sheet lined with parchment paper, place the mushroom caps brushed with butter in the center.

Fill mushrooms caps. Place in 300 degree oven for 10 to 12 minutes. Makes a good appetizer.

Julie Fox of Annapolis, Maryland, combined chicken, mushrooms, and sage cream to place first in the Delmarva Chicken Cooking Contest held recently in Salisbury, Md. The recipe for Chicken with Mushrooms and Fresh Sage Cream is the featured recipe this week.

Featured Recipe

Julie Fox of Annapolis, Maryland was named the top winner in the Delmarva Chicken Cooking Contest held recently in Salisbury, Maryland.

Her Chicken with Mushrooms and Fresh Sage Cream was prepared in competition with 19 other finalists representing mid-Atlantic and northeastern sections of the United States. In addition to the honor, Fox received a seven-day Caribbean vacation for two, $1,000, a Frigidaire self-cleaning range, Cutco cutlery, LP gas grill, Farberware cookware, Proctor-Silex toaster oven, and a McCormick spice rack with spices.

CHICKEN WITH MUSHROOMS AND FRESH SAGE CREAM

4 broiler-fryer chicken breast halves, boned and skinned
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon freshly ground pepper
3 teaspoons olive oil
2 cloves garlic, minced
1½ cups sliced crimini mushrooms
¾ cup chopped green onion
½ cup dry white wine
8-ounces low-fat cream cheese, cubed
½ cup grated parmesan cheese
¼ cup low-fat milk
2 tablespoons chopped fresh sage
4 cups hot cooked linguine
Parmesan cheese
Fresh sage

On hard surface with meat mallet, pound chicken to ¼ -inch thickness. In a shallow dish, mix together flour, salt, and pepper. Add chicken, one piece at at time, turning to coat on all sides. In large non-stick frypan, place oil and heat to medium-high temperature. Add chicken and cook, turning, about 8 minutes or until chicken is brown and fork tender. Arrange chicken on platter; cover loosely and keep warm. To drippings in frypan, add garlic, mushrooms, green onion, and wine. Cook, covered, over medium-low heat 3 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Add cream cheese, parmesan cheese, milk, and sage, stir constantly until cheeses melt and sauce is smooth. Place linguine on four serving plates; arrange chicken on linguine. Spoon mushrooms and sage cream over chicken. Pass additional parmesan cheese and garnish with fresh sage. Makes 4 servings.

Remember?

Late January. A raw Sunday morning. The wind is blowing. Snow is beginning to pile up on the ground. Cold. Ugly. Farm Show week, in case you've forgotten.

Remember?

Roads closed. Offices closed. Out of school. Out of power. Out of bread and milk — except on farms, where trucks couldn't get in to pick up what quickly became too much of a good thing.

And, when we looked it up, the Blizzard of '96 had been predicted months ahead, at least by The Farmers Almanac. Remember?

If you recall, we looked ahead at some of the rest of the year's weather predictions. And I resolved then to pay a little attention to the predictions versus the weather, just for fun, to see how closely they would track. But you all know about how resolutions go, right?

Lucky for me, one of our faithful readers is better at resolutions than I. She called one recent afternoon, having been much more dependable at tracking the comparison. Her report: within a day or two, most of those Farmers Almanac predictions have been on target.

Just for reference, late April was to have storms. (Actually, a lot of April, and May, and June — was stormy. Just ask the soggy folks around Gettysburg.) A very hot spell was to set in by mid-June. It did right on time. Followed by my own prediction of a hatch of pesty flies. The Farmer claims it is one of the worst fly years he can remember, since those fly-egg-hatching wet spots haven't dried up so far this season.

Memorial Day was predicted to be rainy. It was. The first three days of July were predicted to see heavy thunderstorms in our area — we did. Independence Day was predicted to be nice. We shivered through the morning but the afternoon was lovely.

You get the idea. So, now for an update.

The rest of July is a mixed bag of predictions of hot weather and heavy thunderstorms, not an earthshaking expectation. July is my least favorite month, because of the generally extreme heat and humidity, but no predictions of extended periods of that this year. And, dining on fresh tomatoes, cucumbers, beans, peaches, etcetera is a fine tradeoff for enduring July's often-uncomfortable weather symptoms.

But, be reminded, as our caller warned of that Farmers Almanac prediction — there's an August 4-7 hurricane threat for the Eastern Seaboard. Of course, that could be anywhere from Miami to Boston, or the entire length. Since the first of the season's churning tropical storms is already history, that possibility is far too real. Our daughter and grandson will arrive from the West Coast in early August to visit so I have a personal desire to see that prediction fall flat on its face.

Sorry kiddies, but very late August, when you eagerly return to those classrooms, it will be hot, hot, hot. Labor Day is expected to generate nasty thunderstorms across most of the country; here in the Northeast, they're not to be a problem until later in the week. York Fair week looks like a "fairly" nice one, cooling down, as it often does, by the last night or two. Mid-September brings more hurricane threats to the Southeast, and we never know which direction those babies will track once they hit land.

October will roll in with storms in our area. By the end of the first week, snow is predicted to be dusting the mountains of Idaho and Montana. More storms for us by mid-month. Could be a soggy corn harvest season.

Look for late heavy thunderstorms the second week of November. (Last year, we got our first snow then.) Unsettled weather for Thanksgiving. And, as I predicted in January, we will not have a white 1996 Christmas. Bag the sleds and skates until later.

Thanks to a faithful reader for keeping track when we were lax.

And with the Hurricane Season threatening, we reiterate our warning of late January: stock up on bread and milk. And candles.

Locust Grove Sets Annual Auction

SMOKETOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Quality handcrafted items will be featured at the 22nd annual chicken barbecue and country auction at Locust Grove Mennonite School July 19-20.

Ben Brubaker, well-known for his dollhouses, donated a log style dollhouse to the auction this year. Ever since his retirement his hands have kept busy, building grandfather clocks, lanterns, and dollhouses. He is currently working on his 86th dollhouse. He designs his own architectural and floor plans and makes just about everything in the house himself.

Dave Thomas, whose grandchildren are students at Locust Grove, also spends most of his time in his workshop. For more than 10 years he has been making handcarved wooden toys, donating them to charitable causes or giving them to his grandchildren. A truck made by Thomas will be auctioned this year.

Another local craftsman, Harold Buckwalter, has been carving since 1970. He taught himself the skills of carving wood with the help of seminars and books. His beautiful carving of Noah's Ark with 15 pairs of animals will also be featured at the auction.

Along with being a part-time pastor, Elmer Brubaker finds the time to work in his woodshop. He learned the skills of woodwork in high school, and for the past 10 years it has been his hobby. A replica of a wooden shaking fork with Elmer Brubaker's initials will be available at the auction.

The barbecue takes place Friday, July 19 from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. while the auction begins at 8 a.m. on Saturday, July 20 and continues throughout the morning and afternoon. The proceeds will benefit Locust Grove Mennonite School.

A new feature this year is the Friday night auction. Patron donated gift certificates will be auctioned at 7 p.m. A silent auction will also be held at the same time. Among the special items to be auctioned are an oak cedar lane chest donated by Good's Furniture, a "Little Barn" shed from Black Bear Structures, a handmade wooden bed and quilt with an American Girl doll, a handcarved truck by Sam Martin, and 25 Superbox tickets for Phillies games, which includes parking and catering. Business certificates will be sold during the auction on Saturday.

For more information, call the school office at (717) 394-7107.

Cook's • Question • Corner

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send an SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Sometimes we receive numerous answers to the same request, and cannot print each one.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — Charlotte Devilbiss, Taneytown, Md., needs the address of the company that makes Clear-Jel.

QUESTION — A Potter County reader would like a recipe for green tomato mincemeat made without meat and for au gratin potatoes.

QUESTION — Donna Rae Burgett, Newville, wrote that last year she used a recipe for black rasperry syrup that appeared in this column. The syrup was a big hit with her family, but she lost the recipe. Do any of our readers know to which recipe she is referring and have clipped out the recipe? If so, could you please send a copy so that we can print it again.

QUESTION — Marilyn Austin, Amsterdam, N.Y., wants recipes using mincemeat.

QUESTION — Anna Lynch, Pasadena, Md., wants recipes for plain yeast bread.

QUESTION — Anna Bryan, Oxford, N.J. wants to purchase a used cookbook titled "Good Earth Country Cooking" by Betty Groff and Jose.

QUESTION — A "faithful reader" has been looking for recipes for making scones. It's a dough, rolled into a circle and cut in wedges and baked on a cookie sheet. Also, what is the origin of the name?

QUESTION — Yvonne Musser, Lancaster, said she would like a recipe for buttermilk salad like they serve at Akron Restaurant in Akron. Also, she is looking for a recipe for rhubarb torte like that made at Shady Maple Deli in East Earl. This torte has a graham cracker crust, then a rhubarb layer, and a cream cheese marshmallow topping.

QUESTION — Joanne Stauffer, Myerstown, would like a recipe for jelly made with little or no sugar.

QUESTION — Dixie Fix, Harrisonville, would like some recipes using stuffing tomatoes. She planted seed from Gurney's. All they had was yellow seed. Does anyone know if seeds are available for green stuffing tomatoes or if they can be stuffed like peppers and frozen?

QUESTION — A reader would like to have recipes for hash browns, and fruit cocktail jam that has vanilla instant pudding and orange Jell-O as an ingredient.

QUESTION — A reader would like a recipe for chocolate pizza made in a pizza pan.

QUESTION — Alta Sensenig, Newville, would like to have a recipe for butter and egg dinner rolls, which are really moist.

QUESTION — Ruth Virginia Erb, Beavertown, would like a recipe for the starter to Romtoph Friendship cake. She stored her starter in the freezer, but her husband though it was ice cream topping and ate it.

QUESTION — Christine Ayers of Clarks Summit would like a recipe for apple cider doughnuts and cabbage salad that tastes like that made at the Country Cupboard Restaurant in Lewisburg.

QUESTION — Deanna Cunfer, Lehighton, would like recipes for broiled scallops. She writes that when she makes them at home they lack that special something that makes them so tasty at good restaurants.

QUESTION — D. Newsom, N.Y., would like a recipe that tastes similar to Mrs. Smith's French Apple Pie made with raisins and confectioners' icing on top.

QUESTION — A faithful New York reader would like a recipe for an old-fashioned strawberry shortcake with a cooked frosting. Also, a recipe for quick cinnamon sticky buns and quick cinnamon swirl bread made without yeast.

QUESTION — Lorraine Bannon, Waymart, would like a recipe for cider sauce to put on ham such as that served by Miller's Restaurant.

QUESTION — A York County reader would like to know how to pasteurize eggs at home.

QUESTION — Linda Ludwig, Reading, would like recipes for blueberry and cinnamon raisin bagels, and an apple tart with syrup topping like those sold by Ruppert's Bakery at the Leesport Auction years ago.

ANSWER — Lynda Lamp, Baltimore, Md., wanted a recipe that her mother's friend used to make about 20 years ago called Triple Chocolate Cake. She remembers that it was made with a chocolate cake mix, chocolate pudding, and chocolate chips. Instead of icing, the top was dusted with confectioners' sugar. Thanks to those who sent recipes, including Helen Refi; Rita Ocker, Shippensburg; Lydia Kurtz, Ephrata; Verna Moll, Temple; Susan Hague, East Brunswick, N.J.; Linda Stoltzfus, Leola; Fran Gruver, Refton; Betty Light, Lebanon; Pat Elligson, Millers, Md.; and Kathy Miller, Bruceton Mills, W.Va.

Triple Chocolate Cake

1 box chocolate cake mix
4-ounce package instant chocolate pudding
12 ounce bag chocolate chips
1½ cup water
2 eggs
¼ cup vegetable oil

Mix all ingredients together. Bake in ungreased bundt pan for 40 minutes at 350 degrees. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar after it has cooled.

ANSWER — D.R. Newsom, Copperstown, N.Y., wanted a recipe for moon pies. Thanks to a McAlisterville reader, who sent in this one:

Moon Pies

Place dried apple snitz (peeled) in heavy pot (at least twice as big as the amount of snitz). Add cold water to almost even with top of snitz. Let soak one hour or more.

Bring to boil over low heat, stirring every 15 minutes. Add more water if it cooks too dry, but not more than needed. Simmer until soft.

Put through food mill. Add a little sugar, pinch of salt, cinnamon, and nutmeg to suit taste. Cool. Roll out pastry dough to make about 5-inch circles. Place desired amount of cooked snitz on ½ of dough. Fold other half of snitz and press together edges. Trim edges.

Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Brush tops with beaten egg. Punch three holes in top crust with sharp fork or knife. Bake at 475 degrees for ½ hour.

ANSWER — Thanks to an anonymous reader for sending a requested recipe that tastes like Almond Joy or Mounds candy bars.

Coconut Candy Centers

1 cup sugar
1½ cups light corn syrup
½ cup water
14 ounces flaked coconut (about 4 cups)
½ teaspoon almond extract

Combine sugar, corn syrup and water in a 2-quart saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until sugar dissolves; cook to a soft boil stage (236 degrees).

If sugar forms crystals on side of pan, wipe them off. Remove from heat, add coconut and almond extract.

Pour onto marble or laminated plastic counter and let cool.

When cool, shape into large balls or cover with wax paper and store in cool place or refrigerator overnight until ready to dip.

GRILLED TURKEY MUSHROOM BURGERS WITH CHUTNEY SAUCE

1 pound ground turkey
8 ounces fresh white mushrooms, finely chopped
½ cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons plain lowfat yogurt
3 tablespoons chopped Major Grey chutney

Preheat grill or broiler. In a bowl, mix turkey, mushrooms, onion, Worcestershire sauce, and salt. Shape into 4 (¾ -inch thick) patties. Place on a grill or broiler rack. Grill 4 inches from heat until cooked through, about 5 minutes a side. Combine yogurt and chutney; serve with burgers. Yield 6 portions.

CHINESE STYLE STIR-FRIED MUSHROOMS

2 tablespoons peanut oil
1 teaspoon minced ginger
1 teaspoon minced garlic
8-ounces fresh white mushrooms, quartered
1 tablespoon soy sauce
½ teaspoon Oriental sesame oil
1 tablespoon sliced green onion, green part only.

Over medium-high heat, heat a large heavy nonstick skillet until a drop of water sizzles on the surface. Add oil, ginger, and garlic; cook, stirring constantly, until fragrant, about one minute. Add mushrooms; cook, stirring frequently, until mushrooms are golden brown, 3 to 4 minutes. Add soy sauce and sesame oil; cook and stir until most of the soy sauce evaporates, 1 to 2 minutes. Remove from heat; sprinkle with green onion. Top with toasted sesame seeds and serve over steamed rice, if desired.

FRESH WHITE MUSHROOMS WITH HERBS

2 tablespoons olive oil
8-ounces fresh white mushrooms, halved, quartered or cut into ¼ -inch thick slices
½ cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon minced garlic
1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley
1 tablespoon chopped fresh tarragon
½ teaspoon salt
Pinch ground black pepper

In a large nonstick skillet over medium-high heat, heat olive oil until hot. Add mushrooms and onion; cook, stirring frequently, until mushrooms are golden, about 5 minutes. Stir in garlic, cook and stir, until garlic is fragrant, about 30 seconds. Add parsley, tarragon, salt and black pepper; cook, stirring frequently, until herbs coat the mushrooms and flavors are blended, about one minute.

Yields 2 portions, 1¼ cups.

Mushroom Council

MUSHROOM MEDLEY CHOWDER

¼ cup butter
1 pound mixed fresh mushrooms, chopped or sliced
1 cup diced peeled potatoes
1 cup diced carrots
½ cup diced celery
½ cup chopped onion
13¾ -ounces chicken broth
2 cups half and half
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper

In a medium saucepan melt butter. Add mushrooms, potatoes, carrots, celery, and onion; cook, stirring frequently, until mushrooms are golden, 6 to 8 minutes. Stir in chicken broth and one cup water; bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, for 15 minutes. Meanwhile, in a small bowl, combine half-and-half, cornstarch, salt and pepper; stir into saucepan. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil. Cook and stir to thicken slightly, about one minute longer. Serve hot, garnished with chives, if desired. Yields 6 portions.

Mushroom Council

ALMOST INSTANT MUSHROOM SAUCE WITH FETTUCCINE

8 ounces fettuccine (uncooked)
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 pound fresh white mushrooms, sliced
½ cup sliced green onions
1 teaspoon minced garlic
1 cup diced tomato
¼ cup chopped fresh basil
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup lowfat ricotta cheese

Cook pasta according to package directions; drain, reserving ¼ cup cooking liquid; return pasta to pot. Meanwhile, in a large skillet heat oil until hot. Add mushrooms, green onions, and garlic; cook, stirring frequently, until mushrooms are tender, 5 to 6 minutes. Stir in tomato, basil, and salt; cook until tomato is just warm, about one minute. To pasta in pot, stir in ricotta cheese and enough cooking liquid to make a creamy sauce. Add mushroom mixture; toss. Serve with grated parmesan cheese and ground black pepper; if desired. Yields: 4 portions.

WORKING TOGETHER MAKES SENSE

Growing up in Lancaster County, I heard the expression, "Many hands make light work."

If that is so, we need to look again at a concept dating back to the mid-1700s for help in gathering those hands — the cooperative.

Cooperatives, or user-owned, user-controlled businesses, are usually formed to offer products or services to their members. One type of cooperative, the marketing co-op, combines the products of a number of growers or manufacturers so that, together, the group can go after bigger sales opportunities and get better prices for the members.

Supply cooperatives, on the other hand, buy supplies in bulk for their members, then offer them at a reasonable price. Supply cooperatives also offer a dependable supply of resources so that, even during times of shortage, members will have access to the items needed to keep their operation up and running.

A third type of cooperative is a service cooperative. Through a service cooperative, members gain access to specialized services related to purchasing and marketing — usually in the areas of credit, utilities, specialty services (breeders cooperatives, for example) and insurance.

Despite the positive history of cooperatives, the concept has become harder to "sell" in recent times. For better or worse, we have become a nation of individuals. The spotlight is directed on the self-made-man or -woman rather than the community to which he or she belongs. Job opportunities cause us to live hundreds of miles from our hometown, destroying the "community" of the past. In the modern mind-set, it just doesn't always seem practical to rely on others.

Two summers ago, at a workshop on crafts cooperatives, we learned about how craftspeople in other parts of the country had formed cooperatives to buy their supplies cheaper (in bulk), to publish catalogs, and organize their own craft outlets. What these crafters had done was exciting, but when it came to the bottom line — setting up a cooperative of our own in Pennsylvania — the idea seemed too basic, too old-fashioned.

Questions arose about commitment to the common goal:

- What if they drop the ball?
- What if they won't do a high-quality job?
- What if they take my customers?

It seemed that the cooperative was an idea whose time had come — and gone.

But is the idea really so out of date? In his recent book, "Guerrilla Marketing Excellence," J. Conrad Levinson states that "The strategic alliance is your solution for the 1990s and beyond. Businesses that flourish will not be independent firms or one-man-band enterprises. They'll be dependent firms that need one another to prosper. Look for cooperative endeavors with suppliers, competitors from your own area or distant areas, businesses with the same personnel. Success and growth will belong to teams and not to players. Consider everyone you deal with on a business basis as your partner, as a potential ally for a strategic alliance."

In a few words, the "new" idea for the 1990s is forming a cooperative.

Two weeks ago, a group of young people learned in a very concrete way that cooperation does work as they gathered at the Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives' Summer Institute at Shippensburg University. During a period of four days rich with work and play, the teens took on leadership roles in cooperatives that they formed, using the vehicle of working together to sell products and services to their fellow students.

Through their "mini-co's," they were able to see how everyone's strengths, combined, and their joint efforts toward a common goal reduce the individual's contributions while getting the job done right. The projects did not suffer, but were enhanced by the action of a group working together. Many hands did make light work.

Now, if we could only teach the adults the same lesson . . .

Corn On Its Way

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Cool, wet spring weather has slowed down many of Pennsylvania's vegetable crops, include the all-time favorite — sweet corn.

Abundant supplies of fresh, locally grown sweet corn are expected this season, but they will likely be a little later than normal. Traditionally many growers aim at supplying Pennsylvania sweet corn for the Fourth of July holiday or shortly thereafter.

"Wet weather in the early spring prevented growers from planting their early crops on schedule," said Fred Funk, chairman of the Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program. "And even when they did get the seeds in the ground, there was insufficient warmth to push crop growth."

The current warm weather coupled with abundant moisture, however, has brought the corn crop along quickly. There should be a good harvest for the season providing favorable conditions continue.

The key to good sweet corn is freshness. The sugar in sweet corn rapidly begins turning to starch within hours after being harvester. Refrigeration slows this process, but the sooner corn is eaten after harvesting, the better.

Many growers are growing sugar-enhanced or super-sweet varieties that genetically have more sugar in the kernels. Some of these early sugar-enhanced varieties were developed at Penn State University. Because they have more sugar to begin with, they can be stored for longer periods and still have acceptable sweetness. But many old, standby varieties, when purchased freshly harvested, have distinctive flavors that some people say can't be beat by the newer varieties.

An example is Silver Queen corn, for 25 years a favorite variety of white corn. It has set the standard which white corn varieties are measured against. Many newer white varieties have been introduced that yield better and supposedly have better flavor, but some still claim Silver Queen is the best.

Others prefer the bi-color varieties which have both white and yellow kernels on the same ear while others maintain that only yellow corn has a true corn taste. The preference for color appears to be regional as well as personal.

Summer Fun At Baker Farm

LORETTA GOLDEN
Cambria Co. Correspondent

LORETTO (Cambria Co.) — While most students in the area have been enjoying summer vacation for a little more than a month, some are probably already complaining "I'm bored ... there's nothing to do." This obviously isn't the case for the Baker children who live on a dairy farm near Loretto in Cambria County.

Amanda, age 9, Gabrielle (Gabbi), who is "6, almost 7," and Jebadiah (Jeb), "5 and shy," are the children of Larry and Patti Baker. All three are students in the Penn Cambria School District and while they enjoy school they admit that "summer is fun!" There's always something for the kids to do at the Baker Farm. With the variety of animals and pets at the farm, their mom says that they have a regular "petting zoo."

Goats help to keep the grass trimmed and the geese keep the garden weeded pretty well. There are ponies for the children to ride, and pigs and cows in the barn which need attended to. Chickens and guinea fowl are also part of the barnyard menagerie. When the children tire of being active with the bigger animals there's always a kitten or rabbit to cuddle up with or a dog who wants to play.

Mandy, Jeb, and Gabbi with "Ginger" their goat. Ginger's favorite spot is here near the calves because she knows that there is an ample supply of food nearby.

Jeb cuddles a rabbit. His mom, Patti, is a 4-H Rabbit Club leader.

A hot day — Gabbi enjoying herself on a tire swing suspended from a tree branch.

Amanda is the only one of the three Baker children who is old enough to participate in the 4-H program. She is a member of rabbit club and dairy club and has her own calf this year. The calf's name (this week) is "Thunder" and Amanda's goal is to "show" Thunder is this year's Cambria County Fair.

Because the family has such a flair for the raising of animals, their mom, Patti, got the family involved in raising a Yellow Labrador Retreiver as a future leader dog for the blind. This dog's name is "Baker" and he is three months old. "Baker" was picked up at a special school in Rochester, Michigan and will live with the family for approximately one year.

During his year with the family, "Baker" will become accustomed to many things such as slamming doors, traffic noises, vacuum cleaner noises, slippery floors, active children, and so forth. He'll live in the house and go places with the family such as to church, school, the grocery store, and maybe even to McDonald's.

All three children take a good bit of the responsibility for "Baker." They are helping to housebreak him, groom him, and take him for walks. When the year is up, the Baker children know that the puppy which they love so much must return to the Leader Dog School for the Blind and they know that they'll be sad to see him go. In the meantime, they are giving him a lot of tender loving care and enjoying his companionship.

If your family is interested in participating in the Leader Dog for the Blind Program, please contact your local Extension Office, local Lions Club, or local Association for the Blind.

Baker is a Yellow Labrador Retriever in training as a leader dog for the blind. The Baker family has taken on the puppy's first year in training and socialization as a 4-H family project.

Fashion Revue Contestants Weave Fabric Of Success

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Seventy-four top seamtresses from Adams, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Lancaster, Lebanon, and York counties modeled their latest creations at the Capital Region 4-H Fashion Revue held in Harrisburg on Tuesday evening.

From this group, nine contestants were selected to continue on to state competition to be held at University Park on August 6-8.

Contestants are judged on modeling skills in addition to the outfits that they have spent months stitching, ripping, and restitching. The sewing projects included a wide array of fashions from summer jumpers to elegant gowns and even a tuxedo.

Pennsylvania is divided up into regions made up of six or more counties. Contestants must first win at the county level before advancing to regional competition. The regional winners then advance to state competition.

Senior gold ribbon winners in the Capital Region who will go on to state competition held at University Park on August 6-8 include the following:

• Amy Bernard, daughter of Frank and Elizabeth Bernard of Quarryville, stitched a wool ensemble. The plaid side of her reversible double-sided wool jacket features a plum contrasting collar and cuffs. The reverse side has front pockets with double topstitching accents. Leather clasps unhook to transfer the closures to the other side. Underneath is a wool tweed-lined vest and lined wool crepe pants with front pleats and an elasticized back waist. Amy will be studying at Hesston College, Kansas, in the fall.

• Lee Brandt wanted to attend his senior prom so he decided to make a tuxedo for his final 4-H sewing project. The 100 percent wool suit features satin lapels, the waistcoat has a welt pocket and covered buttons. The pants have front tucks, welt pocket and a satin ribbon down each leg. The brocade vest features a satin lapel and covered buttons. The cotton and polyester shirt features 24 tucks designed by Lee. Finishing off the outfit, Lee made a satin bow tie. A recent graduate at Palmyra High School, Lee will attend college in the fall.

• Michele Corman modeled the same pattern her aunt had made in 1974. She chose a polyester crepe to construct her semi-fitted dress and coordinated contrasting vest. Michele is 16-years-old and will be a senior at Big Springs High School in the fall. Michelle is president of the 4-H Clover Stitchers and a member of the Cumberland County's Livestock Club, and Big Spring's FFA chapter.

• Heather Frost expressed her individual style by making a western outfit. The bright white cotton blouse features a yoke and three tiers of ruffles. She worked each buttonhole by hand. Her eight gore, black skirt gently flares to mid-calf length. Each seam is accented with a silver concho. Heather is homed schooled in

Frederick Holds Farm Safety Camp

KAREN BUTLER
Maryland Correspondent

JEFFERSON, Md. — Sixty-seven children attended a Farm Safety Day Camp sponsored by the Frederick County Farm Bureau here recently.

This was the third year the County Farm Bureau has sponsored the camp, which was held at the 4-H Camp Center. The camp is geared for farm youth aged 8 to 13.

Local farmers, business people, and emergency service personnel came to share their expertise with the youngsters. Lessons were presented about safety around tractors and other machinery, sun protection, lawnmowers, fire safety, farm ponds, animals, and being home along.

Jane Smith, chair of the Frederick County FB Safety Committee, started innovative camp three years ago, and it has grown in popularity each year.

Mehrl Ramsburg, a Utica farmer who lost his arm in a PTO accident in December of 1989, talked on tractor safety. It was snowing and the dairyman was filling a silo with some late corn when his sleeve was caught up in the PTO shaft, pulling him in and severing his arm at the shoulder. Ramsburg gave a graphic demonstration of the split second it takes for an accident to happen using "Annie," a life-sized doll.

"All of you think what you'd do tomorrow if you woke up and you had only one arm," he said to the children in a heartfeld testimonial. Most accidents occur when you are tired, in a hurry, and take shortcuts, the youngsters were told. They were also urged never to beg for a ride on the tractor and not to bypass factory installed safety equipment.

The ABCs of sun safety were covered by Jane Smith. Mrs. Smith herself fell victim to skin cancer, yet was fortunate enough to have been treated in time and recovered.

"A" is for away — stay away from the sun from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., when its rays are most intense. "B" is for block — use a sunblock with a high sun protection factor, or SPF if you must be in the sun during peak hours. The higher the SPF the better. "C" is for cover — cover up with a T-shirt, a hat, and long pants to avoid exposing your skin as much as possible when working outdoors.

"What are the two parts of your body that will grow back if you cut them off?" Curtis Lawson, of Lawson's Outdoor Power Equipment asked the children.

The answer? "Your hair and fingernails. Fingers, toes, and hurt eyes are not replaceable," warned the guest speaker on lawnmower and outdoor equipment safety.

People spend about 25 hours a year mowing the grass, but it only takes 20 minutes a year to prevent an accident.

Some of Lawson's tips for safe mowing include checking the lawn for objects that the mower could pickup and shoot out, using a sharp blade, and filling the fuel tank before starting rather than when the mower is hot.

Always wear eye and ear protection. Wear work boots instead of sneakers. Mow a hill or bank side to side, instead of up and down like you would on a tractor; if you go up and down and the grass is wet, you could slide underneath the mower.

A good way to tell if it is dry enough to mow grass in the morning is that if your feet get wet when you walk in the grass, don't mow; wait until it dries up.

Jim Morgan, a firefighter and paramedic from United Hose Company, talked on fire safety. He stressed the importance of having smoke detectors in the home and of checking the batteries regularly.

Carbon monoxide detectors can also save lives, and could be especially important if a family is using a fireplace or woodstove. "Stop, drop, and roll" were the instructions given to the youngsters in case they were on fire.

James Summers and Richard Yinger, members of the Woodsboro Rescue Company dive team, donned air tanks and wetsuits to talk about farm pond safety. Although the water in the swimming pool at the 4-H camp center was clear, the two said they often must go in muddy water, or where plants and algae grow, making seeing very difficult. They cautioned the children not to take unnecessary risks around water and never to go in water alone.

A unit on animal safety was presented by Dr. Steve Derrenbacher. The farm vet said that one out of every six injuries on a farm involves an animal. Bulls are especially dangerous. Never trust a bull or go near a bull alone, and always carry something to protect yourself, Derrenbacher warned.

Other advice he offered was to be especially cautious around mother animals with babies — they can be vicious. Never put yourself in a situation where an animal can corner you in a stall.

Be very cautious on horseback. Many animal related injuries involve falls from horses. Finally, never touch a dead animal or one that is acting sick or strange. Instead, use or a fork or shovel if you need to move a smaller dead animal.

Deputy Todd Crum from the Frederick County Sheriff's department spoke on being home alone. He warned the youngsters not to let visitors know if they were home without an adult. Saying, "My mother can't come to the phone right now" is a better idea then letting the caller know you are alone in the house, according to the deputy.

Fashion Revue Contestants

Cumberland County where she is a member of the 4-H Horse Club.

• Melissa Holloway of Lancaster County stitched an unique and original hand-woven vest and lined, linen skirt for her ninth year sewing project. Melissa selected various fabrics, trims, and ribbons in weaving the vest. For the back of the vest and skirt, Melissa chose cotton-linen teal. The shoestring tie on her skirt and the frog closure on her vest are the same medium used in the vest.

• Elizabeth Klaassen of Lancaster County modeled a short, lightweight, linen dress, which she made for her ninth year in sewing. Her fitted dress is fully lined with an invisible zipper and hook and eye closure. A black and white plaid was used for the bodice. Elizabeth is involved in acting in the Ephrata Area Community Theater and won honors this year for outstanding achievement in acting in Pennsylvania. Her other activities include rifle team, gymnastics, and church youth group.

• Tanisha Seibert stitched a formal cranberry satin gown featuring a basque waistline and an illusion neckling created with the allure stretch mesh. Tanisha's fully-lined gown is accented with 48 covered buttons, various bridal appliques and lace. Her biggest challenge was dyeing the allure stretch mesh, bridal loops, appliques, and lace. The process took about four days to complete. Tanisha, who is from Lebanon, has been in 4-H sewing club for eight years.

• Terri Seibert, a sister to Tanisha, is in her tenth year of sewing. Terri selected chiffon fabric for the lined formal dress featuring bias shoulder straps, front princess seams and a flared, front pleated overskirt. She accented her dress with textured silver buttons and a scarf of the chiffon fabric. Terri graduated from Lower Dauphin High School.

• Angie Whitcraft modeled a gray button-front jumper with a V neckling and front and back darts. Angie's calf-length jumper has upper and lower mock welts and back ties. It is made of rayon polyester blend plaid. Angie is a graduate of Susquehannock High School in York County where she was a member of concert, marching bands, class council, and National Honor Society. She will attend Shippensburg Universtity in the fall.

HAPPENINGS

4-H Fashion Revue Results

Forty young people representing seven 4-H clubs participating in clothing and textile science projects attended the 1996 4-H Fashion Revue on Friday, June 28, at Ware Presbyterian Village, Oxford. This year's theme was "The Fashion of Success!"

In addition to the judging of their hand-made garments, pillows, and tote bags, 4-H'ers attended a modeling workshop and a crafts workshop, played cooperative games, and shared intergenerational activities with the senior residents at the Village.

Judging again was difficult this year as the 4-H members presented their excellent projects. The following were the winners in the novice categories: first year champion Karen Windle of Octorara and reserve champion Julie Moore of Wilmington; second year champion Cassandra Loeffler of West Grove and reserve champion Christopher Grover of Phoenixville.

In the junior category, winners were Michelle Brown, Kara Brown, Meghan O'Leary, and Alyssia Church of West Chester, and Heather Scotland of West Grove. Alternates were Lauren Bezlia of West Chester and Julia Grover of Phoenixville.

Senior winners were Kristina Futty of Oxford, Sheri Gibson of Atglen, and Jennifer Wilson of West Chester.

Public Invited To Show At 4-H Fair

Have you ever been recognized for being a great sewer, quilter or canner? Do you enjoy baking or crafts? Is your vegetable garden overflowing with vegetables?

The Montgomery County 4-H Program invites you to show off the results of your hard work by exhibiting at the Montgomery 4-H Fair. Any Montgomery County resident may enter an item in the "open classes" at the 4-H Fair, which takes place August 15-17.

Although it's a few weeks away, it's not too early to start planning your entries now! There are dozens of classes in baking, sewing, crafts, vegetables, flowers and more.

There are even some different classes this year: The "Largest Tomato Class," judged by weight; the "Largest Zucchini Class," judged by size; the "Largest Sunflower Class," judged by flower diameter; "Largest Watermelon" (by weight); "Largest Crook Neck Squash" (by weight); and "Most Grotesque Vegetable."

All items must be submitted for judging at the 4-H Center on Tuesday, August 13 from 2-8 p.m. only. Please mark your entries with complete name, address and phone number. All projects need to be picked up on Saturday, August 17 at 4:30 p.m. at the conclusion of the Fair.

DIETARY HABITS

Dietary likes and dislikes, along with many eating habits and patterns, have their roots in a person's early years.

That's why childhood is the right time to encourage healthy eating habits for a lifetime. Sensible snacking is a good eating habit to foster. In general, children who snack have better dietary intakes than children who don't snack.

Nutrition is a family matter. You can teach your child that nutrients are the building blocks for our bodies. To keep our bodies strong and healthy, we should eat several serving of these different types of foods each day:

- Milk, milk products, yogurt and cheese: (children under 10: 2-3 servings; Ages 11-24: 3 or more servings)
- Protein-rich foods like meat, fish, poultry, dry beans, eggs, and nuts (2-3 servings)
- Fruits (2-4 servings)
- Vegetables (3-5 servings)
- Breads, cereals, rice and pasta (6-11 servings)

To this diet, it's okay to add other favorite foods that children may particularly enjoy. Teaching children that there is a place for all foods in a healthy diet is an important lesson in sensible eating.

Start teaching children that portion size is an important part of healthy eating. This can be done in a very natural way. You can show portion size by preparing your child's plate and children will become used to seeing reasonable servings of various foods. Naturally, serving sizes will be smaller for children. Also, avoid forcing children to clean their plates.

Team snack foods with other nutritious foods to encourage children to appreciate a variety of different tastes. For example, ice cream topped with fresh fruit or peanut butter on carrot strips are all good, tasty snacks to try.

Look for ways to include children in food preparation. Here are some examples:

- Prepare simple food like salads. Let the child tear the lettuce.
- Set the table. Adults may want to place the knife on the table.
- Serve or pass cold foods.
- Help with cleanup.
- Put leftovers away.

Start to teach your children basic nutrition information. When you are in the kitchen together, talk about the food you are preparing, where it comes from and how we prepare and cook it. A good place to begin is a discussion of food that comes from plants and food that comes from animals.

Let children help prepare their own snacks. Fruit kabobs, homemade granola and popcorn are all fun activities kids will love.

Risk-Taking Prof Wins Award

NEWARK, Del. — One crisp winter day, a prospective student and her parents encountered a puzzling scene as they toured the College of Agricultural Sciences at the University of Delaware.

Peeking into the landscape design studio, they saw the class members of basic landscape design working as a team to lift Professor Gary Smith over their heads and across an imaginary wall.

Smith chuckles at the memory, "I'm sure that high-schooler and her parents had to be a little confused."

What the visitors were watching was a team-building exercise that Smith had planned with the help of professionals from the College of Athletics. They also were witnessing a risk-taker at work, a teacher committed to challenging the assumptions and expectations of his students.

This charismatic and engaging 39-year-old, who favors khakis and denim for his work wardrobe, willingly goes out on a limb when he teaches — setting aside lesson plans and agendas when the occasion calls for it; using storytelling and other novel learning techniques; and doing team-building exercises, such as the imaginary wall climb, to foster cooperative learning.

An associate professor of landscape design in the department of plant and soil sciences, Smith sums up his teaching philosophy in one short phrase: "flexible and innovative."

Another way to sum it up would be "award-winning." Smith's fresh, imaginative approach to teaching has earned him the 1996 Excellence in Teaching Award, a distinguished honor bestowed on just four UD professors annually.

"I have a mission to draw attention to two things that we as a culture don't give enough attention to," said Smith, taking a short break in his comfortably cluttered office. "First, I want to foster a strong sense of caring for our planet and, second, I want to promote individual creativity.

"As a teacher and as a landscape designer, I try to achieve those goals in everything I do."

But creativity won't flourish if you're afraid to make a mistake, and Smith said that many of his students exhibit a deep fear of failure.

"Somehow, somewhere, they got the notion that failure is really bad," said Smith. "I think I'm a good model for them. I show them that it's okay to take risks.

"For example, recently my students flagged out the locations for 450 wildflowers in the UD Botanic Gardens. There was real potential for error in such a large undertaking, but we carefully made our plans, and then I took them out in the gardens and let them at it.

"These students are accustomed to working in the hard sciences where objectivity is paramount," said Smith, "but I help them see that there are no absolute answers in this field. Landscape design involves very intuitive and subjective ways of looking at the world."

Smith's way of looking at the world and caring for the planet have earned him kudos in the landscape design community. After an undergraduate degree from UD and a master's degree from the University of Pennsylvania, Smith owned a successful five-person design firm during the 1980s. He also began teaching part time at Penn during this period, and by 1989 had made the decision to join the UD faculty and "get my message out more widely through teaching."

But Smith continues to design for a wide range of public and private gardens, greenways, and urban landscapes. He has developed master plans for such locations as the Delaware Memorial Bridge greenway, woodlands at Tyler Arboretum, Buena Vista and Belmont Hall state conference centers, and, most recently, Peirce's Woods at Longwood Gardens.

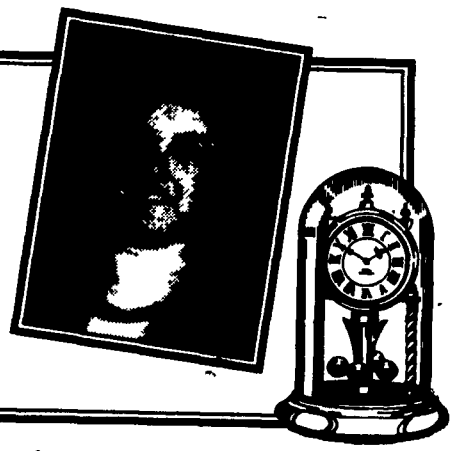
Taking Time by Rebecca Escott



When I worked as a counselor at a summer camp, we used to always celebrate "Christmas in July." It was a great excuse to see the holidays in a new light and to do some unusual activities that are just not possible in the wintertime.

Even though the winter holiday season is five months away, now is a great time to talk with family and friends. Think back to last November and December. Were you complaining about the rat-race? The large expenses? Now is the time to rethink your plans for this coming year.

While you are together with family and friends at picnics and summer reunions, take some time to discuss the holidays. Make decisions now while everyone can adjust plans and expectations. Consider family decisions about: where to hold the family gathering and who will attend; how many gatherings to attned on THE holiday; how much money to spend on gifts per person (or maybe to change the whole gift exchange expectation); which traditions to bypass, which to bolster. Is your house getting too small to hold the extended family? Are you physically not up to cooking all the food? Should your family use the $75 you normally spend on greeting cards and stamps in another way? Giving these decisions some consideration with a few months lead time is very healthy. Creative altneratives abound when families work together and combine ideas and resources.

Unfortunately, families often make decisions too late in the year or they forget to discuss the choices together, and relatives end up having hurt feelings or gatherings are awkward because people were acting under differing sets of expectations. With some early, deliberate communication, you can build wonderful memories and reduce the stress associated with the holidays.

One goal that I have is to try to enjoy a season of celebration rather than focusing on only one or two important days. I have found that I cherish the one-on-one time with friends. Sometimes a huge family gathering, where everyone attends, lacks these moments of good conversation. Yes, it's nice to have everyone there for the picture or to distribute gifts one at a time, or to visibly demonstrate that the family is still connected, but in my opinion, there are other ways to meet these needs that may cause families less stress.

Remind family members who don't have young children that respecting a child's normal nap time and eating time makes for a better day for everyone. Visits may need to be short. I always like to suggest meeting for a mug of hot chocolate in late January as an alternative for those who are not available in December. In fact, for parents with young children, the best gift you may give them is to excuse them from the formal meal in December and instead provide much-needed respite care for their children a month later. You get quality time with the youngsters and they get a guilt-free break.

If you're the kind of person "who buys their gifts for the following year in January, finishes their sewing in July, addresses their cards on summer vacation, and freezes cranberry bread in September," then maybe you don't really see the need for these kinds of conversations. But guaranteed, some less organized, less amply-funded person in your family is probably longing to have some relief! You can make a difference for everyone by starting the conversation. It may seem awkward, but it will truly be a gift to all involved.

Remember some of the best memories of the holidays have little to do with preparations. They revolve around the spontaneous conversations, smiles, songs and stories as family and friends share together. Those memories can happen whether the gift cost $5 or $50. They can occur whether the gathering is an evening dessert or a full-course meal.

Now is the time to rethink the holiday madness and make some positive choices for yourself and your family.

Joy Hess Carries On Family Tradition In Adams County

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — She bounds in from the morning barn chores, spends a few minutes cleaning up, then heads for the kitchen and pours herself a glass of milk.

What else would you expect a dairy princess to drink?

But meanwhile Joy Hess is talking about her life, answering questions, and the pouring of a glass of milk appears to be such a regular part of her routine that she never even gives it a thought.

Joy Hess is a natural when it comes to her newest responsibility, as comfortable speaking to the public about the dairy industry as she is milking two of the Hess family's 3-X herd shifts per day. Of course, she's had plenty of experience at both, as the youngest in a family totally devoted to the dairy industry and the fourth Hess sister to reign as Adams County's Dairy Princess.

Joy, 18, is a 1996 graduate of New Oxford High School. She has no plans to continue schooling, because Joy is already doing exactly what she wants: milking cows and promoting what they produce.

Since the age of eight, when her oldest sister Jennie decided to attend college, Joy has been a regular milker in the JoBo family operation. The Gettysburg area dairy farm is owned and operated by John and Bonnie Hess, along with several of their five children and some of their children's spouses.

"My parents didn't make me; it was my own decision," she remembers as announcing as a youngster that she was going to help with milking. Then, she adds with a grin, "My teacher thought it was awful that I was getting up so early in the morning to milk."

"Our parents have never told us what we have to do," she is quick to credit. "But they've always been supportive of our choices."

One of those choices, by Joy and her sisters Jennie Hess Brown, Josie Hess Risser and Jayne Hess Sebright, was to compete for the crown of Adams County Dairy Princess. As each of her three older siblings fulfilled her year of princess responsibilities, Joy has literally grown up with dairy princess activities. Dairy princess programs are a true commitment for this entire family. Joy's booking agents for her events are her mother and her sister-in-law, Jayleen Yoder Hess.

"So I know it takes a lot of work to be a princess; that made me want to reach for it more," she acknowledges.

Joy was crowned as the highlight of Adams County's annual pageant, held June 21 at the Cross Keys Diner. Her alternate princess is Katie Ramsburg. For her required presentation, Joy wrote and gave a speech entitled "Got Milk? What If The Answer Was 'No'?"

That speech idea took root in the wake of one of the popular "Got Milk?" commercials. When the commercial ended, her mother made an observation about what people would do if there really was no milk. Joy immediately saw the possibilities.

While she is familiar with, and plans to continue, dairy promotions for young and elementary age children and those for senior centers, Joy wants to focus on reaching out to consumers of her own age.

"My friends in school didn't understand about cows and the dairy industry; but once they found out what I did, they were really interested," she relates. "One friend of mine used to help here on weekends; and during the week, she would often ask about particular cows. When others heard us talking, they would ask a lot of questions about the cows and what was happening on the farm.

"I think our dairy promotion programs have taught a lot of people about nutrition. Now we need to be encouraging consumers to be supportive of the dairy farmer and the dairy industry. I think people would like to know more about the dairy farmer and the whole industry," she continues.

Joy saw an interest and enthusiasm about dairy education from the public when JoBo Farms was a host for the Adams County Farm-City day two years ago. Over one thousand visitors toured their tidy, sprawling facility, and asked endless questions about dairying. That experience further cemented her beliefs that the public craves information about production agriculture.

"People seem to like to have that hands-on contact with farms. It's a lot of work to have something like that; but you have to work hard at anything if you want to get something from it," is her philosophy.

Another upcoming promotional event Joy is looking forward to is the popular Adams County Dairy Promotion committee's Ice Cream Extravaganza. The annual Extravaganza will be held Sunday, July 14, beginning at 2 p.m., at the Gettysburg Recreation Park. Attendees can fill up on ice cream at very special, inexpensive prices, while visiting a petting zoo, meeting the dairy princess and enjoying an afternoon in the park.

Along with her promotional events, Joy is employed full time at JoBo Farms, milking the 7 a.m. and 1 p.m. shifts for the family's 230-head milking string of registered Holsteins and Brown Swiss. She also raises the calves, handles registration and paperwork, and on occasions lends a hand with field chores, like raking hay.

"I like working in the barn, and I've always liked animals. They don't talk back to you. It's peaceful working there," she smiles of her preference for dairy herd work.

Joy is also participating in her last year as a 4-H member. She has always enjoyed working with show cattle and owns 22 head of Brown Swiss and Holsteins, exhibiting in 4-H, FFA and open shows. JoBo shows both breeds at local and district levels, and exhibits Brown Swiss at Harrisburg All-American competition.

An accomplished cattle judging team member, Joy was part of both the Pennsylvania state 4-H and FFA teams last year. With the 4-H team, she attended and judged at World Dairy Expo, placing first in the Holstein breed, sixth in reasons and tenth overall.

In her rare moments of spare time, likely to be ever more scarce with her promotion responsibilities, Joy likes to find a quiet place with a pencil and sketch pad. She puts her artistic talents to use in various ways, including a farm sign she presented her parents as a Christmas gift, with a Brown Swiss and a Holstein cow she painted on it. Joy is already pondering ways she can include her artwork designs in the scrapbook she must compile as part of the state dairy princess competition.

As that pageant gets under way in late September, it's a sure bet that Joy hess will have her own cheering section — including a whole family team of former Adams County Dairy Princesses who've walked that runway ahead of her.

Joy Hess made it as a four-sister-sweep when she was chosen to wear the crown and banner as the 1996-97 Adams County Dairy Princess.

4-H'ers Participate in Somerset County 4-H Foods Revue

Sixty-six 4-H members competed Tuesday, June 18, in the 1996 4-H Foods Revue contest. This is the 25th year for this competition in Somerset County.

The purpose for this part of the 4-H foods and nutrition program is to help 4-H'ers apply nutritional information in preparing a meal as well as developing talents of graceful entertaining.

The overall category for this year's competition was "Fruits & Vegetables." Winners included Senior Division: Snack/Appetizer - Tara Hottle; Salad - Missy Miller & Casey Svonavec (tie); Main Dish - Mindi Countryman & Jessica Pucci (tie); Dessert- Heidi Svonavec & Minday Cochran (tie). Junior Division: Snack/Appetizer - Rebecca Shaffer; Salad - Megan Hottle; Main Dish - Melissa Schrock; Dessert - Paula Maust.

Judges for the event were Carla Croyle, Somerset Hospital Marriott Corporation, and David Dayok, Somerset County Vo-Tech food service instructor. The 4-H leader committee for this event included Mrs. Stella Beeman, Mrs. Cindy Walker, and Mrs. Gale Hay.

This contest is open to any 4-H member enrolled in a foods project and is sponsored by the Somerset County 4-H Development Fund, Inc.

Also held was a foods and nutrition quiz bowl contest. 4-H foods leader Mrs. Caroll Pucci prepared this contest to introduce local 4-H members to foods judging. This contest will be held on a statewide basis at State 4-H Days in August. Last year Somerset County 4-H'ers placed first in this statewide competition.

Game Booths Wanted

Local community service organizations, home and school groups, and other nonprofits are invited to participate in the Montgomery County 4-H Fair by setting up a game booth during the 4-H Fair, scheduled for August 15-17 at the 4-H Center, near Skippack.

The 4-H Fair is very family-oriented, non-commercial, and attended by close to 5,000 people over the three days.

4-H would like to offer community groups the opportunity to make money for their organization and at the same time add additional entertainment for families at the fair. All that is asked is that the group make a small donation to the 4-H program, which helps to offset the cost of running the 4-H Fair.

Organizations may charge a nominal fee to play their game and keep the profits. The game must be family-oriented (no betting), award small prizes for winners, and must be pre-approved by the 4-H staff. No individual entrepreneurs may participate and no food may be sold — strictly games.

The hours for game booth operation are Thursday — 7-9 p.m.; Friday — 11 a.m.-9 p.m.; and Saturday, 9:30 a.m.-3 p.m.

If you are interested in participating, please contact Helaine Brown, 4-H agent, at (610) 489-4315, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

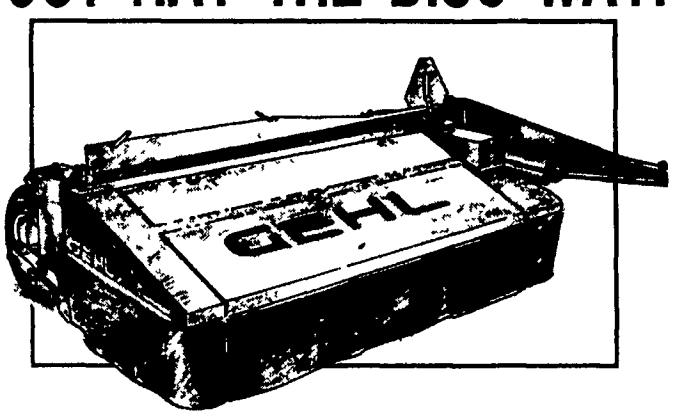
GEHL®

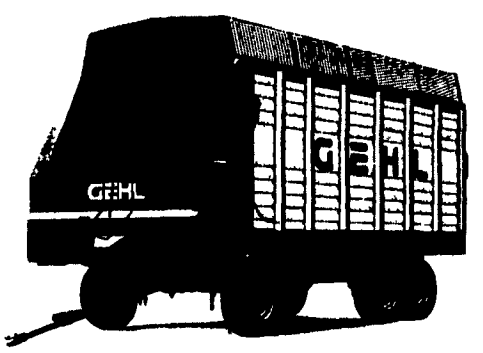
CUT HAY THE DISC WAY!



Gehl has two all-new disc mower conditioners to cut your crop down to size, fast and easy. The DC2340 has 7 discs and a 9 foot cutting width; the DC2360 has 8 discs and a 10-1/2 foot cutting width.

- High speed discs – Each disc has two knives to slice through the toughest crops and conditions; the disc gear drive operates in an oil bath for long life.
- Sturdy frame – Cradles the cutterbar for extra protection and durability.
- 540 or 1,000 rpm driveline with equal-angle hitch for smooth power transfer.
- Standard hydraulic tongue – Makes it easy to position the unit without leaving the tractor seat.

YOUR BEST FORAGE BOX VALUE



Gehl's new BU980 Self-unloading forage box has been redesigned for improved performance and durability. Features include:

- True variable-speed drive for infinite unloading speeds.
- Single lever control.
- Improved beater design.
- Stronger drive chain and reinforced roof.
- Standard highway light package.
- Optional folding 18-inch conveyor extension.

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know whom to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

QUESTION — Kathleen Eby, Paradise, wrote and told us that she and her husband are attempting to put together a 1930s-1940s kitchen in their home. They've been lucky in some respects (were able to obtain a stove, refrigerator, and small appliances) but have hit a "road block" on some items that they thought would be easiest to locate. The Ebys are in search of General Electric (GE) glassware or "refrigerator-ware," which are clear glass refrigerator dishes that were available to be used with the Monitor Top Refigerator. The tops have the GE logo cast in them (at full size, it usually takes up the entire lid). They come in different sizes, most either square or rectangular.

QUESTION — Mrs. Zimmerman, Manheim, wants to know the address of Petals Magazine. She is also looking for other good craft magazines.

QUESTION — June Pontius, Sunbury, wanted someone to make for her boy and girl Amish dolls about 20 inches tall. She is also looking for information about ribbon outlets.

QUESTION — Debra Derstine, Mapleton, wants to purchase an old record of the John F. Kennedy family. She said it was an amusing recording when he was in office. Please respond to her at RD 1 Box 1203, Mapleton, PA 17052.

QUESTION — Vickie Mowery, Chambersburg, wants to know where to purchase a Surge Dairy Maid 15-gallon electric water heater. Please call them at (717) 532-3736.

QUESTION — Mrs. Don Boshnaugle, Columbia, wants to purchase a few old elementary reading books used in the late 1930s and early 1940s, such as the "Dick," "Jane," "Sally," "Baly," "Spot," and "Little Mew" series. It's a basic pre-primer.

QUESTION — C. Grodmann of New Hampton, N.Y. wants to know where to purchase fast-hitch attachments to an old Farmall C tractor. Contact him at (914), 374-2602.

QUESTION — Agnes DeFonde, R.D.2, Box 319, Portersville, PA 16051 would like to purchase a machine for shelling peas.

QUESTION — Gregory Badger, Collegeville, enjoys planting wildflowers. He would like a source to purchase seeds for Lance Leaf Coreopsis (Coreopsis Lanceolata), which are a brilliant yellow and long stemmed daisy-like flower.

QUESTION — Virginia Haines, Tabernacle, N.J., would like instructions for making eggs look like wood. She saw it demonstrated on television but didn't hear the amount of vinegar and water nor did she get the address so she could write to them for the recipe. She said that a flower or design is put on the raw egg and wrapped in nylon stocking pulled tight with a twister. Let it cook slowly in onion skins for four or five hours. She writes that the eggs are beautiful and look just like wood and will last a lifetime.

QUESTION — Jerry Johnson, Herndon, would like to know where to purchase light blue with white pinstripe beanie caps with a short bill. They are used under hardhats and welding hoods. The denim-like material is similar to an engineer hat but in a beanie style.

QUESTION — Leona Spangler, P.O. Box 41, Spring Mills, PA 16875-9419, would like to buy a copy of "Searchlight" cookbook and a Rumford cookbook, which were printed between 1930-1940. Other cookbooks from that era are also welcomed.

QUESTION — June Kummerer, 1505 Kummerer Rd., Pottstown, PA 19464, is looking for books on bobbin lace; how to make it, where to purchase bobbins, and a book "Beginners Bobbin Lace," and everything else on the subject.

QUESTION — J. Hykes, 321 E. King St., Shippensburg, PA 17257-1424, is looking for old photographs of Christmas trees, which were taken before 1950.

QUESTION — M. Stoltzfus from Maryland would like to raise turkeys, chicks, or other fowl for a company or person. Who should he contact for information?

QUESTION — J. Loren Yoder, Belleville, would like information about three different milk bottles from the following: Weaver's Dairy of Malvern; Spicklers Dairy of Elizabethtown, and Supplee-Sealtest Dairy Products.

QUESTION — A Reinholds reader would like to purchase a used flat beater and 12-quart bowl for a Reynolds Electric Company commercial mixer serial number C37129.

QUESTION — Mrs. Cindy Eshleman, R.D.3, Box 7957, Jonestown, PA 17038 would like to correspond with anyone who has or has had a child with selective mutism (children who won't speak to adults other than their parents).

QUESTION — Betty Sterner had a set of 12 plates limited edition 1979 Franklin Mint Porcelain by Peter Banett, but the January plate broke. Can anyone help her find a plate to replace the broken one?

QUESTION — Frances Krall, Myerstown, is looking for a craft book with directions for five-strand rug braiding.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

My husband really enjoys going to our camper in Snyder County. He and his brother spent two days there last week. They put the boat in two different lakes but even so only caught one fish. A lady friend of ours said that then the trip was not worthwhile. However, for those two men, I'm sure it was as they shared experiences from long ago.

They enjoyed a picnic with other folks from nearby hunting camps and had the pleasure of driving through the mountains. How many deer they saw I don't know but I'm sure they had fun looking for wild animals.

Sometimes we forget how important it is to spend time with relatives and friends until it is too late. A friend of ours died very suddenly and hundreds attended the funeral. How pleased he would have been to see some of those people during a visit at his home.

I too have put off visiting until it was too late. Ironically, my schoolmate of long ago died on the very day that I came to visit her. What a sad day!

Our extended family has a picnic every summer. The gathering was started some 40 years ago to honor the birthday of two men and then continued after their death. The first celebration was held in our meadow along the Conestoga River. At that time we had sheep instead of cows to pasture the land and they kept the grass very short. Now we gather in a community park to visit.

As we have a bit more free time now, we've tried to visit some friends who are in nursing homes. Old age can be a lonely time.

SPENT HEN UTILIZATION

Paul H. Patterson
Assistant Professor
Dept. of Poultry Science

Not so long ago buyers would bid for mature spent laying hens as a source of natural flavoring for certain processed poultry soups and meat dishes.

Because of the growth of the broiler industry with plentiful broiler breeder hens as well as broilers, spent hens have been largely replaced by broiler stocks for this market.

The spent hen processor quickly learned that breeder hens were a more economical product to use due to their higher meat to bone yield. Any lack of flavoring was quickly remedied with artificial products.

While no one answer will handle every situation, there may be some alternatives provided at the upcoming National Poultry Waste Management Symposium. The symposium, held every two years, will be held in Harrisburg, Pa. on Oct. 21-23.

One of the key production sessions is devoted to "Mortality and Spent Hen Disposal." Nationally recognized authorities will address various opportunities that should help the table egg industry with this problem, including "Experiences and Challenges Using Spent Hens for Mink Food," "A Local Renderer's and the National Renderer's Association Perspective On the Spent Hen Issue," and "Handling Spent Hens on the Farm."

Dr. Bruce Webster from the University of Georgia will cover the last topic, "Handling Spent Hens on the Farm" and will introduce a system for humane flock disposal. A preliminary report of this work was made at the International Poultry Exposition in Atlanta, Ga. in January.

To access the available spent hen options, egg producers need a way to kill flocks on the farm that is quick, easy, economical, and above all, humane. A modified atmosphere killing (MAK) unit was developed at the University of Georgia for just this purpose. A cart was designed to go between cage rows in a commercial hen house with cart dimensions of 54-inch long x 20-inch wide x 39.5-inch high and an interior capacity of about 21 cubic feet.

Hens drop down into the main body of the cart from top spring-loaded doors. A 20-pound CO_2 cylinder is mounted on one end of the cart and connected to a system of PVC tubing so the CO_2 gas is delivered at two levels within the chamber. An unloading door with a piano hinge along the length of the cart opens up the lower ⅓ of one side and the sloping floor allows carcasses to slide out.

The MAK unit allows hens to be killed directly from the cages. Prefilling the cart with CO_2 is preferred so that the first birds entering the bird compartment are stunned rapidly. Loading to a capacity of 250 hens takes about seven minutes. With a final flush of CO_2 at the end of loading, the killing process continues as the cart is rolled out of the house. In normal use it is possible to kill approximately 1,500 hens with each 20-pound cylinder of CO_2.

Most cost information and details about Dr. Webster's MAK unit for handling spent hens will be presented at the symposium. For more information about the National Poultry Waste Management Symposium (or mortality and spent hen disposal), please call the Penn State Department of Poultry Science at (814) 865-5573.

Schnecksville Fair Has Record Year

SCHNECKSVILLE (Lehigh Co.) — With entries totaling close to 1,500, the 1996 Schnecksville Fair will go down in the record books as one of the best.

New to Schnecksville this year were chickens. More than 200 chickens were on display for the public to see and hear.

Best of Show in the chicken entries went to Joshua Minnick, New Tripoli. His birds were part of his 4-H Project.

In the other animal species the following were best of show winners:

- Goats: best doe in show, Teresa Christman, Kempton.
- Dairy: supreme champion, Stacey Dietrich, Germansville
- Swine: supreme champion, Calvin Lazarus Jr., Germansville sponsored by New Tripoli Bank, Lisa Sell, Schnecksville; and youth Hershey contest, Jennifer Intrepido, Nazareth

Gratz Sets Show

GRATZ (Dauphin Co.) — Another weekend full of activities has been planned for the Gratz Area Antique Machinery Association 4th Annual Show July 20-21.

The show will begin at 10 a.m. with a parade through Gratz. The event will continue on the Gratz Fairgrounds after the parade and will include displays of antique farm machinery and equipment, trucks, cars, and toys. Farm toys, flea market, and craft items will be available for sale.

Exhibitors will be able to set up on Friday, July 19. Any exhibitors wishing to participate in the parade through town are asked to arrive and be prepared to line up no later than 9 a.m. Saturday to facilitate parade organization.

Tractor games, threshing, and baling are planned throughout the show. Saturday activities will include antique tractor pulling contests at 4 p.m. and live entertainment at 6 p.m. provided by the Wolfe family. Please bring a lawn chair.

The Gratz Area Fire Co. No. 1 will have its food stand open both days. There will be a worship service Sunday at 9 a.m.

The feature tractor will be Cockshutt/Co-Op and the feature gasoline engine will be New Holland.

Admission is $1 and parking is free!

New Cooking Contests Added To Allentown Fair

As the world's athletes prepare for Atlanta, it's time for area farmers, gardeners, crafters and cooks to get on their annual olympics, the competitive exhibition at The Great Allentown Fair.

This year's premium list booklet, which details entering procedures and categories, is available at the fair's main and box offices.

Summer Heat Requires Extra Livestock Care

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. — As summer temperatures soar, the Livestock Conservation Institute (LCI) is urging caution to those who handle or transport livestock.

"This is the critical time of the year for transporting livestock," said Glenn N. Slack, executive director of LCI. "Common-sense procedures should be followed in reducing the risk factors relating to moving animals in extreme temperatures."

Each year 80,000 hogs leave the farm but never reach market, according to "Livestock Trucking Guide," a LCI publication authored by Dr. Temple Grandin of Colorado State University. She points out that livestock death losses often double on hot, humid days.

Cattle losses aren't as great, but heat and humidity can increase shrinkage (weight loss) and stress, reducing an animal's ability to fight disease and even affecting reproductive performance.

That translates into dollar losses for livestock producers. But it doesn't have to, explained Crandin, a long-time member of LCI. She says some common-sense precautions can help livestock producers avoid the deadly consequences of heat and humidity.

Among Grandin's hot-weather tips:

- During hot weather, livestock should be hauled at night or early morning
- Instead of straw, use wet sand or wet shavings for bedding
- Remove grain slats from farm trucks to provide more ventilation
- Open nose vents for ventilation
- Load and unload promptly. Heat will build up rapidly inside stationary vehicles
- For hogs in particular, sprinkle the animals with water before loading.

But, cautioned Grandin, don't pour cold water on an overheated hog. This could cause shock to their system.

To help livestock producers understand the dangers of heat, LCI produced a Livestock Weather Safety Index which breaks down the heat-and-humidity levels into three categories: alert, danger and emergency. It tells which combinations of temperature and humidity are most dangerous for livestock.

Widely used, the index has played a key role in reducing death losses in the livestock industry. Much of the work in developing the index was done by a former LCI staff member, Jim Rosse, three decades ago. Rosse recorded the number of hogs that were dead in trucks when they arrived at the Omaha Stockyards. He plotted that against the temperature and humidity and developed the index.

Rosse got immediate satisfaction from his work. He said, "We cut death losses by half by getting the index out and pointing out to shippers what the dangers were."

In addition to the Livestock Weather Safety Index, LCI has produced a number of publications, including "Livestock Handling Guide" and "Livestock Trucking Guide," which address the dangers of heat and humidity. LCI also offers instructional videos on the proper handling and transportation procedures for swine and beef and dairy cattle. For more information about these educational resources, call LCI at (502) 782-9798.

Horse Meeting Set

GERMANSVILLE (Lehigh Co.) — The Lehigh Valley Horse Council will hold a regular meeting and lecture on Monday, July 22, at Alister B. Arabian, Germansville, and will start at 7:30 p.m. The topic for the evening is handling horses under 2 years old to be presented by Bruce Lashiusa. Lachiusa had an article featured in a recent "Practical Horseman." The public is welcome to this free lecture and meeting.

The Lehigh Valley Horse Council was formed in 1980 as an aid to the horse owners of the Lehigh Valley and surrounding areas. It has offered regular lectures on a bi-monthly basis, which are free and open to the public, and publishes a yearly horseman's directory distributed throughout the area.

Anyone wishing further information concerning the LVHC or one of its meetings is welcome to contact (610) 837-7294 or (610) 767-7346.

livestock, home products, vegetables, flowers, domestic and fine arts, photography and more. So that promising tomato plant, favorite needlepoint, or old family recipe at home may just need a little nurturing or finishing touch to win recognition.

Dollar prizes that correspond with the awarding of placement ribbons range from $1 to $40, depending on the category. For culinary expertise, however, larger carrots are dangled. The corporate-sponsored special contests, which are described in the premium list but have separate applications for entry, offer either substantial prize money or gifts.

The heftiest reward this year is for the fair's first-ever cooking on site contest — the Clorets Chili Cook-Off, outdoors at the fair's Farmerama Theater. The first place chili champ, an individual or team of two, wins $500, second place $200, and third place $100. The judges will not only be looking for the best chili, but the best cooking presentation which could include table decorations, costumes, or whatever entrants believe will set their entry apart.

This contest is the feature attraction of Clorets "Labor Day Picnic" at the fair hosted by WFMZ FM radio station and Channel 69 TV. A big band, Bob Bear's Now and Then, will perform on the Farmerama stage from 3-6 p.m. Monday, September 2 while the competition is taking place.

Every day of the fair, running August 27-September 2, a unique culinary contest is hosted by radio station WLEV in Ag Hall. Two new contests have been added this year. The Pillsbury Refrigerated Pie Crust Championship invites entrants to create a flavorful, two-crust fruit pie using the product. First prize is $125 and a gift, second $75, and third $50.

Also debuting, the Redi-Base Soup Contest allows cooks to devise their best soup recipe using the product. First, second and third place winners receive a gift plus $100, $50 and $25, respectively, and fourth and fifth placers win a Redi-Base gift pack.

Two of the contests, Land O Lakes Sour Cream Quick Bread and "Best Spam" Recipe, are state-level competitions with winning recipes forwarded to national test kitchens. Placing entries at the fair win up to $100.

The national Land O Lakes winner will receive $500 and a year's supply of products. The Spam national finalist will win a $2,500 shopping spree at the Mall of America in Minneapolis, Minn., plus airfare and two nights accommodations for two.

The locally operated Clover Hall Vineyards and Winery will repeat its "Cooking With Wine" contest. Entrants may prepare an appetizer, entree or dessert with gourmet flair. A $100 gift certificate to the Clover Hill shops will be awarded to the first place winner. Second and third placers will win $50 and $25 value wine gift baskets.

Area bakers can fire up their ovens for the remainder of the special contest offerings. In their second year at the fair, Pampered Chef independent kitchen consultants will offer prize packages of cooking utensils up to $100 for the top three original cookie recipes.

The Softasilk "Championship Cake" award winner can take home $100 and an engraved cake stand for baking the best iced-layer cake using Softasilk flour. Second and third place winners will receive an apron and $50 and $25, respectively.

And for chocoholics, Hershey returns with its "Greatest Cocoa Cake" contest and a youth contest "Greatest Cocoa Cookies, Brownies & Bars," for entrants ages 8 to 18. First place winners go to the Pennsylvania Farm Show in January, where they will compete for a weekend at a Hershey resort.

Premium lists and applications for the special contests can be picked up at the fair office behind the Ritz Barbecue on the Allentown Fairgrounds at 17th and Chew streets from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. They are also available at the fair ticket office from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturdays. For more information, call (610) 433-7542.

Agway Unveils New Feed Line

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Agway has introduced a comprehensive line of bagged feeds for horses, livestock, poultry, and specialty animals.

The new family of feeds includes specific feeds developed for each stage of an animal's life and is designed to make selecting the appropriate bagged feeds easier than ever before.

A unique feature of the feeds is the freshness dating found on each and every bag. Customers will find this "freshness guaranteed to . . ." date stamped on the gusset of each bag. It ensures optimum product quality. All of the feeds also come with a 100 percent satisfaction guarantee.

"The 'Family of Feeds' approach was created with the needs of the customer and animal in mind," said Kent Ure, Agway director of ag marketing. "We've developed the widest breadth of nutritionally sound and proven livestock feed products available, but we also simplified the purchase process by providing extensive product information and feeding recommendations on each bag."

Agway stores will feature an informative feed display that includes nutritional details and easy to understand feeding recommendations for the 64 different feeds developed for horses, chickens, game birds, turkeys, sheep, goats, hogs, and dairy and stock cattle.

In addition, a feature "feed of the month" will be at the end of each display providing in-depth information and detailed product brochures.

Lube Choice Makes Difference

SUPERIOR, Wis. — Your choice of lubes makes a difference to your farm's bottom line. Some last longer than others. More importantly, some help equipment last longer and perform more efficiently. Which lubes lower your costs and increase the life of your equipment?

Synthetic lubricants do. Though they cost a little more upfront, the savings they give you in fuel, downtime, equipment life, and lube replacements more than makes up the difference.

Which brand should you try? Pick one with a track record. Take Amsoil, for example. Amsoil formulated and marketed the first synthetic motor oil in the world to earn an API rating — that was in 1972.

Amsoil synthetic motor oils have been proven to increase fuel economy as much as eight percent in over-the-road engines, both gasoline and diesel. And, time and again, these rugged oils hve been proven to provide double, triple and even longer drain interval service. Most importantly, used oil analysis consistently shows they deliver the wear control necessary for maximum engine life.

Amsoil synthetic hydraulic/transmission fluid is a real money-saver for farmers. By reducing tractor hydraulic/transmission temperatures 20° to 50°F, it increases the life of hydraulic/transmission components, particularly hoses. Plus, the durable fluid commonly gives farmers two to three times the drain intervals they're used to. It also surpasses equipment manufacturer wet brake chatter control requirements by as much as 56 percent.

Bagger Handles 1-Ton Bales

Designed to handle large one-ton high-moisture or dry square bales, the MR802 is fully self-contained and self-propelled.

WARRENTON, Ore. — New from Ag-Bag International Limited is the square bale bagger. Designed to handle large one-ton high-moisture or dry square bales, the MR802 is fully self-contained and self-propelled.

Featuring a wide bale loading platform to accept a wide range of bale sizes, the square bale bagger has adjustable height control, for lifting and lowering the machine in all terrains, and a tow tongue, which slides in and out to adjust while bagging and can be repositioned for towing.

Using two paddles the machine stretches the Ag-Bag® Tri-Dura™ Flex Bags oversize to allow the bales to pass through. The special Ag-Bag® Tri-Dura™ Flex plastic is formulated with a memory so that as the bales pass through, the plastic shrinks back tight against the bales. Designed with Tri-Dura™ for added strength, these bags are available in 8-foot or 9-foot diameter and 150-foot lengths.

Ciba Seeds To Market Soybeans

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Ciba Seeds announced its introduction of five new Roundup Ready ™ soybean varieties.

Growers will be able to order these new varieties for the 1997 planting season.

In 1993, Ciba Seeds entered into an agreement with Monsanto, maker of Roundup® herbicide, to acquire access to the gene that, when inserted into a plant, provides soybean plants with tolerance of the herbicide. Monsanto recently informed Ciba Seeds that Ciba's performance date meets all of Monsanto's criteria for approval.

"Soybean growers now have another weapon in their arsenal for controlling tough weeds in problem fields," said Gordon Johnson, Ciba Seeds' soybean product manager. "And to further assure the grower of receiving top performing soybeans, our Roundup Ready™ soybeans will be treated with Apron® to help protect them from soil borne diseases such as pythium and Phytophthora root rot."

Johnson said the new Roundup Ready™ varieties will range in maturity from late Group 1 to mid-Group 3, and will have a new three-digit numbering system preceeded by the letter "R."

"The new numbering and a new package design will help growers and Service Centers easily identify our Roundup Ready™ varieties from our conventional varieties," Johnson said. "The 1997 marketing program for the new varieties is under development.

Surge Introduces New Milking, Automation Package

NAPERVILLE, Ill. — The Surge OneTouch™ integrated stanchion automation package combines the primary milking functions with key cow-side management information.

The One Touch is a compact, lightweight, hand-held unit that combines the milk line and pulsation system connections into a single unit, eliminating the clumsiness associated with other stanchion automation devices.

It's easy to operate and reduces the labor and stress involved during milking. It's compact and lightweight, yet built with the rugged durability needed for stanchion barn operations.

The OneTouch is available in three models. The first model, the basic platform, incorporates milk line and pulsation system connections into a single unit.

Further information can be added with the new Timekeeper II™ end-of-milking indicator module. This module signals the producer when the cow is finished milking and displays the time it takes to milk on a cow-by-cow basis. This feature allows a producer to significantly reduce the total milking time of the herd by earlier indication of when individual cows are milked out.

The milk yield indicator module adds the milk yield function to the end-of-milking and milking time functions. The milk yield is displayed throughout the milking operation, showing individual cow production. Total milk produced for all cows milked with OneTouch can be accessed throughout milking session.

'Ziggity Systems Announces Donahoe Retirement

Brad Donahoe

MIDDLEBURY, Ind. — Ziggity Systems, Inc. announces the retirement of Brad Donahoe as general and marketing manager, a position he's held for the past seven years. He will continue his affiliation with Ziggity as an adviser and a member of the board of directors.

Throughout his 45-year career in the livestock and poultry industry, Donahoe has held sales, marketing, and general management positions with U.S. Steel, Starcraft's Livestock Equipment Division, and Chore-Time Equipment.

Gehl Names Chairman

William D. Gehl

WEST BEND, Wis. — The board of directors of Gehl Company has elected William D. Gehl as chairman of the board.

Gehl continues to serve as president and chief executive officer of the company, positions he has held since joining the company in November 1992.

Gehl Company (NASDAQ: GEHL) is a manufacturer of equipment used worldwide in construction and agricultural markets.

'Shave Off' For Worthy Cause

HATFIELD (Montgomery Co.) — Sanford (Sandy) L. Alderfer, president of the Sanford Alderfer Auction Company, gets a shave by Barber Larry Frederick of Souderton after auction customers donated more than $3,000 to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Tennessee.

St. Jude's is the largest childhood cancer research center in United States. Sandy has worn his beard for all but two weeks of the last 26 years, but offered to shave it for a worthy cause.

The National Auctioneers Association, of which the Alderfer Auction Company is a member, has adopted St. Jude's as its official charity. To make a donation to St. Jude, call Steve Leinbach at the Alderfer Auction Company, (215) 393-3000.

Hines Equipment along Route 22 West at Cresson is located on the same land where it began three generations ago.

Brothers Gene and Ed Hines' grandfather built the original farm implement business on farm land given to him by his father-in-law.

In 1965, Gene and Ed took over this sales and service business which caters to customers with an 800 number and an answering service for after hours orders.

Now into the fourth generation, Gene's son, David, is the parts manager at the Cresson store.

A feed store is run by son, Dennis, in Cresson.

No-Till Cropping Systems At Field Day

HOLTWOOD (Lancaster Co.) — New cover crop options, a Buffalo rolling stalk chopper for managing cover crops, and a no-till vegetable transplanter will be demonstrated on Wednesday, July 24 from 1-3 p.m. here at Steven and Cheri Groff's farm.

The development of new equipment and cover crops have opened up additional cropping system options for vegetable growers interested in conserving and improving the quality of their soils.

The use of cover crops and no-till transplanting vegetables can help farmers reduce soil erosion, which averages nine tons per acre in Lancaster County. It can also cut costs. Production costs on the Groff farm for no-till transplanting tomatoes into a cover crop mulch were $500 per acre lower than for tomatoes grown on plastic last year. Based on his positive experiences with the no-till transplanter's capability to function with cover crop residues in 1995, Steve Groff has continued to experiment with different cropping systems and methods for managing the cover crops.

Steve used the rolling stalk chopper when 25 percent of the hairy vetch plants were flowering in May. There was very little regrowth on the vetch, even though no herbicide was used. The hairy vetch and rye formed a thick vegetative mulch into which he no-till transplanted tomatoes. The mulch suppresses weeds, conserves moisture, and serves a source of nitrogen for the tomatoes.

Last fall Groff made an experimental planting of AU Early Cover, a newly released hairy vetch that flowers about 10 days earlier than the common hairy vetch. This is the first time this variety was grown this far north — thus the winter hardiness of AU Early Cover is unknown. It survived the winter on the Groff farm with no evidence of winter kill.

At the field day, the rolling stalk chopper will be demonstrated in a planting of German millet and forage soybeans. Broccoli will be no-till transplanted into this cover crop residue. Dr. Abdul-Baki, who developed this cropping system at the USDA-ARS Beltsville Agricultural Research Center, will discuss his experience with this system. The no-till vegetable transplanter is provided for vegetable growers by the Keystone Chapter of the Soil and Water Conservation Society.

This is Groff's second year experimenting with cover crops and no-till transplanting. This work is sponsored by the Regional Infrastructure for Sustainable Agriculture (RISA).

In addition to the no-till vegetable cropping systems, the field day will also feature work Groff is doing with 15-inch silage and grain corn production. Steve has observed a decrease in weed pressure with narrow-row corn. This year he is also finding less grass pressure in the area of the field where narrow row corn was planted in 1995. The increase in nutrient uptake by narrow-row corn in being monitored by Robert Anderson, Lancaster County cooperative extension agent. Groff will be measuring yields of replicated plots of silage and grain corn grown on 15- and 30-inch rows. The on-farm research with narrow row corn is supported by a farmer grant from the Northeast Region Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education Program.

The use of new cover crops, expanding no-till methods to horticulture crops, and growing corn on 15-inch rows are methods Groff is using to build on the conservation ethic practiced by his parents. The farm has a long history of practices such as contour strips and grass waterways. Some fields have been in continuous no-till production for 13 years. The practices demonstrated at the field day are additional methods to minimize erosion, reduce the use of pesticides, and produce high quality crops without sacrificing yields.

Md. Has Pesticides To Combat Tomato Blight

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley has announced that the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has granted the Maryland Department of Agriculture's request for a specific exemption from registration to use three products to control late blight disease of tomatoes.

The fungicides are cymoxanil, dimethomorph and propamocarb. When late blight is detected, these fungicides will be available to combat a disease that has become increasingly severe and has caused significant crop losses to growers throughout the country.

For example, in 1995 the disease caused considerable damage to tomato crops in New Jersey. Losses in some states have been greater than $10 million per year for the past four years. Fungicides currently registered with EPA are not effective against several new strains of the fungus that causes late blight.

"We anticipate that late blight disease could be prevalent on tomatoes in Maryland in 1996, if conditions are favorable for fungus to develop. The use of these additional fungicides will help us control the disease and prevent devastation of our state's tomato crop," Riley said.

"I urge all Maryland tomato growers to find out more about late blight disease from their county Cooperative Extension Office or from the Office of Plant Industries at the Maryland Department of Agriculture. Our goal is to protect the state's tomato crop as effectively and as safely as possible. MDA scientists will help farmers identify the disease on their crops," said Riley.

The Pesticide Regulation Section of the Maryland Department of Agriculture will ensure the proper use of these three products to prevent the destruction of Maryland's tomato crop valued at more than $3 million per year.

For more information on the use of these products to protect against late blight disease of tomatoes, contact your county cooperative extension office or Anne Sindermann, Plant Protection Section, Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401, (410) 841-5920.

Buffington Steps Down As Department Head

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Dr. Dennis Buffington resigned as head of Penn State's Department of Agricultural and Biological Engineering. He will remain at the university as a professor of agricultural and biological engineering.

In his new role, Buffington will conduct education and research programs in agricultural systems management. "I'm particularly interested in exploring opportunities in energy management," he said.

"The way Pennsylvanians purchase power and energy will change tremendously over the next several years, and there will be a need for research and education to enable agricultural producers, food processors, businesses, and rural and urban citizens to adjust to and benefit from these changes."

Buffington joined Penn State as department head in 1985. "The past 11 years have been tremendously satisfying, both professionally and personally," he said. "The outstanding caliber of our faculty, staff, and students has helped the department achieve many objectives in strengthening our teaching, research, and extension programs."

Buffington's tenure as department head coincided with a number of changes in the profession, in the College of Agricultural Sciences, and in the Penn State system. "I have seen an increased emphasis on undergraduate education,' he said. "Our department focused on modifying curricula at both the undergraduate and graduate levels."

As a result of those efforts, a new undergraduate curriculum in agricultural and biological engineering was approved by Penn State's Board of Trustees earlier this year. Buffington said he is looking forward to the opportunity to work more closely with undergraduate students as a professor.

Buffington also oversaw a change in the department's name, from agricultural engineering to agricultural and biological engineering, in 1990. "The name change reflected something that had already happened in the department," he said. "We have never abandoned any aspect of agricultural engineering, but we expanded our programs to include more biological dimensions."

Buffington also is considering a sabbatical leave to study the social impacts of agricultural production and processing practices. "I believe it is very important for agricultural and biological engineers to evaluate the social implications of our activities and to understand how society's needs and agriculture's needs can more fully complement each other."

Buffington came to Penn State from the University of Florida at Gainesville, where he was professor of agricultural engineering and graduate coordinator for that department. He is known for his research in agricultural structures and computer modeling for agricultural applications and environmental modifications.

He received his doctorate in agricultural engineering from the University of Minnesota in 1971. He earned his master's and bachelor's degrees in agricultural engineering in 1966 and 1970, respectively, both from Penn State.

Buffington is a member of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, the American Society for Engineering Education, and Alpha Epsilon, the national honorary agricultural engineering fraternity.

Kleiner Becomes Director

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — William Kleiner has been named county extension director for Penn State Cooperative Extension in Adams County. Kleiner succeeds Tom Piper, who retired after a 40-year career with cooperative extension.

As county extension director, Kleiner will be responsible for extension programs and personnel in Adams County. He also will continue his role as an extension agent with responsibilities for developing, implementing, and evaluating educational programs for fruit producers in a multicounty area that includes Franklin, York, and Adams counties.

Kleiner is assisting in the development of computer technology and Internet-based information for commercial fruit producers. He also has helped initiate pesticide container recycling and has established many orchard research and demonstration plots.

Kleiner joined Penn State Cooperative Extension in 1981 as an agriculture and 4-H agent in Lackawanna County. He served in a similar role in Clearfield County before coming to Adams County in May 1988.

He earned a bachelor's degree in horticulture and a master's degree in plant pathology, both from Penn State. He has received many professional awards, including the Ciba-Geigy Crop Production Award. Kleiner has coauthored several publications related to fruit production and helped produce Penn State's "The All-American Apple" video.

Kleiner is a graduate of the Pennsylvania Rural Leadership Program and continues to serve as a group facilitator. He also participated in the Volunteers in Overseas Cooperative Assistance (VOCA) project in Brezna, Poland in 1993.

Shelled Corn
Poured Concrete
No Used Silos!
No Rebuilt Silos!
No Preowned Silos!!

The Summer and Fall of 1995???? The extreme heat, the early dry-down of the corn crop, and then the rapid rise in corn prices? And those corn prices are having a dramatic effect on your profits in 1996.

"THE NEED FOR QUALITY FEED AND GRAIN STORAGE IS GREATER TODAY THAN AT ANY TIME IN RECENT HISTORY!"

How can we help to make sure that you get a quality corn storage unit constructed before the expected rush in August and September?

Give us a call to discuss early discounts, financing, and unloader options.

Before spending a lot of money to dry, store, handle, and transport your corn crop, you will do well to consider the many advantages of a poured concrete silo to store and protect your valuable corn.

Also, by storing hi-moisture shelled corn (about 25% moisture), you save field losses, and increase digestibility.

ACME — The Power Behind Environmental Control

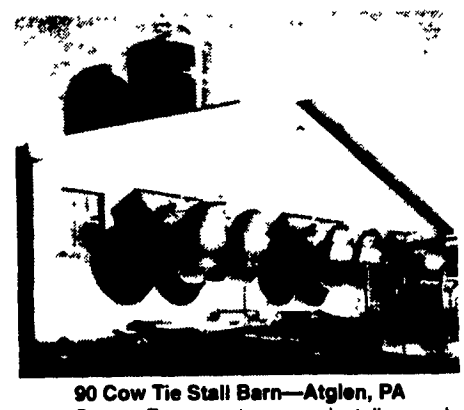
Breeze Master



90 Cow Tie Stall Barn—Atglen, PA

Lapp's Barn Equipment can install a high-performance/high efficiency tunnel ventilation system in your barn. A tunnel ventilation system will give you an even air flow throughout your barn of 2-5 mph. This gives you the advantage of better controlling temperature to give your cows more comfort which means more milk!! Also, a tunnel ventilation system eliminates circulating fans, provides summer and winter ventilation and controls fly problems! An optional unit can even automate your ventilation so you will never even have to worry about it when you're not there, so you can concentrate on other things!
At Lapp's, we sell high quality ventilation systems manufactured by Acme Engineering. Acme products feature such things as:

- Galvanized Construction
- Wide Cambered Propeller
- Riveted Blades
- Unique Captured Bearings
- Vertical Support Frame
- Screens Pre-cut
- Totally Enclosed Motors
- Optional Discharge Diffuser Cone
- Optional Belt Tightener

JAMESWAY — DIRECT X-PRESS SYSTEM

NEW BELT FEEDERS & CONVEYORS

Big Capacity Delivery With All The Advantages Of Dependable, Efficient, Low Profile Direct Drive Design!

That's what farmers really appreciate about the new Jamesway family of Direct X-Press Feeders and Conveyors. All models feature a dependable and efficient heavy duty industrial drive, with enclosed oil bath and standard 1, 2 or 3 H.P. C-faced motors. Our direct drive design eliminates pulleys, jackshafts, sprockets chains, V-belts and shields, the low profile motor and drive can be mounted on either side for added installation versatility.

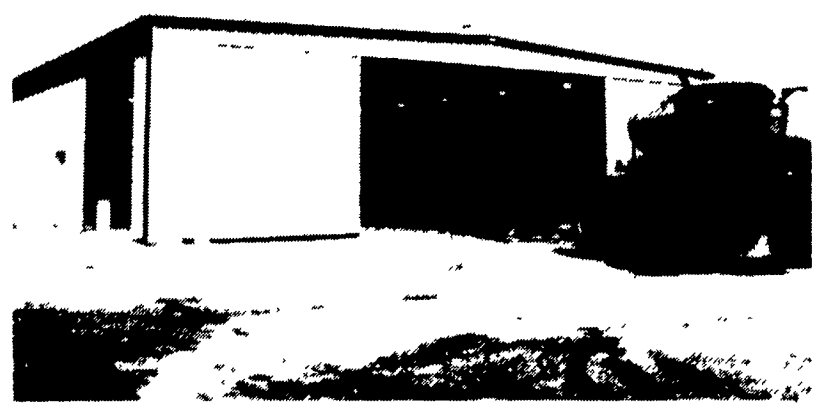
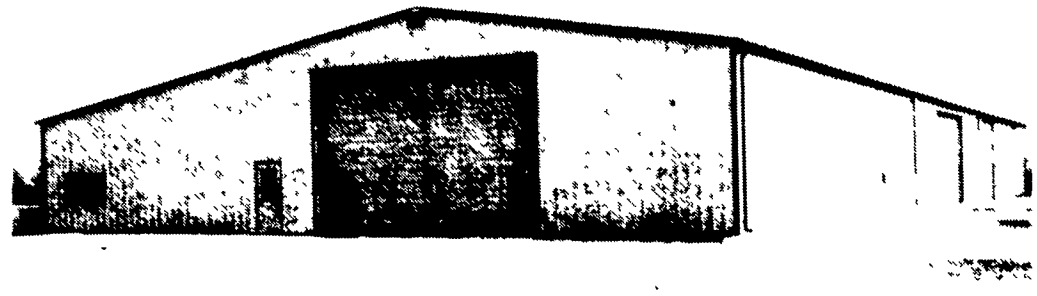
BUTLER™ RURAL-BUILDER

No matter what type of building you're looking for shop, retail store, community building or storage facility - we build durable Butler® rural steel buildings with attractive architectural appeal.

Butler shop buildings are built to give you years of high-use value, low maintenance and maximum comfort. Solid, practical design and rugged steel construction make Butler buildings durable and functional for years to come.

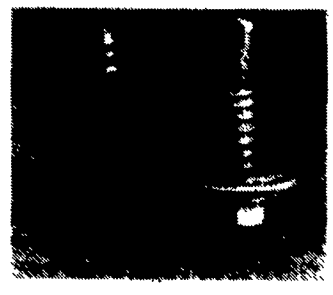




Outside: Your Choice

The appearance of your new building is a critical factor. You just tell us what you'd like and we can build it!

Our structural systems are designed to give you complete freedom in planing the size and shape of your building.



Products that Perform from the Building Systems Industry Leader

You can count on Butler to provide the best materials available.

For example, our standard exterior coating for painted panels is Butler-Cote® 500 FP finishing system, a full strength, 70% Kynar 500® & Hylar 5000® coating. Our coating will resist chalking and fading better than industry standard coatings.

Our fasteners represent another area where Butler offers more for your money. The Scrubolt™ fastener by Butler, available on the Butlerib wall and roof systems and the Shadowrib® wall system, is larger and more resistant to the pull-out forces of wind than industry standard fasteners.

If you are interested in any of the following buildings, please send us information on the checked.

MUELLER
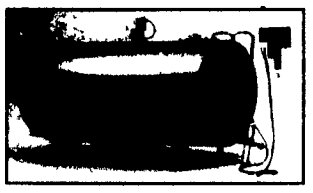
DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Scroll-Compressor Technology
New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment costs not the only cost of cooling milk

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk day for 10 years	$17,550	$22,850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48,550	$50,850
Savings	$ 2,300

LLAMAS LLAMAS LLAMAS

If you've been considering starting in llamas, or having a llama for a pet, why not stop in to see our herd.

Our young males start at $500, our weanling females at $2,500, our pregnant females at $3,500. A deposit will hold any of our crias (baby llamas) for you.

We prefer selling off the farm, rather than subjecting our animals to the stress of auctions.

All of our llamas are registered with the International Llama Registry. Some of the finest wool and blood lines can be found in our herd, including Otter Creek Harold.

Cut stall clean-out time by 50% with a Millcreek Compact Spreader.

EARL SINKS - Brock, Texas

Say "Good-Bye" to back-breaking manure handling and cut stall clean-out time in half. Hook an affordable Millcreek Compact Spreader to your 10 hp garden tractor, take it right to the stall for easy loading No more wheelbarrow.

Millcreek Spreaders last and last
Since spreaders are our specialty, we put more into each one. For example our 20-year guaranteed floor will never rust or rot. Positive chain drive provides excellent spreading action. And tough steel construction holds up to rugged farm use Seven sizes, for 1-horse barns to 50-horse stables. PTO and ground drive models available

At Last...
...a Boom Sprayer for multi-crop produce farmer that is affordable and will do the job from sweet corn to melon crops.

With features like...
- 24 ft. one-side boom that allows for 50ft. coverage between drive rows.
- Easy boom height adjustment from 2ft. to 7 1/2 ft. for sweet corn.
- Hydraulic leveling on the go allows uniform boom height from the crop.
- 280 PSI, 15 GPM diaphragm pump with power shaft for quick hookup.
- Adjustable wheel spacing and tongue height.
- Rubber mounted boom to absorb shock

With the high cost of chemicals, the right Sprayer is needed

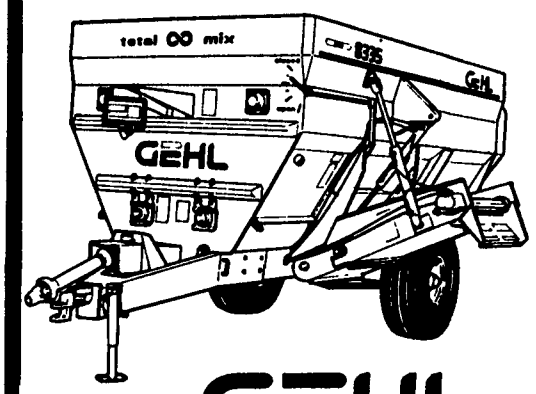
Gehl TMR Mixer Feeders Are #1



GEHL.

Nothing can maximize the return on investment in your dairy or beef feeding operation like a Total Mixed Ration (TMR) feeding system. And nothing makes TMR work better than a Gehl mixer feeder. Here's why:

- Better Mixing Action — Unique four-auger design creates a double figure-8 mixing pattern for fast and complete mixing of all feed ingredients.
- Energy Efficient — Planetary drive system requires less horsepower.
- Built To Last — Patented star couplers absorb shock loads by allowing the bottom augers to flex, providing long service life.
- Six Sizes — From 150 to 500 cubic feet mixing capacities
- Three Styles — Trailer type, stationary and truck-mounted units to fit your operation.

GEHL

A Revolution In Disc Conditioning

Available in 9 foot and 10½ foot cutting widths, both models feature:

High Speed Discs. Each disc has two knives to slice through the toughest crops and conditions: the disc gear drive is sealed in an oil bath for long life.

Full-width intermeshing rolls gently condition your crop for fast drying and maximum nutrient retention.

Standard Hydraulic tongue makes it easy to position the unit without leaving the tractor seat.

New Demonstrator 9 foot In Stock At Reduced Price. If You Are In The Market To Purchase A Disc Mower, Ask For A Demonstration Today.

New Holland Natural Fiber Twine --

Your Natural Choice For Round Or Square Balers

- Uniform thickness- no thicks or thins
- Entirely biodegradable
- Treated for mildew resistance
- Consistent tensile/ knot strength

■ A bale of New Holland natural twine always contains the exact footage shown on the label. This isn't the case with other brands. For instance, a bale of twine labeled 7,200 feet by another manufacturer may actually contain only 6,800 feet. This kind of inaccuracy could make a big difference in your production costs. And, in your profits.

NEW HOLLAND NATURAL FIBER TWINE

Feet Per Bale	Knot Strength	Gross Weight (Lbs.)	End Use Application	Sale Price!
7,200*	160	40	Square Bale	$20.79 per bale
9,000*	130	40	Square Bale	$20.79 per bale
10,000*	115	40	Square Bale	$20.79 per bale
16,000*	180	40	Round Bale	$22.80 per bale

(tensile strength)

What's the importance of the terms tensile strength and knot strength?

Tensile strength refers to the amount of resistance twine provides before breaking. But it's also it's also important to consider a twine's strength. That's because when twine is tied into a knot, its strength is reduced by almost 60%.

New Holland natural twine has enhanced knot strength because we use only specially selected high tensile strength fibers to provide you with the best possible knot strength. New Holland twine comes from Brazilian plantations where the leaves are hand selected and cut from the hardy sisal plant. We harvest only the mature leaves at the bottom of the plant because of their longer, and much stronger, fibers. This kind of careful attention continues through the entire twine-producing process. In fact, there are a series of progressive quality controls through the various production stages to ensure twine uniformity and high tensile strength.

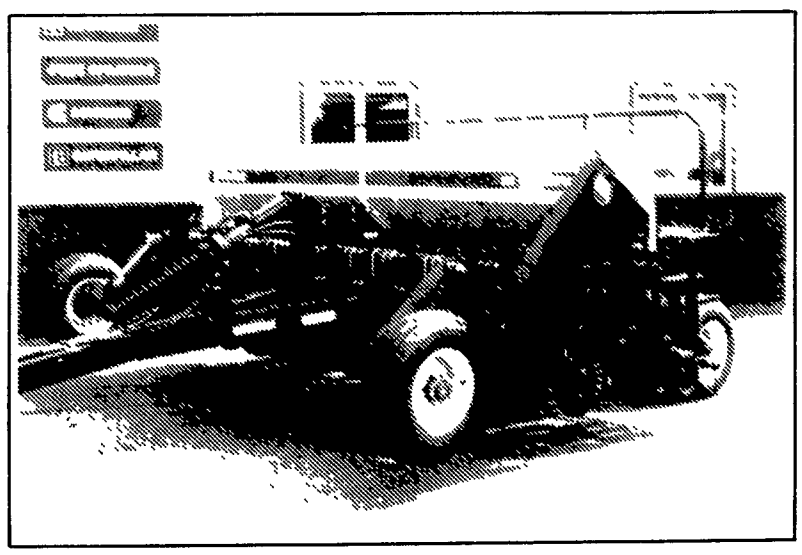
KRAUSE 5200 SERIES NO-TIL DRILLS

WORK ANYTIME, ANYWHERE



Some No Til drills work best when its wet and soft; some work best when its dry and hard. Krause 5200 Series No Til drills seed at the proper depth when the ground is soft and they will penetrate in the tough, heat-baked soil of mid-summer. And Krause's use of precision seed cups and smooth seed tubes place the seed evenly in the row for ideal growth and yield.

Compare with the Competition:

- 13' and 15' Seeding Widths
- Excellent Side Hill Stability
- Narrow Transport - No Wider than it Seeds
- Excellent Road Clearance
- No Wheel Tracks
- Very Competitive PRICE

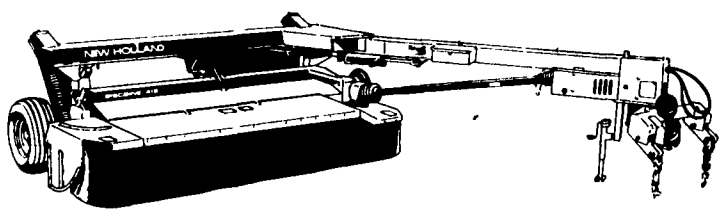
415 DISCBINE®



WIDE CUT- EVEN CONDITIONING

You'll love the wide-cutting performance of the Model 415 Discbine® disc mower-conditioner. Seven discs make an 11-1/2-foot cut through your toughest crops. And with the New Holland torsion-bar roll-pressure system, you get consistent conditioning even in uneven crop conditions. Plus, roll pressure decreases automatically to let slugs pass through.

Stop in and see the big performance of the "415"

ROUND BALERS & MOWER CONDITIONERS

IN STOCK

Designed for Performance...and your checkbook, the Hesston 530 Round Baler is a convenient-size baler to be used with a 30 PTO horsepower tractor. This baler produces high-density bales weighing up to 550 pounds. The direct-feeding open throat and vertical bale chamber give you fast bale starts and easy operation. Dual tension arms maintain uniform bale density from the core to the outer shell.
For round baler convenience and capacity, without needing more tractor power, take a look at the new Hesston 530

Round Balers Priced as low as $7,600

For the most flexibility, any other mower conditioner just won't cut it.

CLEAN SILO CHUTE

Innovative Design and Outstanding Performance combine to make this the premier system on the market.

Retrofits many existing chutes.
